GAME WARDEN'S
HIGH HANDED METHODS

Alleged to Have Searched Railroad Passengers for Ferrets Without Due Process of Law.

All law abiding citizens will submit that the game laws should be enforced and that the game in this country should be protected. They will also concede that the laws which have been placed on the statute books in Pennsylvania and other states in the Union are none too severe, and that in cases of flagrant violations the punishment fits the crime. The methods, however, that have been used by a certain game warden in this section have been the subject of no end of condemnation by sportsmen who believe implicitly in the enforcement of the law, but who strenuously object to the unwarranted manner in which this particular warden goes at it.

Since the fishing season closed he has turned his attention to the hunters. It is against the law to hunt with ferrets and the other day he caused the arrest of the members of a hunting party who were using one of these little animals. The men were guilty and no objection is made to their arrest, and if they are convicted all good sportsmen will say amen. But it appears that the warden goes too far, so far in fact, that it not only amounts to meddling with other people's business, but it will result in his either landing behind the bars or receiving a justifiable thrashing. According to a reliable informant it appears that the other day he entered a Lehigh train and passing down the aisles of the coaches proceeded to search passengers dressed in hunters' garb, to ascertain whether or not they had ferrets in their possession. The conductor of the train protested and so did the passengers, but the warden claimed he was an officer and had a right to do as he pleased. Possibly he did, but it is more than likely that he didn't. Without due process of law an officer has no more authority to search a train load of passengers than a private citizen has. The fact that the men were dressed in the garb of hunters might be taken as prima facie evidence that they were going to the woods to hunt, but by no possible reasoning could it be assumed that they had ferrets concealed about their persons, thereby violating the game laws. If he had been possessed of a search warrant, issued even in the name of the notorious John Doe, upon information and belief, then he would have been clothed with proper authority, and no one would question his rights however much they might decry his motives.

The game warden referred to has gained an unenviable reputation through the manner in which he has sought to protect the game in this section. There are those who insist that he is not so desirous of protecting the game and upholding the majesty of the law as he is in enriching his own pocketbook.

The Fransohian Musical Society met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Haupt, No. 116 North Elmer avenue, and a most enjoyable program was rendered. Mrs. C. H. Ott and Miss Ida Corbin sang solos, and papers were read by Mrs. Ott, Mrs. Hampton Huff, Miss Florence Stafford and Mrs. Hayden. German songs were the subject of a general discussion which was both interesting and instructive.

FIREMAN INJURED NEAR BURDETTE

Plunged Headlong From Moving Engine and Sustains Broken Collar Bone and Severe Scalp Bruises

Phillip Lendrum, a Lehigh Valley fireman, who resides in this place, is lying on a cot in the Packer hospital suffering from a broken collar bone and severe contusions about the head. Lendrum fell from the engine of an eastbound freight train near Burdette this morning, and the fact that he escaped with his life is considered miraculous. As the train approached Burdette the engine slowed down to take water. Lendrum was engaged in shaking the cinders out of the fire box of the engine when the lever he was using slipped, and before he could recover himself he was thrown to the centre of the tracks, landing in the stone ballast.

The train was running at a slow rate of speed which probably accounts for the fact that he was not fatally injured. He was picked up and brought here to the hospital. He will be laid up for some time.

KORS-WALKER

The marriage of Henry Smith Kors and Mrs. Eleanor Walker was solemnized at the latter's home 305 Desmond street, last night at nine o'clock in the presence of a few invited guests and friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. F. Warner, pastor of the methodist church. The bridal couple were unattended. Mrs. Reynolds played the wedding march and the ceremony was followed by a wedding supper.

The groom is one of the well known Lehigh Valley engineers while the bride is a most estimable woman, who has conducted a boarding house at the number above mentioned for some time. Immediately after the wedding supper the couple left for a short trip to Philadelphia.

STOPPED AT BOTH ENDS

It is said that the following conversation between a conductor and young woman occurred on one of the trolley cars the other night. The car stopped at the corner of Lockhart street and Elmer avenue and the young woman said to the conductor, "From which end do I get off?" "From either door, lady," replied the obliging conductor, "the car stops at both ends."

RETURNED TO SAYRE

Sereno Nelson, who was injured in February last and subsequently spent several months in the Packer hospital, returned from Oneonta to Sayre this morning and will accept a situation in the shops under Master Mechanic Kells. Mr. Nelson has recovered almost completely, a fact which will be learned with pleasure by his many friends in Sayre.

BRAKEMAN INJURED

R. L. Emery, an extra brakeman for the Lehigh Valley, was injured in the yards last night in an unaccountable manner. He was walked between two tracks when something struck him. He is unable to say what it was. He was knocked down and sustained injuries to his back and hips. He was taken to his home. The injuries are not of a serious nature.

LEHIGH NOTES

The Lehigh officials have placed an order for 18,000 tons of steel rails.

The Lehigh Valley Company's wrecking crew has been engaged in transferring several shanties and a telegraph office to various points on the mountains.

MESHOPPEN WAS TOO SLOW FOR THIS LAD

Clarence Avery, Barber, 16 Years Old, Is Detained Here on Information Furnished the Police by His Parents

Clarence Avery, a well dressed, bright appearing young man, is being detained by the police pending the arrival of his father from Meshoppen. The young man is 16 years old and is a barber by profession. He has been employed at his home in Meshoppen, but recently the town became too slow for him and he decided to come to Sayre, he having ascertained that barbers were badly needed in this place. Accordingly he boarded a Lehigh train and this morning he arrived in the City of the Plains. In the meantime his parents noted his absence from home, and having heard him talk of Sayre as affording excellent opportunities for barbers they concluded that their son had migrated to this place. A message, giving an accurate description of the lad was sent to Chief Walsh and within a short time after its arrival the chief had the lad in custody. When asked by a newspaper man why he ran away from home tears started in the lad's eyes, and it was plainly evident that it was his first offense. His father is expected to arrive here on a late afternoon train. In the meantime the boy will be looked after by the police authorities.

HEAD OF COAL TRADE

Henry C. Frick will be elected a director of the Lehigh Valley at the next meeting of the directors which will be held shortly. Frick is now the actual head of the coal trade, and he will be made a director of the Lehigh to succeed one of the Coxe representatives.

Mr. Frick besides the Lehigh will control the coal policies of the Reading and Jersey Central and it is said that he has guaranteed President Roosevelt that the coal mining companies will agree to a certain proposition as to the settlement with the mine workers in December.

END OF FISH CASE

The case against Rev. E. J. Rosegrant of Tunkhannock, who was charged by Game Warden Shoemaker with illegal fishing, has been discharged. The defendant set an outline in the river and was then called away by the sudden illness of his children, forgetting to remove the line. Shoemaker discovered the line and placed the clergyman under arrest. The case has been dragging along in the court for some time. While there was a technical violation of the law the district attorney permitted the defendant to be discharged as the evidence of intent was lacking.

AIR-BRAKED CARS

Inter-State Commerce Commission Renders Decision Which Will Increase the Percentage.

A recent decision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission will be read with interest by the Lehigh Valley railroad men as well as men who are employed on other lines. The decision referred to is in the minimum percentage of cars in trains required to be operated with power or train brakes. The decision states that increasing the percentage of air-braked trains from 50 to 75 per cent. would result in earlier operation of trains fully equipped with air brakes, and accelerate the removal from service of the old small capacity and comparatively useless cars now not equipped with that appliance. It is ordered that the minimum percentage of air-braked cars in trains used in inter-state commerce, shall stand increased 75 per cent. on and after August 1, 1906.
