MANY WOMEN HEAR MESSAGE

Evangelist Rees Tells Story of "Twentieth Century Sodom"— Many Converts at Evening Meeting For Men.

It is safe to say that the largest audience of women that ever gathered for a religious service in Sayre came together yesterday at the woman's meeting in the Tabernacle. Over 900 women listened to the presentation of the subject, "The Twentieth Century Sodom." The sermon, like the one given to men on the same subject, was a striking presentation of the sinful relations in which many of Sayre's women are living, and a strong, manly appeal to move out of the Sodom of a sinful life to the higher ground of fellowship with Christ. The evening sermon, which was given to men only, was from a text found in Hebrews 2:3, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation." In presenting the theme the speaker dwelt upon the marvelous greatness of the salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ, and the terrible results of missing so great a treasure by simply neglecting to secure it. After the benediction many remained for the inquiry service, some for the first time giving themselves to the service of the Lord, and others to testify to the great joy and blessedness of an experience in his service.

THE TRANSGRESSOR'S WAY NOT STREWN WITH ROSES

Fred Burke, a lad of eighteen years, threw himself on the tender mercies of the Sayre Police department night before last and asked for lodging and help to get back to the state school at Portland, Me., from which he had deserted. He told a pitiful tale of hardship and suffering, beginning with the time he ran away from school with a circus and ending in the bug-infested lockup of Sayre. Chief Walsh telegraphed to Portland and received an answer that the boy must get back the best way he could, and he went on his mournful way, even the shelter of the jail being denied him.

Carrigan, Edward Tighe, Waverly.

BUYING AT HOME
THE WISER WAY

One of the big mail order houses recently sent us their catalogue, says the Dushore Review. We don't know why they did. Probably because they send them to everybody, and we are somebody after a fashion. A business man came in to get our prices on a job lot of 500 note heads, and had a price list from a printing firm in Norwalk, Ohio, to show us how cheap he could get them there. He could save 35 cents on the order, pay 25 cents for express, and be 10 cents ahead of the game, but with an inferior grade of paper, and decidedly cheap work. We had just told him that probably he had better send away for his work, when his eyes rested on the catalogue from Cut & Gashem, of Chicago. "So, that is where you get your goods, is it?" he asked. "Well, it does seem to me that people in this town ought to patronize home merchants. We pay taxes, rents and insurance here, and help to build up the town, and it is discouraging to have people right here under our nose send away for goods. Well, I'd like to give you this order, but of course if you can't meet the prices from elsewhere I'll have to send it where I can get it the cheapest. This mail order business is making hard times for us all." And the funny part of it is, that that man did not see the inconsistency of his position. Rather than buy goods from a merchant in another line, in the same town, he sends to a mail order house himself for what he does not carry in stock, and claims a dealer's discount. If he saves up a few hundred dollars he buys lots in North Orange, Buffalo, with it, and when that land boom falls through he is mad and talks poverty and talks about people sending their money away. The fact is, that everybody ought to trade at home, and invest their money at home, and this applies to the merchant just as much as it does to the farmer.

HOWARD-SMITH

A delightful home wedding was that of Miss Sarah Rena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius H. Smith, of Allison street, to Henry S. Howard of Newark Valley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Petrie of the Presbyterian church, last evening at 8:30 o'clock. The bride wore a handsome gown of cream colored lansdowne silk, with white silk applique.

The house was profusely decorated with flowers and green vines. The bride and groom left for New Milford, Conn., after the ceremony and will spend three or four weeks with relatives in Connecticut and at New York. They will reside at Newark Valley.

Many useful and beautiful presents were showered upon the bride by her friends.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Howard of Newark Valley, parents of the groom, Miss Verdie Howard of Owego, and Miss Lulu Howard of Newark Valley, sisters of the groom, Mrs. F. Newell and Mrs. Walter Partridge of Owego, Miss Mary Dunton of Elmira, Mr. Dockstader of Corning.

HUNGARIAN HAD TOO MUCH BOOZE

Chief Walsh found a Hungarian, Joseph Forban by name, too full of booze to move from the spot of Susquehanna bank where he had started to snooze yesterday afternoon. So the chief got a wagon and hauled the man and his load to the institute of entomology to sober off. He was in a very bad condition and was probably one of the men concerned in the fight the other night. His nose was cut nearly off and bad gashes extended around one eye and down the back of his neck. He was fined the traditional $1 and costs by Justice Murray.

COUNTERFEIT COIN CATCHES UNWARY

Chief Walsh has notified the United States Marshall of the circulation of some very poor counterfeit quarters and dimes in Sayre. Several have been taken in by the imitations. The men who passed them have left town.

Each day between the heats of the races an acrobatic performance will be given in front of the grand stand, and each afternoon there will be a balloon ascension and parachute drop.

Thursday morning the parade of premium stock will be held. Friday, although the last day, should be a "big day" of the fair, for Hon. Boise Penrose, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, is to be present and deliver an address to the society.
