NOTES FOR MARCH.

"Spring is coming! Spring is coming! Birds are chirping; insects humming; Flowers are peeping from their sleeping; Streams escaped from winter's keeping; Shout we, then, with Nature's voice, Welcome, Spring! Rejoice, rejoice!"

Care of domestic animals is a topic that is always timely. The appetite of beef cattle and mutton sheep that are designed for slaughter a few months hence, will appear to be sharper this month than it was at any time during the winter. Consequently, their daily allowance of meal should be increased.

See that ewes that will drop early lambs are not allowed to fall away in flesh, before grass is sufficiently large for grazing. If they are thin in flesh, let such be fed one pint of oats or oatmeal daily, with some roots, and a bountiful supply of hay.

Milch cows that will come in shortly require much care, lest they lose flesh. Let it be borne in mind that every pound of fat, or flesh, that a milch cow loses in the spring of the year will cost her owner more than the price of a pound of choice butter to replace.

Let calves be fed a pint of oat meal each day. Oat meal is excellent for all kinds of stock, as it contains a large per centage of nourishment. Calves that are dropped this month, whether they are to be raised or slaughtered, need a comfortable stall, well littered with straw. It is a shocking way to tie a calf to the fence, or in some cold and wet corner, where it must endure the cold, and be in its own filth. In order to rear a choice cow, or an extra bullcalf, it is essential to commence when the young animal first begins to live.

During the month of March there is need of exercising special care of brood mares that are expected to rear calves the coming season. One of the worst things for a mare with foal is to be required to stand tied, from day to day, in the stable. Such animals should have the advantage of a large yard for several hours daily, or be driven gently several miles regularly. There is no danger at all that light work and moderate driving will injure mares with foal; but harsh usage, drawing heavy loads, and worrying by rough drivers, will often prove to be their ruin.

See that sheep, which are not abundantly supplied with roots, have access to evergreen branches of pine or hemlock trees. When they can be allowed to go to the forest to browse, nothing is better for their health.

Ducks, in some instances, will begin to lay during the latter part of the month of March. Let them be kept from the pond of water until the latter part of the day, or until they have laid, as they are so exceedingly fond of the water they will not seek a nest, but will drop their eggs in the water, where they will be lost. As ducks lay large eggs, they require an abundance of rich feed, in order to produce an egg daily.— There is nothing better to make ducks lay than feed made of equal parts of Indian corn meal and unbolwed wheat flour, scalded, and made into mush, and mingled with milk, and fed warm.

It may be set during the latter part of the month. See that such hens have a comfortable place, where cold winds will not chill them or their eggs, when they leave the nest in quest of food.

Brood sows should be separated from the herd at least four weeks previous to the time of yearning, and have the advantage of a comfortable and dry sty, well littered with a few bushels of cut straw. Such animals should always have access to a yard, where they can come to the clean ground. Avoid feeding such animals too highly with concentrated food. A few apples or boiled potatoes will often prevent a morbid appetite for flesh, which induces some sows to devour their own pigs.— There is no danger that a sow will have such an unnatural taste for flesh as to induce her to eat some of her own pigs, if she has been properly fed and cared for in every respect. Whole grain, of any kind, is decidedly objectionable for a brood sow, as such feed often superinduces fever.

Painting agricultural implements can be attended to during the warm days of March. Sky blue is one of the cheapest, most beautiful and durable colors for painting the wood-work of all kinds of farm implements. But little skill is required to prepare such paint. Procure boiled linseed oil and a can of white lead. Purchase also about one-fourth as much liquid drier as oil. Then mingle three parts of boiled oil with one part of drier, and stir in powdered blue paint into the white paint until the desired shade is obtained. About two parts of white lead and one of blue paint will make a beautiful blue color. One dollar's worth of such paint will add many dollars to the value of a few implements. If the oil and drier are of a fair quality, such paint will become hard in a few days.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly renovate broken-down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening their appetites, cleaning the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases, such as LUNG FEVER, Glanders, Yellow Water, Rheumatism, Distemper, etc. It also increases the appetite, gives a glossy skin, and transforms the miserable skeleton into a sleek-looking and spirited horse.

