FREDERICK VIII. KING

Eldest Son of Christian IX. Rules at Copenhagen.

NEW SOVEREIGN ADMIRES AMERICA

Secretary of State Root reads National's Condolence on Late Ruler's Death—Funeral Will Be Simple and Unostentatious.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 31.—Frederick VIII. has been proclaimed king of Denmark.

The ceremony took place in Ansliebrog square in front of the palace. The premier, M. Christensen, appeared on the balcony of the palace and announced to the 50,000 persons assembled below the death of King Christian IX. and the accession of his eldest son. The premier then called for cheers for King Frederick VIII.

The new ruler of Denmark joined the premier on the balcony and in a short speech declared that he would rule in accordance with the example set him by his father and trusted that the same accord between the king and the nation would continue as heretofore.

King Frederick received a warm bearded greeting from the assembled crowd, whose cheers mingled enthusiastically with the national anthem.

From early morning all the church bells tolled, minute guns boomed from the forts, flags everywhere were displayed at half mast and business practically has been at a standstill.

The American minister, Thomas J. O'Brien, has already acted upon cables from the Secretary of State Root, as follows:

"Convey through the appropriate channel the sincere condolence of the president and your country upon the death of his majesty King Christian IX."

King Frederick is a great admirer of America. As crown prince he never lost an opportunity to welcome prominent American visitors to his palace and always showed keen interest in events transpiring in the United States.

Following the wishes of King Christian, his funeral will be attended with little ceremonial. The body, which has been placed in a coffin, will not actually lie in state, but prior to the entombment, which is expected to take place in about a fortnight, will be viewed by the people of Denmark.

An enormous number of magnificent wreaths are coming in from every direction. The Duchess of Cumberland, daughter of King Christian, has arrived here.

The burial will take place in the cathedral of Roskilde, beside Queen Louise, in the chapel of Frederick V. King Haakon of Norway, Queen Alexandra of England and King George of Greece are expected for the funeral as well as a number of other princes and princesses from the continental capitals.

It is thought that the emperor of Russia will attend, and it is announced that Emperor William will be present in person, coming in a warship, which he will occupy during his stay.

King Frederick VIII. has expressed himself as being especially affected by the condolences of President Roosevelt on behalf of the American nation.

Queen Alexandra to Attend Funeral. LONDON, Jan. 31.—King Edward has arrived in town and with Queen Alexandra proceeded to Sandringham, where she will remain until she goes to Copenhagen to attend the funeral of her father, King Christian. King Edward has decided to open parliament in person, but the queen will not be present, and the state pageantry probably will be curtailed.

PACKERS' TRIAL

Vice President Morris Says That Garfield Tricked Beef Trust Men.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Edward Morris, vice president of the Fairbank Canning company and of Nelson Morris & Co., testified in the meat packers' immunities case that he had been required by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield to produce for the inspection of the commissioner the secret profit and loss books of his company after the commissioner had prepared a report on the beef industry.

Morris declared that Commissioner Garfield had taken these books and had inspected them. Morris told of receiving assurance from Commissioner Garfield that no knowledge furnished by the packers to the department of commerce and labor would be used against them. Morris told how he gave the information to Commissioner Garfield and his representatives and then declared that Commissioner Garfield returned to Chicago with the greater part of his report in proofs, which he submitted to Mr. Morris.

The witness said that he read the proofs and told Mr. Garfield that the report was correct. The commissioner then, the witness asserted, demanded that the profit and loss books of the company be brought to the downtown office of Morris & Co. for his inspection. They were brought, and the commissioner looked them over.

The statement that the commissioner had called for the secret books after completing his report caused a stir in court, but the witness insisted that he was "required" by Commissioner Garfield to submit the books to him.

The other witnesses, L. C. Krauthoff, Samuel McRobert, treasurer of Armour & Co., and Charles G. Dawes, formerly president of the Central Trust and now president of the Central Trust company of Chicago, insisted that they had heard Commissioner Garfield declare that any information he might procure from the packers would not be used against them in court.

VALENCIA DISASTER.

Indiana Report Having Seen Two More Survivors on Island.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Bamfield says that Indians just in from Doges Cove have reported the wreckage of another large steamer near Village Island, in the middle channel. Dry goods, oranges and other wreckage are coming ashore. It is believed that this is wreckage from the Valencia drifting into the channel.

The Indians also report that two white men are on the island. A later dispatch from Bamfield said that the tug Edna Grace arrived from the islands and reported having seen nothing of any new wreck.

Advices from Darling Creek, via Bamfield, say that crews from tugs landed there, but were unable to get any of the bodies recovered owing to the high sea, and it has been decided to bury the bodies there. The bodies recovered now number twenty-one.

"Every one seemed to shun us," said Allison, testifying before the board of United States inspectors in the Valencia investigation at Seattle. "All seemed to be afraid to help or to attempt to help the unfortunate men and women who were facing death."

"All those that succeeded in getting ashore immediately left the scene. The vessels at sea stood off and made no attempt to lower a boat. In the morning after the last raft put off from the Valencia there was no great sea running."

"How did it happen that so many of the crew were on the life raft?" asked Inspector Whitney. "As soon as the raft struck the water the crew took possession," said the witness.

WAS SHINING MARK

General Griassoff's Assassins Hid Bomb in Paint Can.

