BRIDGE EMPLOYEE FATALLY INJURED

Fell From Bridge at Wyalusing Creek and Sustains Frightful and Fatal Fracture of the Skull—Brought Here For Treatment

Frank Ohlinger, a German, died at 4:15 o'clock this morning in the Packer hospital from the result of horrible fracture of the skull which he received yesterday afternoon in falling from the new iron bridge which is being erected by the Lehigh across the Wyalusing creek.

Ohlinger was employed as a laborer on the bridge and was walking across one of the spans when a plank gave way underneath him. He plunged downward a distance of twenty feet, his body turning twice in its descent. The timber on which he had been walking reached the bed of the creek first and Ohlinger's head struck the end of the timber. Fellow workmen went to his assistance and found him in an unconscious condition with the blood flowing freely from a frightful hole in the front part of the skull just above the right eye. There were also a number of bruises on the body caused by his coming in contact with the false work of the bridge. He was placed on board the west-bound Lehigh passenger which is due here at 5:30 and taken to the hospital. The surgeons pronounced the case hopeless from the start but did what they could to relieve the man's sufferings. He lingered until this morning and died at the hour above stated without having regained consciousness.

Ohlinger was unmarried and when not following his occupation as a bridge builder he resided with his parents at No. 1142 Perry street, Reading. He was about 26 years of age and had worked on the Wyalusing bridge for the Phoenix bridge company about six weeks. Previous to this he had been working on one of the highest cantilever bridges in Quebec.

The body of the deceased was removed to J. W. Grumme's undertaking establishment this morning. It is expected that the dead man's father will arrive here on a late train this afternoon.

BITTEN BY A DOG

The eleven year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ward of Olive street was bitten on the right wrist by a dog this morning. The lad was walking along the street when he met the dog, and the animal, without warning, grabbed the boy's wrist. Two of the teeth sank into the flesh and one of them caused a laceration an inch or more in length. Dr. C. A. Haines was called and cauterized the wound. The physician does not expect any serious results to follow.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER NARROWLY AVERTED

Further Details Concerning Yesterday's Wreck at Glen Onoko—Fireman Sustains Broken Arm

According to later information concerning the wreck which occurred at Glen Onoko yesterday morning a serious accident was narrowly averted, and as it was, both tracks were blocked nearly all day. A coal train going east had broke in two near a signal tower, and when the engineer backed his train to couple to the rear end the latter was crushed into with such force that it was forced a considerable distance west of the signal tower. Passenger train No. 20 about this time entered the block and before the engineer could bring his train to a stop the engine crashed into the caboose, almost completely demolishing it and two cars through which the huge iron monster ploughed its way. The engineer, supposing that he had a clear track, reversed his engine and diminished the speed just enough to avert a frightful disaster. The crew in the caboose jumped in time to escape injury and the fireman of the passenger engine, Geo. Acron, of Easton, jumped and sustained a broken arm. He was taken to the hospital at Easton for treatment. The wreck was an expensive one for the Lehigh and a wrecking crew consumed nearly all day yesterday in clearing away the debris.

TAMPED WITH SWITCHES

Recently the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has been greatly annoyed by boys who tampered with switches on the Harvey's Lake branch. Officers were stationed to guard switches and on Saturday last, two boys named Fisher, brothers, were caught moving the switches. They were arrested and taken before a justice of peace at Plainsville who held them in the sum of $500 bail each for their appearance at court. There has been several narrow escapes from wrecks on account of misplaced switches and the company is determined to make an example of the boys.

HORSE AND RIG MISSING

Will May, a resident of Franklin, this county, drove from his home yesterday to West Sayre to visit a cousin. As he intended to remain in the house but a short time he left his horse standing in the street unhitched. When he came out of the house the animal had disappeared and he has since been unable to find him. Whether the horse walked away of its own accord or whether some one drove him is not known. The matter has been reported to the police.

DIVORCE GRANTED

FAMILY OVERCOME BY ESCAPING GAS

James Adam, His Wife and Six Children Had a Narrow Escape From Asphyxiation This Morning

The family of James Adam, who resides at No. 663 Stevenson, were overcome at the family home this morning at an early hour by escaping gas. Last night one of Mr. Adam's sons went to the furnace in the cellar to care for it for the night. He was unaccustomed to attending to the furnace and it is presumed that he manipulated the drafts in such a manner as to allow gas to escape. This morning Mr. Adam, who was sleeping on the first floor, smelled the gas and upon rising from the bed discovered that he was somewhat dizzy. For a few days he had been suffering from a cold and he attributed the dizziness to his physical condition. His wife, who occupied the same room, also arose, but fell to the floor, nearly overcome from fumes of the gas. Six of Mr. Adam's children who were sleeping on the second floor of the house were also found to be suffering considerably from the deadly fumes. After opening the windows Mr. Adam telephoned for Dr. C. A. Haines. Mrs. Adam was found to be in quite serious condition and has been confined to her bed all day. She will recover. On account of being on the second floor the children were not so badly affected and after obtaining a sufficient amount of fresh air were all right.

"GRIMES CELLAR DOOR"

Don't fail to see "Grimes Cellar Door" at the Loomis, Monday matinee and night. The company is headed by that inimitable comedian, Mr. James B. Mackie, the man that has made millions laugh and who plays the part of "Grimeser Me Boy." Mr. Mackie has a reputation well known from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast as an entertainer. His manager has surrounded him with a merry collection of players, and a lively presentation of one of the liveliest entertainments is assured. There is not a dull moment during the whole performance as there are plenty of catchy music, pretty girls, pretty dances, comical comedians, etc., and the engagement of this clever comedian and company at the Loomis should prove an enjoyable entertainment.

LEHIGH CONDUCTOR INJURED LAST NIGHT

Thrown From a Freight Car in the Yards at Milltown and Sustains Numerous Bruises of a Minor Nature

Frank Carey, a Lehigh Valley freight conductor, whose home is in South Waverly, fell from a freight car in the westbound yards at Milltown about 8 o'clock last night, sustaining two contusions of the scalp, a broken finger of the right hand and several minor lacerations of the face. Carey was assisting in making up his train and had climbed to the top of a box car to give a signal to the engineer. Just as he had reached the top a shift of cars crashed with considerable force into the car on which he was standing. The impact caused him to lose his balance and he was thrown from the car to the ground. He was brought to the station on an engine and then taken to the hospital in the ambulance, where he was found to be injured as above stated. Although the injuries are of a painful nature he was able to leave the hospital within a few hours and go to his home. He will be off duty for several days.