PHILOSOPHY OF SHAKING HANDS.

An Exchange says: There is a philosophy in hand-shaking. It is an indication of character. It gives expression to the degrees in which you are appreciated or esteemed by another. There are a variety of methods of shaking hands, according to temperament, disposition or occasion.

Some seize your hand with a fervent grasp—no foot extended—and holding you fast with their own. Such is the salute of a jolly tar, ready to share the "last shot in the locker," with the stranger of the hour. Others, again, seize your hand with as much firmness, and may mean as well toward you; but they do not look directly toward you, but pass your cheek, with eyes steadily set as if looking for some undefined ghostliness beyond and seeming to converse with the same.

Others give too great a show of fervency to the salutation, causing your fingers to tingle with pain, you involuntarily glance at the injured hand, expecting it to have been compressed into one horrid, bruised, extended index finger—Others, again, akin to this exhibition of unseemly power, by wringing your hand up and down a sort of intimidation that they are about to "pump" you!

A few come so close to you that you can feel their breath upon your cheek, others seem to be experimenting on the greatest distance at which the salutation can be exchanged. Some defiantly offer you the tips of their fingers—it means either that they consider themselves superior, or that they are not disposed to be especially gracious. Others, again, take your whole hand, even endangering the immaculate whiteness of your wrist-bands.

The most agreeable shake of the hand is that meaning, welcome grasp, warm but not painful in pressure, which stands guarantee to the sympathetic look and kindly spoken word. The most abominable hand shaking is lazy, listless, forcing, giving no pressure and averse to receiving any. We have shaken hands with such persons, and the memory of it has annoyed us for ever afterward. It was like touching a wet dishcloth, or a cold, tingling frog. An embarrassing shake of the hand, in which the party greets you hastily, yet silently, as if he felt guilty of boldness, or was not quite sure that he had not been misled by a resemblance. It is as awkward as a pause in conversation.

Perhaps, to young lovers, the quiet but unintentional contact of hands is most pleasant—that soft, lingering restlessness, that delicious remnant of love's dictation, that faint attempt at withdrawal, at propriety's suggestion, that electrical thrill of contact which fires the veins, modulates the voices, colors the cheeks, adds a brightness to the eye, and a tremulousness to the lips.

How many men, profound in philosophy, brilliant in scholarship, high in position, sat for hours in still moonlight, holding in their hand the soft white hand of woman! Their thoughts wildly borne off by a fitting feat or the thrill of a bobo-link! Who can say that they were not all the better for it; can not the lion be in love?

To Yours Men.—Dont rely upon your friends. Dont rely upon the good name of your ancestors. Thousands have spent the prime of life in vain hopes of those whom they call friends—and thousands have starved because they have rich fathers. Rely only upon the good name which is made by your own exertions, and know that the best friend you can have is an unconquerable determination, united with decision of character.

THE five bodies found in barrels at the Grand Truck Depot, appear to be those of paupers recently deceased and to have been stolen for some medical college.

ASTROLOGY.

THE WORLD ASTONISHED

AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST, MADAME H. A. PERRIGO.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who from doubtful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives in oration concerning absent friends, or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, cause speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that create or predominate in the constellations—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likenesses enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned.—The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence is destroyed or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.

REPAIRATOR CAPILLI.

For restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smooth face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard.— Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say, how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different Preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless; and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try the Repairator Capilli, it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representation. If you struggle does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned you on application, providing entire satisfaction is not given. W. J. BRADLEY'S

Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC SKIRT.

THE Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, churches, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place, and easily and so conveniently be unfolded in an invaluable quality in ermine, not found in any Single Spring Skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with its use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape for three or four ordinary washings, and be worn as long as desired. The tops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rows are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stout shoes, etc.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

They have the following inestimable advantages in Girdling, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, compare for J. W. BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.
