GEORGE HARDING

FATALLY INJURED

Word Was Received to That Effect Today by Chief Mulligan

Athens—The following telegram was received by Chief Mulligan today:

Cleveland, Ohio.

George Harding fell into a hole in the steamer Juliette Marquette, possibly fatally injured. Please notify relatives; order disposition of body in case of death. Signed, Pittsburg Steamship Co.

Chief Mulligan has been trying to reach the friends and has finally gained information that George Harding has a wife and several children living near Shesheque, and that he has been working during the summer as fireman on a lake steamer and spending the winter with his family.

MADAM MODJESKA

Madam Helena Modjeska played in her star five act tragedy, "Mary Stuart," at Elmira Wednesday evening, and the papers speak of her as not having lost any of the tact and vigor of younger years. Madam Modjeska is remembered by Athens people, as she spent considerable of her leisure time here while her son, Ralph Modjeska, held a situation with the American Bridge company.

Power of Money.

In Abilene last week the doctors came very near making a mistake. When they found the patient had no money they changed their diagnosis from appendicitis, and instead of an operation they gave him three pills. The patient is now at work.—Kansas City Star.

Badly Expressed.

At a meeting of the Preston (Eng land) board of guardians the chairman announced that the athletic field day for imbeciles had been held, and gracefully added: "I am sorry that not more members of the board were in attendance."

Willing to Help.

Mr. Roxley—I understand my daughter is determined to marry you. But how about supporting her?
Mr. Nerve—Well, I think with my help you'll be able to keep her in her accustomed style.—Philadelphia Ledger.

REFUSED TEN THOUSAND.

President Hegeman on the Stand at Insurance Inquiry.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Salaries of officers and methods of conducting the business, chiefly industrial, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company formed the basis for questions which Examiner Hughes asked in the city hall here of President John R. Hegeman and Actuary Craig.
President Hegeman took his turn at explaining how a life insurance president earns his big salary. He said that he worked often sixteen hours a day. There was not an hour of the night at which he had not some time crossed the ferry on his way home. In the earlier days he had to go out and raise money whenever a policy holder died. Now, he said, they were dying about one a minute.
He declared that when his salary was raised from $90,000 to $100,000 it was against his protest. Referring to that last $10,000, he exclaimed: "I have never drawn it. I never propose to draw it." Mr. Hegeman said he could make a larger income if he left the company.

In striking contrast with officers' salaries was the showing of salaries and commission paid to the agents who bring in the small industrial policies. They average $11 a week. The company can out them at any time with or without cause.

Actuary Craig declared that a man's health could be judged pretty accurately by the amount of money he was able to pay in premiums at one time. The interesting item was also added that no difference is made between a liquor dealer and an asthmatic in the matter of increased premiums.

Has Family Chaplain.

Thomas F. Ryan is the first of America's rich men to have a chaplain attached to his family. He has just appointed Rev. Father J. M. White to that post. Father White, who is an intimate friend of the Ryan family, is a well-known churchman of Montreal. Mr. Ryan has a superb chateau in his country home at Suffern and another in his Fifth avenue residence in New York.

Didn't Fan Out.

"See that plainly dressed man over yonder? Twenty years ago he walked into this town barefooted, bought a box of soap on credit, and commenced peddling it for a living. How much do you suppose he is worth to-day?"
"Oh, I don't know—about a million."
"No, sir, he ain't worth a cent, and he still owes for the soap."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Last of the Putes.

Only 200 Putes, the remnant of a once powerful Indian tribe, were lately gathered from all parts of California, Arizona and Nevada, near Los Angeles, and are busy with services in honor of the memory of their great chief, Tecopah, who died about a year ago. It will be probably the last muster of the tribe.

A FAULTLESS BEER

The following article appears in the United States Trade Reports, a publication devoted to financial, agricultural and mechanical interests:

There has been considerable discussion of the different kinds of beer since so much attention has been given to the discussion of pure food products, and many are found to give bad after-effects. The United States Trade Reports has always fearlessly discussed such topics as are of general interest to its readers, and we have received several letters concerning the different kinds of beer on the market. We are asked to recommend the best and purest, and which leaves no bad effects after drinking.

We have made a careful investigation locally, also referring the matter to our representatives in all the principal cities. We feel justified in saying that the beer which we find to surpass all others in purity and cleanliness is made by the Dettewerich Brewing Co., of Olean, N. Y.

The above-named firm stands high in the commercial world, and it is well known for its business tact and enterprise, as well as for its integrity. This beer serves as a tonic as well as a beverage. We have no interest in making this commendation, except to give credit where credit is due, as has always been our policy, and we have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending this beer to our readers. We advise all patrons to call for this beer, especially for invalids and those of in pairs of health.

It has been a custom of this paper to furnish its subscribers with reliable information on any desired subject free of charge, that they may designate by letter of inquiry addressed to this office. The United States Trade Reports has the largest circulation of any trade paper of its class, and no other publication could afford to maintain such a large staff of experienced editors to make these investigations, and depend solely upon its subscription list for support.

We are certain that all dealings which our readers may have with this firm will prove mutually beneficial and profitable. It is a pleasure to us to give this firm our editorial recommendation, and, at the same time, to supply our readers with reliable information on such an important subject as this.
