Waverly vs. Horseheads
 Waverly—The strong Waverly football team are having a tussle with the team at Horseheads today. When the boys left they were in high spirits and felt very confident of bringing back the victory with them tonight. The team today is composed of the following players: L. E., Dorgan, L. T., Daly, L. G., Flynn, C., McHale, R. G., Curwin, R. T., Robb, R. E., Dougherty and Ragan, Q. B., VanNostrian, L. H. B., Hogan; R. H. B., Warren and Dougherty, F. B., Cardwell. Substitutes: Lutz and Dougherty. Coach Perry will accompany them.

Enjoy an Oyster Supper
 Waverly—Mail Carrier Eaton, for a long time in the employ of the local postoffice, has severed his connection with the office, and for this reason, and from the fact that Mr. Eaton was held in high esteem by the postmaster and the employees at the office, an oyster supper was served at the Oyster Bay last night. The postmaster, clerks and carriers enjoyed the feast.

Card of Thanks
 Waverly—Mr. and Mrs. John Donahue desire, through the columns of the Valley Record, to thank their friends and neighbors who so kindly aided them during the recent illness of their son Francis; also to the M. P. A., for flowers at the time of the funeral.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of George A. Frantz and Miss Alice M. Gleason both of this city, to take place at the residence of Father Moriarity October 11, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Leave your name for a month's subscription to this paper at Hotel Snyder. Delivered to your door each evening at 25c a month.

At the Baptist church tomorrow morning Rev. G. A. Briggs will take for his text "An Interpretation." At the evening service, the first of a series of forewarnings will be delivered, subject: "Standing Alone." Beginning tomorrow evening services will be held at 7 o'clock. Young peoples meeting at 6 o'clock.

His Success Gratifying
 Waverly—With a sermon this evening, and two on Sunday, Rev. Father Thomas F. Burke will have completed his two weeks' mission at St. James' church. During the entire two weeks the interest taken in these meetings has been unabated, crowds filling the church each evening, and on many nights had the church been twice as large it would not have accommodated the crowds. Father Burke is well pleased with the success attained at these meetings.

The subjects for the remaining three discourses are, this evening at 7:30 o'clock, "Why Do We Honor the Blessed Virgin?"; tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock he will take for discussion "The Catholic Act of Sacrifice", and at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening "Why I Am a Catholic."

Those who have not heard Father Burke should make an effort to do so before the close of the Mission. He is a most able speaker and well worth going a long distance to hear.

BYRAM L. WINTERS RECEIVES NOMINATION

Republican Convention at Owego Nominates Smithboro Man in Exciting Session Yesterday—Other Nominations Easy.

Waverly—The Republican County Convention at the Court house in Owego yesterday afternoon was the most enthusiastic of recent years. The nomination for Member of Assembly has been the cause of a hot fight which has been in progress for months. The convention voted by informal ballot, and up to the time of the taking of the vote nobody could guess how the nomination would go. Byram L. Winters of Smithboro was nominated by a large majority. There were 97 votes in the convention and 49 were necessary for nomination. When the vote was counted Mr. Winters had 53 votes; Frank L. Howard of this city 29 and Hon. Edward G. Nowlan of Newark Valley 15. The Winters delegates fairly made the Court house shake with their enthusiasm over the result. As soon as the choice of the convention became known, Mr. Howard, before the cheering ceased, moved that the vote be made unanimous. For this courteous act Mr. Howard received hearty applause.

The convention was called to order by the Hon. William A. Smyth, chairman of the County Committee, and the Hon. D. B. Witter of Berkshire, was elected Chairman, with Mr. Smyth as Secretary. The nomination of Mr. Winters was made by Hon. J. C. Lattimer of Tioga Center, a fellow townsman and life long friend of Mr. Winters. The nomination was seconded by delegates from the towns of Candor and Spencer through their delegates, and F. E. Hawkes of this city. The next name presented to the Convention was that of Supervisor Frank L. Howard of Waverly, by the Hon. A. I. Decker, ex-Member of Assembly, and was seconded by John M. Parker. Another candidate in the person of Hon. Edward G. Nowlan of Newark Valley was placed before the Convention by Professor Kingsley of Newark Valley, and was seconded by the Hon. H. Austin Clark, and ex County Clerk Fred J. Richardson of Owego. On motion the informal ballot was then taken. After the disposition of the contest the convention proceeded to fill the balance of the ticket which was not a very hard task as there was no strife for the remaining offices. Prof. Granger of Owego was renominated for School Commissioner; Frank A. Bell of this city was renominated for Special County Judge and Surrogate; Charles G. Woodford received the nomination for County Treasurer and George G. Miller of Waverly was nominated for County Superintendent of the Poor. The Executive Committee of the Republican County Committee was empowered to fill any vacancies upon the ticket.

