At three o'clock a large company sat down to a very sumptuous entertainment, provided by Mr. O'Conner, at the Pottsville House. The dinner was served up in first rate style-the materials were abundant, and embraced every delicacy our market could supply. After the cloth was removed the regular toasts were drunk, accompanied by enlivening strains of music,—which were followed by the volunteer toasis, interspersed with several excellent -the whole calling forth the usual tokens of approbation. The company were in excellent spirits, every face wearing an expression of pleasure. Nothing occurred to interrupt in the slightest degree, the general harmony which prevailed. We have never witnessed, on any convivial occasion, a higher degree of decorum and dignity, than was exhibited at the enter-tainment referred to, blended as it was with very lively feelings of gratification on the part of every individual present, so far as we could judge. The company separated at an early hour. No instance of improper conduct or disorder occurred throughout the day, to our knewledge, a circumstance highly creditable to our berough and the character of those who participated in the general festivity. The proceedings at the dinner we expect to publish next week.

BATTLE WITH THE INDIANS. It appears that Gen. Gaines had proceeded from Camp King to the banks of the Withlachoochie, with 8 days provisions, and on arriving there, found the Indians in considerable force on the other side of the river. He fought them for two days across the river, and on the third day having formed an entrenched camp, proceeded with two hundred men for the purpose of enticing them across the Withlachoochie. He succeeded, and the Indians had the temerity to attack him in his entrenched camp, when he committed great slaughter among them, having killed 300 of their number. The trace chains were removed from the wagons and fired among them. The force of Geo. Gaines, when he left Tampa Bay, was 1140 men, composed of militia from Alabama and Louisiana. Gen. Scott was between 60 and 70 miles from him, and the Indians between them.

St. Augustine, March 2. An express arrived here from Picolata this afternoon, from which we learn that it was currently reported there, that Gen.
