SOLDIERS MUTINY

Bloodless Revolt of Garrison Near Helsingfors.

POLAND IS IN OPEN REBELLION.

Czar Will Not Tolerate Attacks on Integrity of the Empire—Martial Law and Strong Repressive Measures Will Rule.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 14.—A Helsingfors dispatch says that a revolt has broken out in the garrison of Sveaborg. Hundreds of the soldiers claim they have been retained with the colors from two to three years beyond the legal period of service and also complain of their conditions of life.

The mutineers refused to obey orders, expelled the civilians from the precincts of the fortress and in several of the barracks threw beds, chairs and kitchen apparatus out of the windows. They then opened negotiations with General Kaigorodoff and Governor Nylands, who promised to remedy their grievances and to give them easier terms of service. There was no bloodshed.

A report here says that 24,000 Georgians, armed with modern rifles, hold Georgia, in Transcaucasia, despite the three important Russian forces converging thereon and that, except for runners, Georgia has been completely isolated for many days.

The dismissal of Prefect Neidhardt at Odessa, to whom is attributed the responsibility for the recent outrages, is announced and has caused much rejoicing among the Jewish population. The prefect, it appears, will not receive another appointment.

A Jewish engineer named Abramson has been made manager of the Southwestern State railroad. The announcement of his appointment caused a sensation.

An official document regarding the situation in Poland has been issued. It begins by recalling that by an imperial ukase the Poles were fully recognized as free citizens, obtaining complete opportunity to prove their capacity for participating in a great creative work. They would consequently have gradually secured the ulterior progress of the Polish nation with the aid of electoral institutions which would naturally have sympathized with their fate.

"Forgetting the painful lessons of the past, there are Polish politicians who are directing a national movement for the re-establishment of the kingdom of Poland, thus embarking upon an attempt, as dangerous for the Polish population as it is insolent toward Russia, to bring about separation from the empire.

"Rejecting the idea of co-operation with Witte and the Russian people in the duma, they are demanding in a series of revolutionary meetings complete autonomy for Poland, with a special constitutional diet, thereby aiming at the restoration of the kingdom of Poland. Two political groups, Socialist and Nationalist, who are opposed to each other, are united in this aspiration, which is supported by many writers, publicists and popular orators, who carry the people with them.

"The government will not tolerate attacks on the integrity of the empire. The plans and acts of the insurrectionaries force it to declare in a decisive manner that as long as the troubles in the Vistula districts continue and as long as that part of the population which adheres to political agitators continues its present sway over the country these districts will receive none of the benefits resulting from the manifestations of Aug. 18 and Oct. 30, 1905. There could obviously be no question of realizing their pacific principles in a country in revolt. For the restoration of order all the districts of the Vistula are temporarily declared to be in a state of war."

Disquieting reports of the progress of the agrarian disorders have been received. The military authorities are rushing troops and machine guns into the affected areas. Inhabitants of Karsk and Tuganak are organizing for the protection of their respective towns. The village of Balanda, in the government of Sarator, has been fired by peasants.

As the next step in their programme the Social Democrats have decided to attempt the enforcement of an eight hour day in all the factories of St. Petersburg.

Among the Socialist leaders is Vera Zassulich, who, taking advantage of the proclamation of amnesty, has returned to Russia.

Miss Zassulich was an exile from Russia and has for many years been one of a group of leaders who from Geneva and other capitals have been directing the Socialist propaganda in Russia and who, it is said, brought about the present crisis there. She once attempted the life of the much dreaded General Trepoff, father of the present general, and was shot at an officer in Russia. She made it the motto of her followers that "if ever Russia is to be freed it must be through the labor movement."

In consequence of the discovery of plots at Warsaw to blow up the St. Petersburg and Berlin railroad all the railroads in Russian Poland are now guarded by military. A patrol discovered that the line between Warsaw and Lomza was mined. A powerful charge of dynamite had been placed in an underground chamber, which would have been exploded by the first passing train. A short distance on the other side of Warsaw an infernal machine was exploded and destroyed the track, the damage was discovered before the arrival of a train.

REFORM IN PHILADELPHIA.

More Accessions to Weaver Banks Mayor Upholds Pennypacker.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—There are two notable accessions to the reform movement in the city and state. The latest converts are State Insurance Commissioner David Martin and United States Internal Revenue Collector William McCooch. Both are ward leaders and prominent in the local Republican organization.

Mr. Martin in an interview said he would support Governor Pennypacker in all the reform measures he advocates and was also in favor of abolishing fees in the office of insurance commissioner. The office pays a salary of $2,000 a year, and the fees raise the insurance commissioner's yearly income to about $20,000. Commissioner Martin also said he would support Mr. Weaver in all public matters in which he thinks the mayor is right. Collector McCooch in coming to the support of the mayor said that he was convinced the people were with the city's chief executive.

Mayor Weaver has returned to his office after an absence from the city for several days. With regard to Governor Pennypacker calling a special session of the legislature the mayor said:

"Governor Pennypacker's action is worthy of the highest praise. It is a prompt and statesmanlike recognition of the will of the people expressed in unmistakable terms and by the constitutional method, the ballot.

"I protest against any doubt or suspicion being cast upon the sincerity and high purpose of the governor in convening the assembly to enact needed reforms."

ELECTION INDICTMENTS.

New York Authorities After the "Man Higher Up."

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The grand jury handed in a batch of six indictments in election cases. All the defendants were already in custody. Attorney General Mayer, Assistant District Attorney Sandford and County Detective Reardon of the district attorney's office were present when the grand jury's report was handed in.