"Captain Debonnaire"
 Paul Gilmore's new play "Captain Debonnaire," to be given its first presentation in this region at The Loomis, this Saturday evening, is called a spectacular comedy romance, the scenes being laid in one of the most picturesque and romantic ages of American history—a period when wit and repartee were as necessary in the social equipment of the young as were skill and audacity at the game of love. Combining so many elements characteristic of the times, it is small wonder that "Captain Debonnaire" is said to be strong in charm and atmosphere.

FOUGHT MANIAC IN LIGHTHOUSE

A FIERCE STRUGGLE BETWEEN KEEPER AND COMPANION. FORMER'S WEEK OF TERROR.

New York—No mariner who steered his course by the starboard shoals light during one week recently guessed that behind the unceasing blinking of the white beam that guided him safely by the rocks and sand bars between Port Jefferson and Bridgeport was going on a life-and-death struggle between the keeper and his companion, a maniac.

The tale of the seven days and nights of terror of Lighthouse Tender Merrill Hulse came to light through this bulletin of the lighthouse board at Tompkinsville.

"Julius Coster" is hereby dismissed from the service.

Head Keeper Gilbert Ruland went ashore on his vacation on Monday, and the little boat that took him to the Stratford river landing carried back Coster, the companion of Hulse through many a summer and winter of calm and storm.

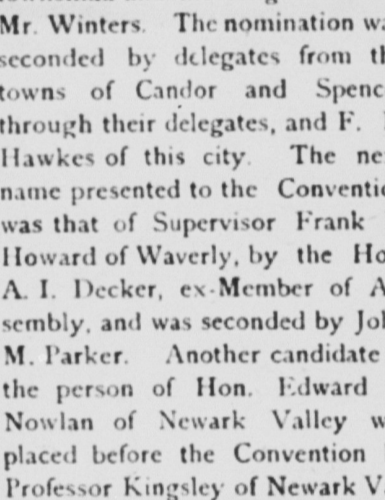

Hulse sat all night long watching the great lens revolve its beam over the water. It was a 24-hour trick for him, and when he thought rest was at hand with the break of the morning, he was startled by cries.

He sprang to the door of Coster's room, but before he could enter Coster appeared. His eyes were wild and his face white.

To a boat-hook he had lashed his razor and without uttering a word he advanced on his fellow-keeper. Hulse fought with desperation for his life, overpowered the maniac and drove him into the little room.

All day long he fought the insane man, trying again and again to disarm him, but failing.

At dusk, overcome by exhaustion, the maniac fell into a doze and Hulse trimmed his carbons and oiled his engine.

HULSE FOUGHT WITH DESPERATION FOR HIS LIFE

When darkness came the great white light was blinking again. It was a night of horror to Hulse, for the maniac again attacked him in all the fury of a fresh delirium. Day dawned to find Hulse still fighting for his life, and a second day passed in torture.

Wednesday morning Hulse awoke from a doze with a start, and heard the sound of some one pounding. He crept down the winding stairs to see what the maniac was up to by the light.

He found him with hammer, chisel and the razor cutting a hole in the wall.

It was late that night when the exhausted man at the lamps saw the light suddenly stop revolving and the keeper ran to find Coster with an ax driving spikes in the rocks. When he saw Hulse he raised the ax as if to smash the great lens. Hulse sprang at him with all the strength left in his exhausted frame, and overpowered him. He carried him to his bunk and watched again all night by the light.

Coster's delirium of murderous frenzy left him with his sleep. When he awoke he had but one idea—to commit suicide. He hacked himself with the broken razor. He stole knives from the kitchen. He tried to wield the ax against himself. But always his strength failed him. Hulse watched over him three days, nursing him. The long days and nights passed, and as Sunday morning dawned Hulse was cheered by the sight of a boat. In it was Head Keeper Ruland.

For Searching Motorists.
 A photographic "police trap" for searching motorists is likely to be heard of in the near future, for a Wolverhampton firm has invented an instrument which, when placed in position, requires only a button to be pressed, and at once a photographic reproduction is made of any passing motorcar, with the time and the date. By the use of an instrument of this kind the results should prove absolute accuracy, so long as the watches used in the apparatus are synchronized and the distance is properly measured.
