Seeley Kinner Dead

Waverly—Seeley Kinner, aged 76 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lewis Turner, on the south side, at 2 o'clock this morning. He had a stroke of paralysis Saturday and since that time has been in a critical condition. Deceased is survived by two sons, John D. Kinner of Williams-ville, N. Y., and Alanson Kinner of this city, one daughter, Mrs. Mary Turner of South Waverly. His wife died about 18 years ago.

The deceased was an old resident of this place and was highly respected by a large circle of friends. He was a devoted member of the Presbyterian church.

Funeral service will be conducted from the house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Ira Bingham, pastor of the Baptist church at Sayre, officiating. Burial will be made at Tioga Point cemetery. E. S. Hanford has charge of the funeral arrangements.

Was This a Joke?

Waverly—At about 9 o'clock last evening a telephone message was sent to the W. S. & A. Power house stating that car No. 13 was derailed at Hayden's corners. In post haste the materials for hoisting the car and getting it back on the track, were dispatched to the scene of the supposed trouble. When the wrecking crew had reached Hayden's corners everything was in order and the crew thought that someone for a joke had sprung it on the Traction company. It might be made serious should the parties become known to the company.

Painfully Injured

Waverly—Michael Flannigan of Orange street, was painfully injured by a portion of a car on which he was working in the Lehigh yards at Sayre yesterday, falling on him. This Idea is Wrong

Waverly—A statement published in the Elmira Advertiser this morning under the head of "Waverly," seems to be misleading, inasmuch as it states that complications have arisen through the election of Wednesday on account of the Waverly company's interest extending to South Waverly. South Waverly is in the state of Pennsylvania, and the South Waverly Water company have several thousand dollars invested, but the vote on Wednesday had nothing whatever to do with South Waverly or any other Pennsylvania borough. Of course, if arrangements can be made by the village to supply the company on the south side, it is altogether probable that water will be furnished them as heretofore, thereby increasing the income from the water system.

INDIAN PARTY GOWN.

Cheyenne Maiden Sells Her Best Clothes for a One Thousand Dollar Bill.

Miss I. T.—An Indian girl, daughter of Howling Crane, once the head of the Cheyenne Indians, recently sold her "party gown" to a syndicate of territorial curio gatherers for $1,000.

The garb was old and worn, moth eaten and ragged, yet the price was heartily paid—and incidentally, the purchase was a good investment. The dress was decorated with 728 elk teeth, all very valuable for lodge jewelry, and the transfer from the original purchaser to an eastern jewelry manufacturer was made in advance of the sending of the teeth at a price that was almost double the amount of the girl's own price. As years go by, the number of elk teeth is growing smaller, while the number of lodge men wanting teeth is growing larger, and the result is that the laws of supply and demand boost the price. Almost any genuine elk tooth will sell for two dollars, while the choice varieties sell for as high as $50 each. The top price is usually paid for a tooth that is turning green with age. An elk of the male sex produces only two good teeth, and the robe, therefore, represented 364 elk teeth. Miss Howling Crane is a rich girl and could afford all sorts of fine things, but she rather liked the one she had, and under circumstances that struck her father, and rather than dispose of his ponies to meet obligations and to feed himself and family, he carried his daughter's "party gown" or more properly expressing it, her dancing robe, to the curio collectors and sold it.

When Old Crow, chief of the Cheyennes, heard of the sale, he was broken hearted, and immediately set out to get it back, but he was too late; the robe had been forwarded to the east by express.

The Cheyennes are land rich, yet often suffer from extreme hunger. When that way, they sell their all, regardless of the value. When they get in this shape, the curio hunter invades their homes and the tinkles of silver oftentimes rob them of articles they would rather give their lives than barter away.

Youngest General. Probably the youngest general in the world is a nephew of the late Shah of Persia, a boy not yet 14 years old. He holds the rank of a full general in the Persian army.

Quaker Moth. In Germany a great deal of damage has been reported lately from the large moths which infest dairies and live on butter and milk.

Not Considerate. Uncle—Why don't you call offener on your aunt? Niece—I simply can't, uncle. She's always at home—Flegende Blaster.