COACHMAN AND COSSACK DIE WITH HIM

Terrible Explosion Literally Blew Car's Officer Out of Carriage, His Body a Shapeless Mass—Revenge For Severity.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Tiflis gives details of the murder of General Griassoff, chief of the viceroys' staff, who was killed by a bomb. After hurling the missile the assassin tried to escape in the crowd, but was captured.

The murder of General Griassoff was most dramatic and audacious. The assassin evidently had studied the habits of his victim and lay in wait behind a wall of the Alexander garden opposite the entrance of the palace, where a carriage was drawn up to take the general for his daily drive.

As all suspicious persons are liable to be searched in the streets by the police and military patrols, the assassin impersonated a painter, carrying the bomb with which he committed the crime concealed in a paint can.

General Griassoff, clad in a crimson uniform and the white lamb's wool shako or cap, worn by the viceroys' aid-de-camp, made a shining target for the crouching assassin when he emerged from the palace.

As the general stepped into the carriage the man sprang on the wall, swung the can by a cord, and the bomb, as if thrown from a sling, with marvelous precision sped straight to the mark and struck the general on the neck.

A flash of fire and a terrific explosion followed, and Griassoff was literally blown out of the carriage and, with his coachman, Cossack orderly and the latter's horse, was instantly killed. A woman who was passing at the time of the explosion was mortally wounded.

Griassoff's shapeless body surrounded by soldiers, presented a gruesome spectacle. It seemed as if his crimson uniform had melted into the pool of blood in which lay his head, torn away from the trunk. The general's disarrayed widow knelt in the blood and mud beside the mutilated remains.

The assassin was caught, beaten into insensibility by the infuriated soldiers and after being loaded into a drosky was carried off to the ancient fortress above the city, where, as Tiflis is under martial law, he will probably be executed at dawn.

The identity of the assassin has not been established, but he is a Georgian and probably was selected by lot at a meeting of Social revolutionists to kill General Griassoff as a retaliation for the latter's severity in repressing the revolutionists and arresting the leaders.

According to reports, the general was the head of a faction which believed in not showing mercy, and he is charged with setting the native peoples against each other. He had received repeated letters of warning and for months had never ridden out without his wife.

A Vladislavov (Russian Poland) dispatch says that after an unsuccessful attempt on the life of Sheriff Popoff, who the police ascribed a synagogue, in which they found a quantity of arms. A fine of $1,500 has been imposed on the Jewish community.

Another outbreak of popular feeling has occurred at Riga. A mob gathered, shot down sentries at the police station and drove away their comrades, who rushed to their support. With great beams the mob battered down the doors and once inside killed the guards who paused to show fight.

All of the political prisoners were released, and the mob, frenzied with their success, marched about the streets bearing aloft incendiary banners and singing revolutionary songs.

This continued for the greater part of the day. The police made desperate efforts to clear the streets, but they were as chaff before the wind.

Roosevelt's Sisters Were Harassed. WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—An innocent transgression of the rules guarding the prerogatives and preserves of the house resulted when Senator Warren of Wyoming escorted President Roosevelt's two sisters, Mrs. Cowles and Mrs. Robinson, and two gentlemen into the private lobby just back of the hall of the house during the session.

Assistant Doorkeeper Kennedy spied the trespassers and with apologies escorted them hurriedly beyond the dead line and to a place in the gallery reserved for the president and his friends.

CLEVELAND'S FEARS

Ex-President Among the Medics at Albany.

DIVIDES HUMANITY INTO TWO PARTS

"Doctors Curtail Our Freedom," He Said—"Sick, We Pay Bills; Well, We Wait For Illness, and We Have to Do the Dying."

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The Medical Society of the State of New York celebrated last night in connection with its annual meeting the centennial of its organization. The meeting is important not only as recognizing the completion of a century of existence of the society, but likewise in the fact that the New York State Medical association after many years of separation has now been merged with it in one organization.

The centennial celebration took place in the Emanuel Baptist church. Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York, the president, presided. The speakers were former President Grover Cleveland, Lieutenant Governor Linn M. Bruce, Mayor Charles H. Gaus of Albany and St. Clair McKelway, member of the state board of regents.

Former President Cleveland received an ovation when he was introduced by Dr. Bryant. Mr. Cleveland's speech did not touch upon any question of great public or political importance, but was largely a witty discussion of the relations of doctors with their patients.

He repudiated the ancient fable of the devil venturing among lawyers and losing his tail, but admitted that it was "something of an effort for me to entirely close my mind to the old story of the devil who fell among the lawyers and to free myself from every tinge of apprehension concerning the things that may happen to the lawyer who tonight has fallen among the doctors."

Continuing, he said in part: "For the purpose of our argument let us divide humanity into two sections—one composed of a few doctors and the other embracing the many millions of their actual or prospective patients. I appear for myself and these millions, and I claim at the outset that, notwithstanding our large majority, the medical section of mankind has in one way or another curtailed the opportunity of freedom of thought and consideration bearing in mind what we are entitled by the laws of nature and of nature's God."

"We acknowledge that the world owes this minority a living. With a generous delicacy which reaches sublimity we are on their account not overobedient to the laws of health, and we sometimes pay their bills. When sick we submit with more or less humility to their orders. If we recover it is only to take our place on the waiting list still subject to further advice. If we do not recover it is left to us to do the dying."

Mr. Cleveland acknowledged the great debt which humanity owed to the medical profession and the notable advancement that profession had made, but declared that it had not been made "without some corresponding advance in the intelligent thought and ready information of their patients along the same lines."
