SOCIALIST MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED

A Good Sized Crowd Listened
Attentively to a Fine Address on Saturday Evening

Joseph Wanhope, the Socialist lecturer, addressed a large audience in the Howard Elmer hose house last Saturday evening. He proved to be a very interesting speaker and held his audience until 11 o'clock, and it was with reluctance that many departed even then.

The speaker dwelt upon the present capitalistic industrial system and said it was only transitory in its nature and bound to be superseded by something else. He maintained that the system of profit inevitably led to accumulation on one hand and dire poverty on the other; that profits led to an increase in the price of commodities over what the producer received, so that the producer could not consume all the product because he lacked the ability to procure it, and this, in time, led to an enormous surplus on the hands of the capitalist and limited his ability to employ labor, thus leading to the problem of the unemployed. He claimed that the capitalistic system was bound to pass by the very law of its operation, that it was a step in the world's progress, and that the change would be forced upon us from the very necessity of the case. He maintained that society would be compelled to take possession of the instruments of production; just as happened in some of the western towns during the great coal strike, when the citizens stopped the coal trains and took coal by force, giving as their only reason that it was twenty degrees below zero.

WESTERN RAILROADS HIT BY BLIZZARD

Big Blizzard is Raging and Traffic is Being Hit Hard

Lehigh Valley passenger train No. 8 arrived in Sayre this morning, but those who are accustomed to seeing it pull into the local station hardly recognized it. On account of a big blizzard which is raging west of here the Grand Trunk train with which the Lehigh makes connections at Suspension Bridge was blocked, and in order to accommodate passenger traffic available cars, consisting mostly of old coaches, were pressed into service and the train was run as a pickup. It is reported that railroads in the west are badly tied up as result of the storm. The Lehigh thus far has experienced no trouble on its own line.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

Not like Jules Verne, to be carried ahead of his time many years, but rather to be transported rearward nearly four centuries in less than four minutes, is what happens to the who witnesses Joseph Shipman's great production of "When Knighthood Was In Flower." The scenery used in staging the play has been prepared by the best scenic artists in New York after minute descriptions of the different localities about which the play is woven. The settings and properties are beautiful and are exact reproductions of antique originals in the museums of England and France, where the action of the play is laid. The company, which is headed by that truly great star, Virginia Drew Trescott, who appears as "Mary Tudor" is not only an excellent one but is finely balanced; Mr. John J. Farrell has been specially engaged as Charles Brandon, and from the rise of the curtain to its final fall each member lives in the year 1513, and all together carry the watcher to that year and keep him there, fill him with chivalric emotions and impulses, and let not his interest abate until the last fraction of a second of the play.

RAILROAD ECONOMY

Following its acquisition of the Coxie interests, which include the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill Railroad, the Lehigh Valley has inaugurated a policy of retrenchment on that line. The freight agencies heretofore maintained at Eckley, Beaver Meadow, Harwood and Tomhicken have been discontinued and the business distributed among other agencies. The name of Hazelton Junction has also been changed to Roan Junction and John Bitoff appointed agent at Stockton Junction, vice M. J. Boyle, resigned.

DIPHTHERIA CAUSES DEATH OF CHILD

Lewis Edwin Craft, Aged 6 Years,
Expired Yesterday of the Dread
Disease After a Short Illness

Lewis Edwin Craft, six years old, son of Mrs. Andrew Adam by a former marriage, died at the home of his mother on Desmond street yesterday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Death was due to diphtheria. The little fellow was taken ill only last Friday and the disease developed rapidly despite the fact that heroic measures were resorted to.

The house was quarantined yesterday morning by order of the board of health. This noon the remains, after having been placed in a hermetically sealed casket, were shipped to Seneca Falls, Mrs. Adam's former home.

WAGON ON FIRE

Driver Extinguished the Conflagration Without Calling Out Fire Department

G. W. Norris, of the firm of Gaige, Norris & Co., milk dealers, had a lively experience Saturday morning with an oil stove which persisted in setting fire to a milk wagon which he was driving, but which was extinguished without the necessity of calling out the fire department. Each morning it is a part of Mr. Norris's duties to serve three or four hundred customers with milk. The wagon which he uses is enclosed and in most respects is like the ordinary vehicle used by milkmen. During the winter months Mr. Norris carries on the wagon a small oil stove, and when the weather gets uncomfortably cold he lights the stove and it radiates sufficient heat to keep him fairly warm. Last Saturday morning it was unusually cold and previous to his starting out on his route he lighted the stove. Near the cold storage building he left the wagon to carry a bottle of milk to the front porch of a customer's home. When he returned the oil stove was doing business. It was not only trying to burn itself up but had also communicated the flames to the interior of the wagon which were making progress without any particular amount of draught. Mr. Norris also got busy and after considerable trouble succeeded in carrying the stove from the wagon and also in extinguishing the flames on the interior. After he got things righted about and had figured up the loss, he again lighted the stove and proceeded on his way, but the next time he left the wagon, upon his return, he was confronted with the same condition. The oil stove had again become unruly and for a time it looked as if the outfit was doomed. Again Mr. Norris did a fireman's duty and after a heroic struggle once more sounded the all out gong. Then he resolved to take the chances on freezing to death, and it is said that when he got through with that oil stove no one would ever suspect what it had originally been intended for.

REAL WINTER

For the first time this winter another earth in this neck of the woods is completely and effectually covered with a mantle of white. Snow began falling during the night and when the residents of Sayre awoke this morning, instead of bare ground their eyes fell upon a genuine winter scene. The man behind the snow shovel was much in evidence this morning, although in some instances the snow was allowed to lie on the walks where it had fallen. In this connection it is well to call the attention of property owners and tenants to the borough ordinance relating to the removal of snow after a storm. Within ten hours after the storm has ceased the snow must be cleared away or the borough police, acting under instructions from the burgess, will know the reason why.

HOSPITAL NOTES

A. W. Smith, a Lehigh conductor, fell from a car in the lower yards in Sayre this afternoon and sustained a severe strain of the right knee. He was brought to the station on a switch engine and thence taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

James Mitchell, an Italian, who resides at Milltown, was operated upon this forenoon.

George H. Long, a machinist's helper, fell and sustained contusions of the head and chest.

Special Officer Jesse Doty went to Canandaigua today to appear as witness before the grand jury in the case of the People versus Arthur Gatfield, who is charged with robbing a fellow passenger on a Lehigh train some time ago.

TRIED TO BITE OFFICER

Irene Sherman, a Towanda belle, whose reputation is somewhat soiled, made things lively for a police officer who tried to arrest her. She strenuously objected to being locked up on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and when the minion of the law attempted to place her in the bastille she tried to bite him. She fought so fiercely that the officer was compelled to call for assistance. Before the burgess on the following morning the woman contributed $5 to the borough treasurer rather than spend ten days in the jug.
