ARREST EDITOR MANN

Chief of Town Topics Accused by Collier of Perjury.

Suit of Justice Deuci Against Editor Hapgood of Col-Her's Weekly.

NEW YORK Jan 29 - Colonel William d'Alten Main, editor of Town Topics, was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice McAvoy of the court of special sessions on the complaint of Robert J. Collier, who made an affidavit that the colonel had committed perjury at the recent trial of Norman J. Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, on the charge of libel,

The colonet had been informed that a warrant had been issued for him, and when Detective Flood of the district attorney's staff appeared at the office of Town Topics, 452 Fifth avenue, the editor was waiting for him. He asked the detective to take a seat while he made out some checks. Then both went down in the elevator to the olonel's electric cab, which was waiting at the door, and were driven to the criminal courts building,

The prisoner was arraigned before Justice McAvoy, sitting as a magistrace, and held for examination next Thursday afternoon, ball being fixed at $10,000. It was furnished by the olonel's daughter, Mrs. Albert A. Wray. She gave the buildings at 310 and 828 West Thirty-eighth street, the new home of Town Topics, as security

The colonel then returned to his office. When the colonel entered the special essions court in company with Detecitve Flood, James W. Osborne, Robert J. Collier and Moses E. Wooster, who were chatting with Justice Mc Avoy, arose. There was perfect silence, however, for a few moments. It was broken by the justice taking his seat and beginning to take the colonel's ped-

Mr. Loeb does not deny that he corrected proofs for Justice Deuel or sent photographs to him. He says it is quite possible that he did both, But he does say that if he did it it was without knowledge that they were to be used in "Fads and Fancies" or Town Topics or any such publication.

"If Judge Deuel secured any such sketch or photographs from me it was only by concealing the use to which they were to be put."

Mr. Loeb added that he could find no record in his office of any correspondence with Justice Deuel on the subject, but there might be some such rec-

Tucker Sentenced to Die. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 29. -Charles L. Tucker, convicted of the murder of Mabel Page of Weston on March 31, 1904, was sentenced to death by electricity during the week of June 10 by Judge Edgar A. Sherman. James A. Vahey, his counsel, asked for the postponement of the execution of the sentence until the furthest possible day in order that he might protect the rights of his client. When Judge Sherman asked Tucker if he had anything to say Tucker arose and gazed steadily at the judge. "Your honor," he said slowly and distinctly, "all I have to say is that I am absolutely innocent of this crime."
