FOOLING THE COYOTES. Plot of a Montana Man for Ridding Ranges of the Prowling Pest.

The first experiment in ridding Montana ranges of coyotes by means of an infection will be made in Teton and Chouteau counties...

"The matter is an experiment," says Dr. Knowles, "and I have hopes it will prove a successful one. My only fear is that the infected coyotes I turn out may get hold of a poison before they get chance to spread the disease."

Draw the Line. Col. John H. George, a very aggressive trial lawyer, who practiced in Concord, N. H., for many years was once gitted against Judge Aaron W. Sawyer...

Mrs. Helen C. Cole and Mrs. H. W. Knapp made an "auto" trip to Ithaca yesterday. They will return today.

Japan's Example. Horan—Phwat's the row upstairs? Crogan—Casey and his wife are after hovin' a peace ript.—N. Y. Sun.

Brick Famine. San Francisco's demand for brick is so great it has created a brick famine in California.

J. VERNON TEED, MANAGER News matter intended for publication in the Waverly Department should be addressed to the manager at Hotel Sawyer, Waverly, N. Y., where subscriptions will also be received for our subscribers will confer a favor by notifying us if they do not receive the Record regularly.

Personal and Local Mention Democratic caucuses this evening. Harry Nichols is at Smithboro today.

Mrs. Louise Bebe returned yesterday from a week's visit in the country. George Paynton of Elmira visited his son, George Paynton, Jr., yesterday.

Mrs. Barnum and daughter of Bradford street, south side, left this morning for a few days' visit in New York. Mrs. A. Coddington and daughter of Halstead, Pa., are guests of Miss Elizabeth Sheahan on West Broad street.

Pearl P. Browning gave a "stag" party to a number of his friends at his rooms on Clark street last evening. Pearl is a royal entertainer.

The millinery opening at Mrs. Ellis' Broad street parlors is a success. If you doubt it, call and see a beautiful display and you will be convinced.

Mrs. E. A. Hoyt and Mrs. D. B. Witter were among those from this city who went on the excursion to New York this morning over the Lehigh Valley.

Mrs. John Beard of Center street is entertaining Mrs. Bert Lott, son Charroll and daughter Rena of Kellogg's Crossing, above Lockwood, for a few days.

Mrs. H. J. Walters and daughter Miss Charlotte, guests of Judge and Mrs. F. A. Bell for the past ten days returned to their home at Whitney's Point yesterday.

East Ward Caucus Waverly-Delegates to the Democratic County convention at Owego tomorrow were elected at a caucus in the East Ward last evening. Those chosen were William Ellis, Frank Poole and Percy Malloy.

Dead Man Identified Waverly—Two men were arrested at Ithaca yesterday and held on suspicion of knowing something of the dead man found on the Erie tracks at Campville. At Owego one of them identified the dead man as his brother. The body of the unfortunate man has been embalmed and lies at the Undertaking rooms of Charles H. Evans in Owego. Coroner Bauer considered an inquest and autopsy unnecessary.

When Women Love One of the characters in "When Women Love," the new and successful heart-interest melodrama, to be seen at the Loomis theatre tomorrow is a young factory boy, who is, as he expresses it, "struck" on a girl whose sole desire is to go on the stage. The controversies between them, and their plans for the factory girl who is the heroine, are refreshingly bright bits of comedy.

Traction Company Hustling Waverly—Work on the Pine street bridge is being rushed to completion and as soon as finished the trolley cars will be operated on this branch of the new line. The rails for the south side line have been shipped and as soon as they arrive work on the new South Waverly line will be begun, the same to be completed and in operation before snow flies.

A Good Business Waverly—The local D. L. & W. station is doing a thriving business in local passenger traffic. During the past month more than $3000 worth of tickets have been sold.

Married at Noon Waverly—Rev. M. S. Godshall at the Methodist parsonage at noon yesterday united in marriage John Tallady and Miss Rose Whitmiller, both of Powell, Pa.

THE MUSIC OF THE SPHERES.