The most important of the arrests is that of a man named Krup. It is said by Attorney General Mayer that "man higher up" in the Eighteenth assembly district, which is Murphy's own district, will be landed in the toils of the prosecution.

The other five persons indicted were: Albert Farrar, who voted in the Fifth election district of the Ninth assembly district, from 243 Eighth avenue. Thomas F. Grady, two cases, charged with voting illegally at the polling place at 1909 Second avenue. John L. Foley, alias Edward Mead, charged with voting illegally in the Twelfth election district of the Fifth assembly district.

Thomas E. Brennan, charged with voting illegally in the Eighteenth election district of the Third assembly district. Thomas Hallie, who voted in the Fourteenth election district of the Third assembly district.

Must Try a Court of Equity. BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Attorney General Herbert Parker has decided not to lend his name to a petition for an injunction by members of the Royal Arcanum against the supreme officers of the order restraining the latter from putting the new assessment schedule into operation. ANGLO-SAXONS DINE Prince and Admiral Evans at Tars' Monster Banquet.

AN INVASION OF CONEY ISLAND.

Twenty-six Hundred Men in Attack on "Beef and Beer" Win a Brilliant Victory—Admirals Later Attend Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Prince Louis was present at the opening of a great banquet, as were Admiral Evans and the staff officers of both the commanding officers, given at Coney Island by the jacksies and marines of Admiral Evans' fleet to the enlisted men of Prince Louis of Battenberg's squadron, which was literally a "howling" success.

The banquet menu, got up by Quartermaster Schumacher of the Maine, was a dainty affair, with the frontispiece representing an American and British tar shaking hands, a warship above them and the entwined flags of the United States and England beneath. Underneath was the inscription, "Blood is thicker than water; glad to see you on shore."

"Blood is thicker than water." Written on the frontispiece of the menu cards this famous saying of the American naval officer, Tatum, never found more impressive expression than it did at the dinner on the Bowery at Coney Island.

It was the keynote of the cheering with which the 2,500 British and American sailors made the great pavilion ring to the echo. It was the toast which they drank across the long tables which stretched down the great hall beneath the overhanging British and American flags.

It was the theme of the speeches that followed, or, rather, accompanied the cigars and the twelfth round of beers of this mammoth feast, unique in the history of all navies and which will long furnish the theme of yarns on many a British and American warship. The cheers given to Rear Admiral Prince Louis and Rear Admiral Evans were long and continuous. Leaving the dinner for a few moments, they went into the balcony and gazed upon the impressive scene. Every sailorman was on his feet twirling his cap aloft, and, led by a quartermaster at the end of the hall, the mighty company cheered as only British and American sailors can cheer—clean out, all together and far reaching—until the sounds echoed across the seas that beat on Coney's shore.

"You have given me and my men a splendid evening," the prince said, "and I thank you for myself and for them. Blood is thicker than water, and we are glad to be ashore," he added, paraphrasing the hearty sentiment, "Glad to see you ashore," which followed Tatum's famous phrase on the menu card's first page.

During the dinner it developed that through some misunderstanding the British sailors had been granted shore leave only until 10 o'clock. A committee of two, Yeoman T. C. Webster of the Missouri and Boatwain F. A. Smith of the Kentucky, laid the matter before Prince Louis, who promptly extended the leave of his men until noon today.

Twenty-six hundred men sat down in one of Coney's great concert halls to a dinner consisting of 300 gallons of soup, 20,000 bottles of beer, 3,000 pounds of bread, 15,000 little neck clams, 3,000 pounds of chicken, 2,000 pounds of duck, 25 barrels of potatoes, 100 gallons of ice cream, 500 loaves of bread, 4,000 rolls, 250 pounds of cake, 300 pounds of nuts and raisins, 50 hams, 250 pounds of Swiss cheese, 2,000 bags of tobacco, 2,000 pipe pipes, 20,000 cigars, 1,000 cuts of Navy plug and a whole lot of other things.

During and after the dinner there were music and vaudeville, and after it was all over the 2,000 were "corralled" and led back meekly to their ships. There were no onlookers at the banquet, and Jack tar perfectly enjoyed himself and gave his happiness full swing.

After witnessing the opening of the banquet Prince Louis, Admiral Evans and their guests returned to the city, going direct to Madison Square Garden, where the twenty-first annual national horse show was in full swing. All society was there, and the reception to the British visitors was brilliant and enthusiastic.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the prince was taken to the top of the Times building, where he saw New York by moonlight.

"Fatigued? Not a bit," he said, "I am having a great time, and I am glad that I am going to stay two days longer than I expected."

The prince almost waxed poetic in telling about his view of New York. "It was a most wonderful and a most beautiful sight," he said. "The city was spread out below me for miles and miles, it seemed, electric lights gleaming everywhere and the moon shining on the waters of the bay—it was magnificent!"

The results in 418 constituencies show 233,935 votes in favor of Prince Charles of Denmark as king of Norway and 92,739 against him. The Republicans expected to poll 33 per cent of the vote, but only obtained 21 per cent. After midnight a great crowd cheered Premier Michelsen and President Berner of the storting. The premier addressed the people from a window of the palace and congratulated them on the results of the plebiscite.

Seven Girls Missed Fire Nets. Some of the girls began jumping from the windows into the life saving nets. Seven girls who missed the nets struck the ground and were seriously hurt.
