"WHEN WOMEN LOVE"

In most melodramas, there are scenes in which missing papers have an important bearing on the play, but in the new love and labor play, "When Women Love," it is refreshing to note that an entirely new departure is made, in which the Columbia graphophone is one of the predominating features. It serves to bring the guilty to justice and to free the innocent. All this brought about by the evidence of the graphophone, which is used as a witness in the trial of a poor factory girl. A conversation which has previously been recorded on the instrument, without their knowledge, is reproduced in the natural voices of the conspirators. "When Women Love" is conceded by managers, press and public to be one of the big melodramatic successes of the season. The play comes to the Loomis this evening.

ABSOLUTELY PURE ICE

F. J. Tillman received invoice of his first shipment of Hygeia ice last evening, and his large and increasing trade is being supplied with same today. He takes much pains in furnishing the best quality that can be secured, even though the expense is much greater than natural ice can be purchased for. It is not necessary to mention the superior quality of his artisan well water ice, as his trade commends it most highly. It being far superior to the reservoir ice at Waverly, which he has been handling for the past three or four weeks, assists materially in bringing the trade his way. Orders will receive prompt and careful attention, even through the winter season. 127-2
