SENSIBLE REASONING ISN'T IT ?

A live business depends upon buying and selling and not hoarding. That's our policy briefly told. Between buying for cash, with 40 other large stores, selling for cash and a determined effort to lower our stocks at least one-fourth before Feb. 1, (our time for inventory.) We have repriced much of our merchandise, some lines moving slowly on account of the mild winter thus far, but we have used the knife liberally and cut to the bone prices that will bring shoppers for miles to save the much that this big store makes possible. Thus making our interests mutual.

We Continue the Pre-Inventory Sale

On Smith Saxony Axminster Carpets. The value and competitors' prices are invariably $1.25. Our price made, laid and lined. 98c

KREH UTTERED A WORTHLESS CHECK

New York State Officers Caused Arrest of Man Whom They Claim Secured Money by Fraudulent Methods

Athens—Chief Brooks of Waverly yesterday afternoon and obtained a warrant from Justice Johnson for the arrest of Albert Kreh, charging that he did "falsely, fraudulently and feloniously make, forge and sign a counterfeit check" for twenty-five dollars, and that after he had received the money upon the same that he had escaped from the state of New York and was in hiding in the state of Pennsylvania. The check is number 406, dated January 1, 1906, and is drawn on the First National Bank of Sayre, and is signed Albert Kreh and made payable to his own order. Chief Mulligan and Constable McGovern went to South Waverly and arrested the man last night and he was lodged in the borough lockup.

He is married, and about 25 years old. His wife was in Athens this forenoon and told that he was in the Elmira Reformatory a short time ago, but went there on his own account to learn a trade. He says that he has lived all around but has boarded lately in South Waverly. It was found upon inquiry that Kreh passed this check on T. S. Walker & Son, Waverly, in payment of a bill and that they presented it at the bank and found it worthless.

The prisoner will have a hearing before Justice Johnson and if the charges are sustained he will be held at Towanda for requisition.
