TOWN TOPICS TRIAL.

Colonel Mann, Editor, on the Gridle at New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Colonel William D. Altou Mann, editor and proprietor of Town Topics, spent a couple of pleasant hours under cross examination at the hands of former Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne in the hearing before Magistrate Whitman in the Tombs police court of a charge of libel made by Colonel Mann against Norman Haggood, editor of Collier's Weekly, and against the two Mr. Colliers, who own that publication.

The name of Justice Deuel of the court of special sessions was brought into the cross examination, and Colonel Mann, while denying that the justice was paid for doing any editorial or clerical work, said he was always in the office of Town Topics on Tuesday nights as the paper was going to press.
"What did Justice Deuel do there?" asked Mr. Osborne.
"He used to look over the proofs," answered Colonel Mann.
"And he gave you advice as to what articles were libelous or nearly so?"
"Not in ten years has Judge Deuel given me one word of legal advice," said Colonel Mann.

WILL SEIZE MORE ISLANDS.

Powers Have Rejected Counter Proposals From Sultan.

VIENNA, Dec. 4.—It has been learned that the powers after carefully examining the sultan's latest counter proposals have decided to reject them and actively resume the naval demonstration in Turkish waters today, with the probable seizure of the islands of Lemnos and Imbros.

No consideration has been given to stopping the passage of the Dardanelles, owing to the interruption of international commerce which would follow.

After an examination of the sultan's counter proposals all the powers came to the conclusion that the propositions were dilatory and entirely unsatisfactory.

It is reported that the unanimity of the ambassadors is beginning to have effect on the Ottoman authorities. Even the military men who are leading the opposition against the acceptance of the demands of the powers are showing signs of weakening.

McCurdy was unconscious when taken to the hospital and died without making a statement. The woman was shot in the neck and was able to leave the hospital after she was given medical attention. Neither she nor McCurdy's friends can account for the shooting.

More Land Frauds in Oregon.

Mr. West added that the forged certificates are so well executed that it is difficult to distinguish them from the originals.

EARTH GULPS DOWN A BOY

Ground Gives Way Beneath Him—One of His Rescuers Also Has Narrow Escape.

Pottsville, Pa.—Returning home with a pail of water in his hand, ten-year-old Robert Mahoney, of Broad Mountain, was swallowed up by the earth, and for three hours lay at the bottom of a 68-foot mine breach waiting for help to arrive.

His rescue was as dramatic as his disappearance, as he again had a most remarkable escape from instant death, as did Richard Appleby, a neighbor, who was one of the number who brought him back to the surface.

The boy was terribly battered about the face and body. It is believed that he will recover, but if so, it will be a wonder. The Mahoney family secure their water from a tank near the railroad, and the boy was sent to secure a bucketful. He was returning over a frequently used path when the ground suddenly gave way beneath him, and where before the surface had been apparently solid a deep hole yawned.

How he escaped instant death cannot be imagined, but he was rendered unconscious for probably an hour. Then, recovering his senses, he began to call for help, and his cries were heard by several neighbors who had gone out to search for him.

A rope was secured and lowered into the breach, and this he tied about his waist. Giving a signal, he was hoisted to the top of the breach. As willing hands reached out to pull him to safety the rope parted.

Clutching at some shrubbery, he stayed his downward flight for a fraction of a second, which gave Richard Appleby time to reach out and grasp him by the coat.

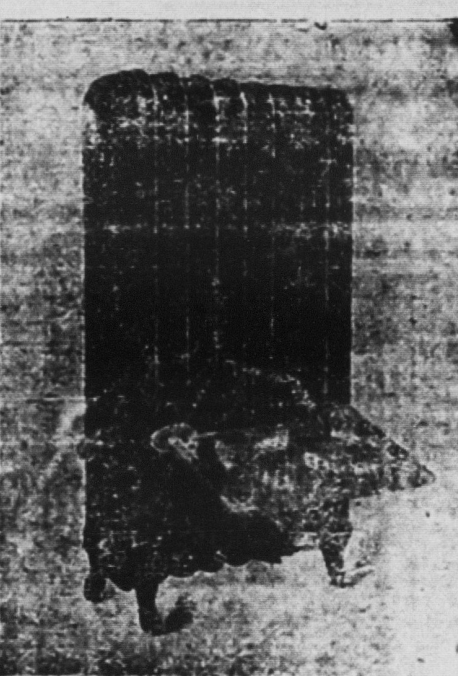

The weight of the body slowly pulled Appleby to the brink of the chasm, and just as the horror-stricken spectators expected both to go down to their death, he finally grasped a bush, all the time retaining his hold on the boy. Both were caught and dragged from danger.

Odd Cause for Divorce.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—William Pettit would not change his underwear, according to the testimony of his wife, Bertha Ione Pettit, in a divorce court. Not only did he wear one suit from spring to fall without changing and without having the suit washed, but he went a long time without taking a bath. She declared that William added insult to injury by throwing his underclothing under the bed after he had worn the suit all summer. For these reasons Mrs. Pettit was granted a divorce.
