PRACTICAL JOKE SAVED PRENTICE

Because Members of Grand Jury Mixed Him Up With a Fake "Black Hand" Story, Vagrant Escapes Indictment

"Yellow journalism" is said to have been responsible for the action of the grand jury in failing to find an indictment against Geo. Prentice, the young man who was arrested here on the complaint of Ike Samuels some ten days ago. Prentice demanded a hearing and evidence was offered to show that he had been begging from door to door, that he had no occupation and that his only means of sustenance was in asking for money and food. When questioned by the committing magistrate Prentice admitted that he had not worked in over a month and that during that time he had obtained his living by begging. Prentice was held to court and in default of bail was taken to Towanda. Shortly after his hearing Ike Samuels, the complainant, received an alleged "black hand" letter from a local wag. The letter was in the nature of a joke but a representative of the Associated Press sent the story over the country broadcast. Now it is alleged that certain members of the grand jury read these dispatches and got the "black hand" story mixed up with Prentice, with the result that the whole case was considered as a huge joke and Prentice was released, the prosecuting witness, Ike Samuels, being charged with the costs.

While it may not be the province of a newspaper to criticize the action of the grand jury, it appears, nevertheless, that in this particular case there has been a flagrant miscarriage of justice. The sessions of the jury are of the star chamber variety and no one except the district attorney and the members of the jury are supposed to know what has been going on. In this case, however, one of the jurors has made statements which furnish the basis of this article, and has no hesitancy in saying that the jury believed that the charge against Prentice was confounded with the "black hand" joke.

The real facts in the case, however, place it in a different light. Prentice was clearly a tramp. He had no occupation and it was shown that he had been begging his living in this county. It was also shown that he had threatened to break into Samuel's jewelry store. Letters from the police authorities of Binghamton and Susquehanna stated that he was wanted in both places on charges of a more serious nature than begging. Summed up in a nut shell, Prentice is a decidedly bad egg and according to his own statements should be doing service for the state. If he was not a vagrant, on the showing made by the commonwealth, the vagrancy laws which are now a part of the statutes of Pennsylvania may as well be erased from the books.

DAYS GROWING LONGER

The days are growing longer now at both ends. The sun sets nearly twenty minutes later than it did and rises two minutes earlier. Hereafter until about the 20th of June the days will lengthen one minute in the morning and also one minute at night. By the end of this month the days will have gained fourteen minutes in the morning and forty-three minutes in the evening. An hour's consumption will be taken from the gas bill.

Succumbs to Typhoid Fever at the Home of Her Sister on North Elmer Avenue This Morning

Miss Stella Bosworth, 27 years of age, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Joseph W. Repp, of 103 North Elmer avenue, this morning shortly before noon. Death was due to typhoid fever, the deceased having been ill for nearly 5 weeks. Miss Bosworth was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bosworth of West Hill, N. Y., but for the past six years she had resided with her sister in this place. She was for a long time employed as bookkeeper in Swain's grocery store in South Waverly, and had a large circle of friends, all of whom will regret her death. Besides her sister she is survived by her father and mother and one aunt, Mrs. Eliza Bosworth a resident of Sayre.

The funeral will occur from the Methodist church at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. J. F. Warner officiating. Interment will be made at Tioga Point cemetery.

He fell from the boiler and as he went down his forehead struck a pin on the side of the boiler. The blow rendered him unconscious. He was taken to the hospital where the injury was attended to.

SHEPARD'S CREEK THREATENS HIGHWAY

Portion of Cayuta Street Is Liable to be Destroyed by Ravages of the Water - Council Will Probably Take Action

At the next regular meeting of the borough council it is expected that the threatened destruction of a portion of Cayuta street by Shepard's creek will come up for consideration. As is well known a section of the street runs from the east end of the Lehigh bridge to Milltown, and at the present time a section of the road just below the bridge is in a decidedly precarious condition. The creek is rapidly washing its way to the roadbed and only ten feet now remain between the bank of the creek and the road. Unless measures are taken shortly it is only a question of a little more time when the road will be washed away. This highway furnishes the only means for the travelling public to go in and out of Milltown, and should the high water at any time wash a section of the highway out, travel would be stopped, and could only be resumed by trespassing upon private property.

It has been suggested that the property lying between the bank of the creek and the road be purchased by the borough, and that a wall be constructed to prevent further ravages. Then the borough could use the property so purchased for a dumping ground. By this means it is thought that a whole lot of trouble can be saved, and at the same time give the borough an excellent dumping ground, a necessity which is much needed.

WEDDED LAST NIGHT

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Miller last night, when their daughter Ina C. Miller was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Albert C. Cranse of this place. TRANSFERRING ENGINES

The Lehigh Valley Company since acquiring the D. S. & S. Railroad has been using a number of engines of the latter road on the Wyoming and Buffalo divisions. Several have also been in use on Pennsylvania division. There are now about eight engines on the divisions mentioned and giving excellent satisfaction. The transfer of the engines creates a shortage on the M & H. division.
