From the Lady's Book, for June, 1836. THE UNWEDDED ONE.

BY JOHN FRANCIS. It's very pleasant, certainly, To laugh, and smile, and talk;
And I must say, by night or day,
I love a lonely walk;
And firting, oh! I love to flirt;
And dencing's very plassant:
And how I dote on singing, too,
When but the loved is present!
One looks on warm plaintimed. One looks so very plaintively, While warbling forth "We met," But what, alas! oh! what's the use? Tam not married yet! What is the sim of all our lives?

A settlement and marriage; Some people think they can't, but I Would do without a carriage. Oh, Hymen! god of endless joy; Oh, Hymen! god of bliss? It's really very, very hard, That I am still a "miss." My heart is filled with bitter sighs,
My gown with tears is wet: n vain I sigh—in vain I cry;
I am not married yet!

And why not? shame upon the age, Pour! avaricious! mean! I would not wed for paltry gold; No! not to be a queen. Yet ye "creation's lords" look down On us-because we're poor; And coldly pass the landless by ; It's not my fault, I'm sure!
Cold hearted are ye all—a base And mercenary set: But flatter not yourselves, for I-I will be married vet!

GOOD NIGHT. BY JOANNA BAILIE The sun is down and time gone by, The stars are twinkling in the sky, Nor torch nor taper longer may Eke out a blithe but stinted day; The hours have passed with stealthy flight. We needs must part; good night; good night; The bride into her bower is sent, And ribald song and jesting spent, The lovers whispered words and few Have bade the bashful maid adicu, The dancing floor is silent quite,
No foot bounds there; good night; Sweet sleep be with us, one and all!

no sparks to fall on the ignitable materials which belong, necessarily, to steamboats propelled by wood. From these, our William Penn took fire on the Delawere; and from them there must be always more or less danger. The furnace heated by Anthracite coal, is the depository of its own power. There the fire and the flame perform their prodigies; and from it go up through chimneys no sparks no flakes so amoke, to burn or to annoy.

Here there is a saving in favor of the Novelty, or a boat of the first class burning coal, of one hundred end ten dollars per day. The average time of running, I will put down at six months, or one hundred and eighty days, making as actual saving, in favor of Anthracite Coal of wise-teen thousand eight hundred dollars per annum!

I have learned that the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company are prepared, should coal take the place of wood on the Hudson river lines, to build docks at Kingston, so that boats may receive their supply of tuel while landing their pensengers, which will, so far as the Hudson viver boats are concerned, produce an additional sesengers, which will, so far as the Russian everboats are concerned, produce an additional eaving of twenty-five cents per ton, over the cost of and ashes collected in the bottom of the furnace will deaden the fires; and thus again will be produced by the addition of fresh coal, which will smother the flame, &c. I might answer all this by the single remark, that facts have demonstrated the contrary. On a forry boat whose tripe may be from five to fifty minutes, or for an hour or two, coal may answer, an objector may say, because, at either landing, the slag—(which igans cinders) and residuum, and stone, and slave and fresh fires kindled. To this again, I have the fresh fires kindled. To this sgain, I have the old dried apple? it seems had sold out his six hundred acres at a great price, and quit the premises; and as he had most obstinately refused heretofire, either to improve his property, or his condition otherwise by renouncing his single cursedness; for any of the fair dameels living on his domain; the sighted beauties burnt all the tar liarrely and tallow candles they could master when he took his departure. They did right, and it is to be hoped that such an aximple will contrive such as aximple will contrive such as a single to the course of creaty operate salutarily upon the brotherhood of cresty old highelors. - N. mong the most important matters that concern the millions who traverse this world's surface. Legislation on this subject may, from this day, coals its anxiety, & along with the apprahensions of those who always dread the life-destroying power of steam, repose, for the future, in perfect accurity.

