WOMAN'S DESPERATE BATTLE WITH DOGS.

Vicious Pack of Brutes Almost Strip Her of Clothes—Girl Neighbor to the Rescue.

Danbury, Conn.—Attacked by a pack of savage dogs, her clothing half stripped from her body and her flesh lacerated in many places, Mrs. Milton E. Van Keuren, wife of a marketman of this city, had a desperate battle for life within a stone's throw of her home.

THE DOGS ATTACKED HER FURIOUSLY.

from her home, when the dogs sprang upon her from the roadside. The leader of the pack, a Scotch collie, leaped at her throat. She attempted to beat it off, when a big bulldog and a shepherd dog threw their weight upon her and bore her to the ground. She tore the collar from her throat with her hands, only to have it sink its teeth in her shoulder.

Maddened apparently by the woman's struggles, the dogs set upon her with teeth and claws. They ripped her dress open from collar to hem of skirt, and tore her shirt waist from her shoulders. Her position was extremely perilous when Miss Knapp, attracted by her cries, rushed upon the dogs and by sheer strength tore them from the prostrate woman.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Highly Pleased and Most Successful Event—Chief Tucker Did Much to Make the Day An Eventful One.

Waverly—The pleasures of a day have gone into history but it will be a long time before the memory of the 50th anniversary of the Waverly Fire Department dies from the minds of those in attendance yesterday. It was a most beautiful day and was enjoyed by large crowds of visitors. The local fire department covered themselves with glory and each of the out-of-town visitors spoke of their day in this village as one of exceeding pleasure.

At 8 o'clock in the morning the Independent Hose company of Corning arrived. They were the guests of the local Hook and Ladder company and were met by their entertainers at the station, and accompanied by the Waverly band to the Tioga hotel where they made their headquarters. At 8:25 o'clock the Union Hose company arrived, and were escorted by the Cayuta Hose company and the Endicott band to headquarters. These two companies were given an early morning ride over the Waverly, Sayre & Athens trolley line and enjoyed the early hospitality of their entertainers.

At about noon the Sayre fire ladders made their appearance, and a finer looking lot of firemen was never seen in Waverly. They were accompanied by the Packer band. The part taken by the Sayre firemen added much to the success of the afternoon.

The parade was a long and beautiful one. It was reviewed on Broad street by the Village Board of Trustees and Borough Councils of Sayre and Athens. A highly pleasing feature of the parade was the Tioga Juniors composed of 12 little boys dressed in white duck suits. They drew a miniature hose cart and attracted a great deal of attention.

The Nichols band assisted the local band in furnishing music for the Waverly firemen. We would not neglect to mention Chief Tucker who has worked very hard for the success of the anniversary celebration.

The local fire companies furnished edibles at their several rooms and did all that was within their power to entertain their visitors.

BUY BOOKS AT HOME

This valley is alive with book agents—keep your hand on your money and buy at home! Our home booksellers can get you anything you want that is printed and bound between covers, and at the lowest price—though, to be honest, the public cannot be blamed for assuming that the itinerant vender is the only man from whom to buy books, for local booksellers do not advertise their wares in the public prints very extensively.

PACKER BAND MUSIC FOR MOVANHO DANCE

TWO MILES A MINUTE

HIGH SPEED TRAINS PLANNED FOR GERMANY.

Line Will Probably Be Built Between Berlin and Hamburg—Feasibility Demonstrated Two Years Ago.

New York.—After years of patient study and experiments involving millions of dollars, it is thought that at last the "high speed" long distance electrical locomotive is about to be put to actual commercial use, i. e., with an ability, if needed, to run at a speed of upward of 100 miles an hour.

The test lines will probably be built between the cities of Hamburg and Berlin, in Germany. The distance is to be exact 178 miles, and is now covered by high-grade steam locomotives with coaches in three hours and 24 minutes, or at the rate of 52 miles an hour. A proposition has been laid before the German emperor and the Reichstag to lay the bed and track and equip rolling stock to establish a service that will travel the 178 miles between the two cities in a trifle over one hour and 45 minutes. An operating schedule based on this time—106 miles an hour—is guaranteed as a part of the proposition, and the Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft, of Berlin, one of the largest general electric companies in the world, offers to do the work for $12,500,000.

The Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft does not look upon this undertaking as the limit of its development in the matter of high speed traction. It goes further. It says plainly to the German government: "If you would go a trifle faster, say 125 miles an hour, you may do so for $17,500,000."

Up to date the German government has not decided to accept this offer. Neither has it rejected it. That the proposition is under consideration is assured because it grew out of experiments in high-speed traction tests on a road the use of which was permitted by the government to the very people now suggesting the establishment of the new service.

The great German corporation making the offer has demonstrated the feasibility of the new speed and the durability of their motors to the engineering world as far back as 1903, when trials at Zassen on the German military roads were successfully made. At these trials, now celebrated in the electrical world, an interesting and entirely new set of phenomena appeared. Dr. Shulz Preident of the imperial German railway department and chairman of the committee on study of the Zossen trials, thus describes what will soon constitute a part of the everyday trip between the two German cities.

"Instruments are to be read every ten seconds to take measure of speed and power. The engineer will be surrounded by wires and apparatus that carries a current at 14,000 volts. "It will be possible to observe the scenery comfortably, but persons standing on stations passed by the train at top speed cannot be recognized. No injurious effects will be felt by air pressure due to passing of trains on the other track, because the distance between tracks will be made greater, to do away with this very fault."

"It is likely that remains of small birds and insects will be found after every trip on the front of the motor. Birds delight in dodging trains, but they have been caught by the electric motor, which moves faster than any bird flies."

Louis J. Magee, of New York, one of the foremost electrical engineers of this country and the director in America of the Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft, adds much of interest to the description of this new world-leaving passenger train. He says:

"The passengers in coaches drawn by a great electric motor should be much more comfortable than in those drawn by a steam locomotive, for the simple reason that the electric power is a non-rotary principle, or uniform in drawing power, while the steam power is a jerking power, or subject to a jerkiness of movement not met with in electrically propelled cars."

"The enormous amount of power required to propel electrically even a single car at speeds over 100 miles an hour is one of the principal objections to high speed on account of its great expense and the limited carrying capacity of the cars. When the German government shall have told the Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft to go ahead with its work of installing the fastest train service in the world, 12 months or perhaps 18, will elapse before the first train starts."

Experts here say that the 100 miles an hour electrical motor service is not due in America for many years yet. The conditions here are not yet ripe for it.
