May Make Springs Here
Athens--There was no meeting of the Board of Trade last evening on account of the storm, but several members were present and had a talk with A. A. Hopkins, secretary of the Thomas Coil Spring Co. Mr. Hopkins has met with many of the members of the Board and other prominent business men and there is good reason to believe that some arrangements will be made to have the manufactory located here. If this is done the Dyer shops will probably be chosen as the location. Mr. Roberts started on his southern trip this morning. Mr. Hopkins is obliged to return to Caneston tonight, but the plans as outlined by them will be submitted to a committee to be appointed by the board. When they are ready for business Mr. Hopkins will complete the contract. The vehicles must be ready for the spring trade, and there is already satisfactory proof that there will be a large demand for them.

Installation Postponed
Athens--There was a large attendance at the Athens lodge No. 105, Odd Fellows, last evening and the members feasted on mush and milk. Temperance Play
Athens--Lady Rebecca lodge will give a temperance play, "The Last Leaf," at Odd Fellows' hall this evening, when they will chance off a silk quilt. All who have taken chances and their friends are invited. Lady Willard lodge of Sayre has been invited. A fine social evening is anticipated.

PRIZE-RING NATIONALITIES.
Italians Are Wrestling Fistic Honors from Irish in This Country.
Nearly all the early pugilists in this country, Heenan, Morrissey, McCloskey and the older Sullivan, were either Irishmen or the sons of Irishmen, and it has come to be accepted as a rule that prizefighters and boxers should bear Irish names. Of the pugilists of the present time few are Irish, the great majority of them being now young Italian-Americans, who, for convenience or other reasons, have taken Celtic names. Immigrants from Italy coming into New York have had the name of being inclined to use knives when they fought, instead of their fists. This was true of the Italian immigrants but it does not apply to the second generation of Italian-Americans, born and reared in the city of New York. Unlike the older Italians, they have developed here a strong partiality for American athletics, and the number of amateur boxers and professional fighters among the children of Italian parents residing here is very large. It is increasing, too, so much so that a special designation for them has become current, Daps, which is a combination of dago and yap.
In the same way that there has been a change in the fighting proclivities of Italians, the stiletto of one generation being succeeded by the hard knuckles of the next, the Russian Jews who came to this country as immigrants and who are known as peaceable and inoffensive, have in some parts of town been succeeded by a generation of turbulent young men from whose ranks have been graduated a number of professional pugilists and boxers.

Russian's Big Library.
One of the largest libraries in Russia is private property, belonging to the scholarly Genadi Wassilyewitch Judin. It consists of over 100,000 volumes, and the oddest thing about it is that it is not situated in a large city, but in the neighborhood of one of the most inaccessible Siberian towns, Karsjonark. It was at first in that town, but after the fire of 1881, which destroyed a great part of it, the owner got alarmed and removed it to the country.