Is it too bold and daring I should dream That all creation is one song of praise, In rhythmic numbers that through all space stream. Filling their void through all the nights and days? Why not the planets as through space they roll, With sound and motion each one of its own? Should this be formed in one harmonious whole, To fill the voids by angels only known? When at His sovereign word in being sprung This world of ours, in beauty robed so grand, The Morning Stars in glowing numbers sang, As once in course it swept at His command. One note more in that synthesis of praise, That swelled and rolled through the unmeasured space. Another chord that should still higher raise, The growing volume sweeping on apace, The sweetest music ever heard on earth, Was on that blessed night when Heaven opened wide, And angels signaled His wondrous birth In that grand song whose echoes still abide. Never before, nor e'er again shall be, A song so sweet, until that day be come, When heaven and earth in one grand symphony, The last returning sinner welcomes home. O, song of songs! Its rich melodious chime Has quivering on the rapt, enraptured air, Falling an' rising in its rhythmic time, Almost beyond our weakened power to its balanced chords at times swell high and strong, Upward along the grand celestial sweep, And then, as lost celestial heights among, The ear no longer can its measure keep. Surely grand the music of the spheres, As onward through primeval voids it sweeps, Marking unnumbered centuries of years, Filling unmeasured heights, unfathomed deeps, The day and night, the seasons in their role, Each in its own assigned and ordained phase, Are but the parts of one stupendous whole That form the universal anthem to God's praise. —William G. Hazelbarth, in Christian Work.

FILLING ONE'S PLACE.

We can Perform the Duty Falling to Us, But We Cannot Fill the Place of Another. We have our own place to fill in this world and there is no one else who can fill it. We have our own duty to do and there is no one else who can do it. God has laid upon us obligations which He has laid on no other person. The child may fill the office that the father filled, he may live in the home in which the father lived, he may fall heir to his father's place in the church, but the father's place is empty still. The son fills his own place in the world, and that alone. Each man stands before God alone. Each must do his own duty and fill his own sphere, and when he dies the world has lost one center of power, one source of good. His place is forever empty, except in so far as it is filled by the influence that he has left behind. You may put two bodies in one grave, but not two souls in the same space. One may carry on the work of his predecessor, but his predecessor's voice is not there, his hand is absent, his encouragement is wanting. His place is empty and will forever be. Instead of two there is now but one. There is no filling of another man's place in this world. We fill our own place, and that alone. Our conduct cannot be chargeable to another. For the things we do we alone must answer, and when we pass away the world will be just so much richer or so much poorer according as our lives have been a blessing or a curse. Filling another's place is all a delusion. You cannot do it.—United Presbyterian.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Love for the law is the safeguard of liberty. The word salvation is always in season. The sin problem is the secret of all problems. Prosperity is not synonymous with Providence. Walking worthily means more than walking warily. The fear of the Lord secures the flight of the devil. The lowering brow does not prove the heavy brain. All great work accomplished is but an outlook for larger work. Superstition is what you do not believe, science is what you do. There is no better way of saving your meal than sharing your cake. He gives the world no kindness who always carries a chip on his shoulder. Many a man who thinks he has the devil's bonds will find that he is in them. The best preaching of the Father in Heaven is the practicing of the brother on earth. Christian comfort is not the hiding of our grief, but the looking through it into His face.—Ram's Horn. The necessity both for working and for resting has its reason in our nature, and is, therefore, a divine law. When shall we half realize that the constitution of man is a piece of sacred legislation and that physiology is a department of theology?—Charles Gordon Ames.

IDEAL HUNTING GROUNDS.

Behring Sea Coast Affords Plenty of Sport for Gunners and Anglers. There is probably no country in the world where food is more easily obtained than along the Behring coast in the spring time. Caribou are numerous and, despite the long winters, the flesh of the young bulls is good, writes Belmore H. Browne, in Recreation. Harbor seals frequent the bays, and seal liver with bacon makes a grand breakfast. Sea gulls nest by thousands on the surf-washed islands, and their eggs, fried or scrambled, are delicious, though they taste fishy when boiled. Sealions and clams are abundant, and the waters teem with salmon and cod. The country we hunted was very mountainous, and there was no timber. The only wood was willow and alder. The willows are small and do not count much as game cover, but the alders grow to a good size and form tangled thickets. These thickets are the home of the brown bears. In summer, bear hunting is practically impossible, because of the dense growth of grass which covers the country. The grass reaches a height of over six feet, and flourishes on the high mountain sides as well as in the sheltered valleys. At this time of year the bears' skins are worthless. The hair is thin, and wears away in large patches, giving the big brutes a decidedly ragged appearance. In the spring the grass is pressed flat by the winter snows and the new crop has not as yet grown to any height. These conditions make ideal hunting, as game can be seen at a great distance.