I might stop here. These two considerations would, alone, command the attention of the civilized world, and bring into immediate use an invention so perfect, and so full of benefits. But there is one other which I will touch upon. And there is one other which I will touch upon. And you will remember, that nothing of all this is appeared to make, and the strongle between duty and inclination is often severe. But we believe there is to be denoted that we may be unanticled, to take the strongle of the goopel, where God done not give us much more even in point of happiness than if we had chosen the ceil. It is to be dealed that we may be unanticled, but there is one other which I will touch upon. And speculation or theory; but facts which this day, any deficiency in the goodness of the Lord, but that there as a lack of singleness and sincerity in our hearts. Like Amarish, we may do good but ont with a perform ind. There is an Achar in the camp—there is a lingering look to the seminal. experiences and observation have furnished. The remaining consideration is—3dly, Reconsay.—I will suppose the cost of rimning a steamboat with coal, it be equal to the cost of one using wood. The foregoing advantages would give the coal preference among all people. But when an additional appleal is made to the owners of steamboats, such as I will now make, it will hardly be supposed that any will, fail, at once, to adopt the Coal sysem.

The gramboat "The Novelty," a boat, by the way, of the finest class, and perhaps the longest boat in the world, her length being two hundred hoat fifty two feet, will burn a trip from New York to albany, a distance of one hundred and fifty wiles, 17 or 18 tons, of coal—but I will say, Twenty tons, at 85,50, is

Every man who turns his aftention to the sucred volume will find, as in a glass, his face reflected there, and its traths will appear as written with a special reference to his perfeit circumstances. "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart. More to be desired are right, rejoicing the heart. More to be desired are they than gold; sweeter also than honey, and the honeycomb." Yes, my friends, to every believer there is in the secred volume a richness and a fulfices inexhaustible. He seeks to have its words engraved on his memory, on his heart. He mediates on it day and night. Every time that he has recourse to it he discoverageme new truth already known course upon his mind with the freshness of a new delight. He finds himself admitted into the society of patriarchs and prothe freshners of a new delight. He finds himself admitted into the society of patriarchs and prophets and apsettes. He hears the voice of the Almighty himself spatking to him in mercy and love. In this way, like the parking of old, he hiddes the word is his heart as a precious treasure. The more that he studies it, the more does he find it profitable "for doctrine, for reproof, for correction and instruction in rightconspaces," and in its wondrous adaption to all the diversities of his amperience, he gratefully acknowledges that the Lord in it hath dealt hountifully with him.

THEFFICIENCY OF BUMAN STREETS

In our own strength we cannot truly love and obey the Most High. From worldly considera-tions, or from convictions of duty, or by the strength of a fixed will, a man may affect many. boals are concerned, produce an additional serving of twenty-five cents per ton, over the cost of delivering at Roundout—which will be an additional saving of the dollars a day, which when added to the nineteen thousand eight handsed dollars, will make a clear saving of twenty-one thousand six hundred dollars per annum.

I have stated facts, which cannot be controved tod—and have based these facts on figures, which cannot lie.

I know there are some who will start various objections—such as the speed of the boat cannot be so great; or it will be unequal—since the slag and ashes collected in the bottom of the furnace will deaden the fires; and thus again will be proposed.

I am your friend.

The young ladies of Jeffersoavilla, Ky, late ly took occasion to illuminate their town and make other demonstrations of rejoicing for the security against both fire and water? There are no sparks to fall on the ignitable materials which belong, necessarily, to steambouts propelled by wood. From these, our William Fenn took fire and the flame word.

There men be laware; and from them there ment be lways more or less danger. There are four short sentences of Holy writ, which contain in them more of the knowledge of God than all the unaided wisdom of man had over been able to discover; "God is a spirit;" "God is one;" "God is love." Spire itually of essence, unity of sphelance, purity of nature, and benevolence of character are: these, with a sublime brevity, predicated of Johovaha.

Highly Important. A law of Manuschanness on Sorth that "Na man allest many this party
