CHASED A FAKE FOX

Grafton-Middlesex Run Ends in a Protest.

HALL LET REYNARD OUT OF A BAG

Evidence Produced to Show That Fraud Was Executed in Field Trial of Hounds Near Upperville, Va.

UPPERVILLE, Va., Nov. 14.—The judges in the Grafton-Middlesex hound trials, decided late last night that the fox killed by the Middlesex pack did not count, as it was a "bogged" or "turned down" fox.

Evidence was produced at the meeting of the judges to show that a man named Hall purchased the fox. Hall upon being questioned stated that the fox had broken loose and that although he was present when the killing took place he had not thought it worth while to mention the matter.

The incident greatly embarrassed Mr. Higginson, the master of the Middlesex hounds, who has been active in tracing the culprit.

A Good Deer Hunting Season. PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Reports from many places on the northern slope of the Adirondacks indicate that the present deer hunting season, which ends tomorrow, will be the best that hunters have enjoyed since deer hunting was abolished.

King of Goths and Vandals. WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Mr. Grip, the minister from Sweden, has given official notice in behalf of his government that King Oscar in view of the separation of Sweden and Norway had renounced his former title of king of Sweden and Norway and desires to be hereafter known officially as king of Sweden and of the Goths and Vandals.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 14.—A well dressed man about fifty five years old shot himself through the temple in the city park here. He left a letter signed "J. L. Lathrop," in which he asks the coroner not to attempt to find his relatives, as the task would be useless.

Negro Will Be Hanged For Assault. ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—William Walker, the negro who was arrested last week charged with criminal assault on Mrs. W. G. Moore, pleaded guilty to the indictment and was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 8.

LABOR CONGRESS OPENS.

Delegates Present From Every State in the Union.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—Old city hall was crowded when President Gompers called the American Federation of Labor to order for the opening of the silver anniversary of the organization.

The delegates assembled at the headquarters in the Colonial hotel and headed by a band of 125 pieces made up of federated musicians in Pittsburgh, marched through the principal streets to the place of meeting.

Attorney John Drew, speaking for Mayor William Hays, welcomed the delegates to Pittsburgh and Mayor James G. Wyman extended the hospitalities of the sister city, Allegheny.

Mostly routine matters were considered at the opening session. The presentation of the credentials occupied considerable time.

"Fans" Must Take All Risks. WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Justice Gould in the criminal court, in the case of Edward Veltmeyer against the Washington Baseball club of the American league and Acting Manager Malachi Kittridge of the club, directed a verdict in favor of the defendants upon the ground that a person attending games takes the risk of injury from being hit by baseballs which might fly from the field into the stands unless the patron purchases a seat behind the wire screens.

A Price Set on His Head. BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Banished from Albania after his estates had been confiscated, Chaban Bey of Golsaw, whose head the sultan of Turkey has set a price, was one of the passengers on the White Star liner "Capeo" which has arrived here.

Murder and Suicide at Scranton. SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 14.—Seven year old Elsie Jones on returning from school to her home in South Scranton found her father and mother lying dead on the kitchen floor.

Lost Their Bearings. In some parts of western Canada the population consists almost entirely of newly-arrived emigrants from the United States.

Peculiar Tenure. The living of Colchill, in Warwickshire, just vacated by the resignation of the vicar, furnishes a curious method of tenure for students of folklore.

Medicine in Gambia. An official report to the British parliament on the condition of Gambia states that, generally speaking, the natives are in good health, which is rather surprising, considering that they rely when ill upon the treatment of a native doctor.

Paradise for Anglers. The spot in the world which offers fishing of the greatest variety is Fremantle, Western Australia. A man fishing from a boat in that harbor may catch two dozen varieties of fish within an hour.

IN FLORENCE PRISON.

Some Souful Memories of the Most Wretched of War's Experiences.

I surrender to the contagion affecting us old vets of fighting our battles over again, and the spirit moves me to make public, by the editor's kind permission, some reminiscences of my Florence (S. C.) prison experience in 1864, and to depict to the best of my ability my emotions upon finding myself again beneath the old flag in Charleston harbor on the 11th day of December, 1864, after more than seven months' experience in several southern military prisons, including Andersonville, Ga., during the summer of 1864, writes a correspondent of the National Tribune.

At Florence one of my most hair-raising adventures occurred during September, my first month there. On the day the stockade was completed and the prisoners marched into it from the outside camp, four of us, including myself, had an excavation prepared of four-man capacity, into which we packed ourselves, our friends above covering the opening with rails and earth and removing all suspicious traces.

We could hear their approaching tramp, which presently stopped above. They stepped upon the cover, and the sound was suspicious. Then a sword point came working through, and then the covering was torn way and a confederate officer, peering down, exclaimed: "Why, here's a whole nest of them."

"WHY, HERE'S A WHOLE NEST OF THEM."

like the keystone of an arch, and necessarily I must be the first man out. "Give me a hand," I requested, extending my arms toward the guard of the coked gun. "No, I'll be hanged if I do." Get out the way you got in," he replied. My three comrades were able to furnish some assistance, and being more of a gazelle in '64 than I am now, at 61, I managed to reach the exit, and in extricating myself quadded fashion. This same fellow delivered a volley of rapid-fire kicks from an inch shoe sole, and being an unprotected cruiser, as it were, bless me if the impact did not shiver my anatomy from stem to gudgeon, and the full extent of the disaster did not develop for a couple of days, from which time for nearly three months I was unable to maintain an even keel in sitting, but was forced to lie heavily to either port or starboard.

Jollying me along with his coked rifle and a couple of bayonet prods in my back, he commanded: "Now run, you Yankee — run or I'll blow a hole through you," and I said here's where I got my finish, and I ran the gauntlet in jig time between two lines of guards, extending to the stockade gate, a distance of 100 yards, perhaps, each man who chose taking a swipe at me as "I passed by," but none was as fierce as this fellow, and I saw him no more. I am wind-broken to-day, which I attribute to the effect of that spirit.

A Relic of the War. Mrs. M. W. Fogarty, of Yankton, S. D., writes to the National Tribune as follows: I have a Bible which was given to my husband while he was sick in hospital at Annapolis, Md. It has the family record of Thomas Randolph Harrison and Julia Leigh.

This Bible has been in my possession since July 10, 1864, the year after we were married. It was taken from a library at White House Landing after the battle of Seven Pines, and was among the lot that fell to my husband.

A Soldier's Epitaph. In the churchyard of Woolwich, Kent, England, is the epitaph: "Sacrificed to the memory of Maj. James Brush, Royal Artillery, who was killed by the accidental discharge of a pistol by his orderly, 14th April, 1831. Well done, good and faithful servant."
