The Deapest Haul.
 Near the Tonga Islands, in the Pacific, some time ago, a fish net was sunk 23,000 feet below the surface. That is the deepest haul ever made. It took a whole day to sink the net and raise it. Life was found even at that depth, over four miles, where the temperature was just above freezing and the pressure 9,000 pounds to the square inch.

Hon. L. T. Hoyt, who was engaged in the prosecution of the graft cases in Potter county, won new laurels for his legal ability manifested in conducting the cases. We find the following in the Potter Enterprise: "Probably the strongest feature of the Commonwealth case was the scathing and shrewd analysis by attorney Hoyt, who certainly was the most positive on the case. With the assistance of Mr. Devall he got everything that could be of benefit to the prosecution. He is a pleasant gentleman and one of the leading Republican members of the legislature."
Case Appealed
 Athens—Mahlon Johnson and Harnsworth were both held for illegal fishing yesterday at Esquire Meredith's court in Towanda, but have appealed the case and will stand the game protector another rule on it. The facts seem to be that Mr. Allen, who is Mr. Johnson's partner, obtained a license for the fishing device, and at the time mentioned the fact that Mr. Johnson was his partner and should have an interest in it. At the time of the arrest of Johnson and Harnsworth Mr. Allen was not present and the case rests upon a legal technicality. The case will be fought upon its merits in the courts.

Shoemaker Arrested
 Athens—The cases of L. H. Woodward, Jr., and John Quinn for fishing on Sunday were tried before Justice Meredith yesterday and the boys were both acquitted and the costs put on Game Protector Shoemaker. Warrants were immediately served on Shoemaker, charging him with assault and battery, and he was arrested. The trial brought out the facts that the boys were not fishing at all and that the game protector handled the crippled boy, Woodward, very roughly, and he will now have to answer for his conduct.
EVERYTHING IS CANNED.
 Ever Wearing Apparel Comes Cased in Tin to the People of Alaska.
 "Canned goods are Alaska's main food refuge," remarked Bishop Rowe, of the frozen gold regions, in a recent after dinner address. "and the native Indians have come to regard America as a canned country. Every article of diet and even wearing apparel comes cased in tin, and it is no wonder that the native looks with skepticism upon anything that is imported out of the conventional package."
 "Recently a gentleman interested in the Sunday school work among the natives of Alaska, in order to hold their interest the closer with various amusements, imported a phonograph with about a hundred cylinders, all musical selections. The natives were completely mystified at this invention and not a little superstitious, regarding the reproduction of sound as something supernatural. Suddenly one brilliant halfbreed, with a reputation for progress, leaped up in the middle of a phonographed song and, seizing the cylinder, flourished it before his brethren in a inspired way. "I have it!" he cried. "I know what this is now. It is canned white man!"
 "The explanation was taken in all seriousness and now the request at a Sunday gathering is often heard, almost cannibalistic indeed, "Sir, can we not have a little canned white man this afternoon to amuse the children?"

A DUEL IN THE NIGHT.
 Attack on John V. Streed Was Result of Attempted Blackmail.
 CAMBRIDGE, Ill., Oct. 6.—Details of the mysterious death of Attorney John V. Streed are gradually coming to light, which tend to show that Streed was slain in an impromptu revolver duel fought in the night. Indications are that at least two bullets were fired and that two persons were wounded.
 It seems now pretty well established that the attack on Streed was the result of a series of efforts at blackmail among a gang which had been operating here for a long time.
 The duel theory agrees with the evidence of Henry White, cashier of the First National bank, who says he thinks he heard two shots fired. In his opinion the blood on the inside of the house where Streed was killed came from a wound on some person other than the dead lawyer. This would also account for the spots of blood on the back stairs, the theory being that the murderer slightly wounded hastened up to Streed's rooms to get possession of papers.
 Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad.
 MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—The contract for the construction of the roadbed of the section of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Fort William to Lake Superior Junction, a distance of about 210 miles, was awarded to Foley Bros. and Larson & Co. of Winnipeg. It is stipulated that the work shall be completed so that the line may be used in handling the wheat crop of 1907.

Complaint of Vandalism
 Athens—Hugh J. Baldwin complains that the merchants have been disfiguring his fences down by the narrow by painting advertisements on them and that he will be after them for damages. He says he is not pleased with the idea of their making bill boards on his premises without his consent.
An Enormous Growth
 Athens—George M. West has in his yard on Maple street a cactor bean plant that is enormous in size. It has attained a height of fifteen feet and the branches spread over an area of thirteen feet and some of the leaves measure twenty-eight inches across.

THE UNSOCIAL LOBSTER.
 Blind and Unrelenting in Its Conduct Towards Every Living Thing.
 The twenty-third annual report of the Scottish fishery board gives the lobster an entirely bad character. It is an essentially surly, suspicious and unsocial fish, which regards anything that comes near it as a foe. The main motive of its activity is defense, and in defending itself a blind, unrelenting vengeance is a fitting corollary. It procures a hole in which to wait for its prey, and to which to retire after a fight, and then it is unsafe for any animal to approach it.
 Its keenness of attack and relentless hold when once it has gripped its antagonist are due to its want of sight. The eye of the lobster is so sensitive that strong light blinds it. Although it possesses keen sight when first hatched, the lobster is practically blind later in life. It sees nothing properly, but simply has the sensation of light and shadow. It tests a shadow with its antennae, and sometimes when a strong shadow is cast on it the lobster will leap at it on the off-chance that it is a foe. The fighting tendency makes it difficult to keep lobsters in confinement. When once they have settled down, however, they will live at peace with one another, but it is only an armed neutrality, and if one of the lobsters loses its fighting power it is at once attacked.

A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
 Professor Behring at Paris Announces a Great Discovery.
 PARIS, Oct. 6.—Professor Behring, who discovered the serum treatment for diphtheria and who is one of the most famous of the Pasteur Institute experts, informs the Matin that he intends to proclaim next August a method of curing tuberculosis which he has discovered. He says that the method involves the use of neither serum nor vaccine, but that it is a preventive as well as a curative remedy. He will hold the secret some time, as he did in the case of his diphtheria serum.
 He will explain the method to Drs. Roux and Metchnikoff and leave the application of it to medical practitioners without revealing the nature of the remedy, because he thinks he has a right to reserve temporarily the profits of the discovery to enable him to prosecute other researches. Professor Behring added, "From now onward the victims of tuberculosis may hope again."
 The Nobel prize in medicine, the value of which was $40,000, was awarded to Professor Behring in 1901 for his method of rendering cattle by inoculation immune from tuberculosis. In a lecture he delivered shortly afterward in Stockholm Behring said that he would devote the prize money to further experiments in the same field. In April of the next year proof sheets of a book by Behring upon this method were given out. The book gave the results of six years of investigation and experiment.
 In the following May the success of his serum treatment for diphtheria was noted in the official statistics of Berlin, where a death rate of from 1,300 to 2,000 was cut down in 1901 to 409 by the use of serum.
 In March, 1903, Professor Behring made public the fact of the extension of his tuberculin experiments to human beings and expressed the belief that they would be successful.
