The Simplest Mouse Trap Yet Devised

At some time you may want a mouse trap in a hurry and find that you have none about the house, or at least none that will work. Of course you can go out and buy one, but you can make one just as easily, and perhaps by so doing earn a bit of pocket money from your parents. The mouse will enter the bottle through a mouth or opening in the neck about one and one-half inches in diameter. Place this in the position shown in the illustration, inclined by means of bricks or blocks of wood. Leading up to the mouth of the bottle place a board or a piece of cardboard, and on the cardboard lay a train of crumbs of cheese. Drop some larger bits in

THE RAINBOW. Ideas in Regard to the Heavenly Arch Which Are Held in Different Countries.

In many countries the rainbow is spoken of as being a great bent pump or siphon tube, drawing water from the earth by mechanical means. In parts of Russia, in the Don country, and also in Moscow and vicinity, it is known by a name which is equivalent to "the bent water pipe." In nearly all Slavonic dialects it is known by terms signifying "the cloud siphon," and in Hungary it is "the pump," "Noah's pump" and "God's pump."

The Malayan natives call it by the same name that they do their banded water cobra, only that they add "boba" (meaning double-headed), the equivalent in our language being "the double-headed water snake." They tell you that the bow is a real thing of life, that it drinks with its two mouths, and that the water is transferred to the clouds through an opening in the upper side of the center of the great arch.

In the province of Charkov, Russia, the rainbow is said to drain the wells, and to prevent this many are provided with heavy, tight-fitting stone platforms.

In the province of Saratov the bow is said to be under the control of three angels, one of whom pumps the water, the second "feeds" the clouds and the third sends the rain. Many improbable and impossible things would happen if you could only get in reach of "the bow."

The little Turk is told that if he would have a silver head, with gold teeth and ruby eyes, he has but to touch the orange stripe.

In Greece they say that the person so unfortunate as to stumble over the end of the bow will have his or her sex immediately changed.—Golden Days.

GOSSIP.

By Lucy Fitch Perkins.

"There goes Marietta. In her Dolly Varden dress! She thinks that she is better than other folks, I guess! She'll have to learn that feathers don't always make fine birds! What's that? She says the same of mine? What very unkind words!"

Great German Hospital. The corner stone of a new German hospital was laid in San Francisco recently. The hospital will cost $400,000 and will be one of the best arranged and equipped in the world. It will be the work of the German General Benevolent Society.

A COMPOUND PULLEY. Apparatus Which Any Boy Can Construct for Himself and Which Will Give Him Much Fun.

Three cents for a half dozen screw books is all the money you need for a compound pulley, and any boy or girl can make one. Two large spools, two small spools, four strips of wood seven inches long, one inch or a little less wide and half an inch thick; four small blocks of wood and a heavy cord are the necessary materials.

Cut or saw each spool quite near the shoulder, as shown by the dotted lines. Put a pin through the two ends of each spool, letting the ends project for an axle. This gives you a very near wheel. Be careful to make the four wheels of equal thickness.

The four blocks should be each a trifle thicker than the wheels, as broad as the side strips are and about one inch long. Make two holes in each strip two and a half inches from the ends and the size of the axles.

Now you are ready to join the parts. Take two side strips, one large and one small spool, place the axles in the holes, put a block in position at each end and fasten it firmly by means of glue or screws or nails. A screw hook in each end completes one part.

Make the other part in exactly the same way and put in the cord as shown in the drawing.

To use the pulley, fasten one block to the ceiling or some other high place. Attach the lower block to the object you wish to raise. It will seem surprisingly how heavy a weight can be lifted with but little strength.

Afterward suggests the Washington Star, a pulley with six or even eight wheels may be made, and their working compared.

Miss Thuttyfore—Auntie, do you think it is justifiable to marry a man to reform him?

Elderly Spinster—Well, if you feel that you've just got to marry somebody Arabella, I suppose that's as good an excuse as any.—Chicago Tribune.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL, especially to those who have not as yet made their fall and winter purchases. DOWN, DOWN, go the prices once more. It seems like sacrilege to make such cuts on all of the newest goods but we are compelled to do so.

The bargains all through the store, and in fact embracing every article, will be greater than ever, for now since we have concluded to place this sale with the above firm we are determined to make it a success, cost what it may.

NOW IS YOUR TIME! DELAY IS FATAL!
