The new machine for the burning of the tar and refuse has been installed at the gas works and there will be no more complaint from the odor or smoke in the vicinity of the gas plant. The machine does its work perfectly.

Mrs. Elizabeth E. Congdon died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. P. Sexton, East Athens, Saturday night, aged 77 years. Her funeral will take place from the Sexton home tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment at the Orange Hill cemetery Rogers & Miller have charge of the burial.

WILLIAM KELLOGG PARK

William Kellogg Park died at his home in Philadelphia yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, after a short illness of pneumonia. Mr. Park was born in Athens, April 9, 1866, and his early years were spent here. He at one time was employed in the tentlet shop of the Bridge works but he had a decided talent for sportsmanship and for a long time has been editor of the Sporting News of Philadelphia. He was a young man of strict integrity and honor and enjoyed the confidence of all his associates. He was married to Miss Margaret Kirkwood of Malden, Mass. and together they have had a pleasant home in Philadelphia. His mother, Mrs. L. M. Park, was called to his bedside when his symptoms became alarming and she was with him when he died. He leaves a widow but no children. The arrangements for the funeral have not been made but his remains will probably be sent to Athens for burial.

POST WILL CELEBRATE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Athens—Perkins Post will celebrate Lincoln's birthday in an appropriate manner, Feb. 12. The committee reported their arrangements Saturday afternoon at the meeting, and now everything is ready for a successful time. Only the comrades and old soldiers with their wives are invited. There will be an old fashioned army dinner served at 12 o'clock, after which there will be speaking, singing, and recitations. The boys are enthusiastic and expect to have a royal good time.

Leave Sayre this afternoon and arrive at Chicago at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. In time for connections for western points. This is via Lehigh Valley, Michigan Central or Lake Shore Railroads. Sleeper $3.00 double berth from Buffalo. Best services and equipment—sleeping car—unexcelled dining car.

PALM READER SHOT HIM.

Isaac Bonnell Asked For Private Reading and Got a Mortal Wound. Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 5.—While Isaac Bonnell of Nashua, N. H., lay on the floor of the apartment of his wife, Mrs. Ida Bonnell, a palm reader of this city, bleeding from a bullet wound in the head, he accused first his wife and then A. L. Morrell, her manager, with shooting him. Bonnell was removed to the Hale hospital, where his case was placed on the dangerous list, and Mrs. Bonnell was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Morrell was held as a witness. Mrs. Bonnell told the police that her husband fired at her first and showed an abrasion of her right arm and a bullet hole through her sleeve. She claimed that she shot at him in self-defense.

When the police entered Mrs. Bonnell's apartment they found Mrs. Bonnell and Morrell caring for the wounded man. They were considerably confused at the contradictory statements of Bonnell.

On reaching the police station Mrs. Bonnell stated that she had not lived with her husband for several months. Her husband arrived from Nashua, and when he appeared in the room she said he demanded "a private reading immediately" and asked his wife to go into the back room. She started to follow him, but as he appeared very angry at Morrell's presence she decided not to go. Mrs. Bonnell said that her husband then drew a revolver from his hip pocket and fired at her, the bullet grazing her arm. She then reached for a 32 caliber revolver and fired. Bonnell fell to the floor with a shriek.

Both weapons were found by the police. Each contained one exploded cartridge. Mrs. Bonnell appeared very composed and insisted that she shot her husband. Bonnell, however, after first declaring that his wife shot him and that she fired first changed his statement a few minutes later and declared that Morrell fired the shot.

Bonnell's condition is regarded as critical, but it is believed that he has a chance of recovery.

KAISER DECLARES FOR PEACE.

Germany Will Not Fight With France Over Moroccan Dispute. BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The attitude of the French press toward Germany on the Moroccan question has induced the German government to declare emphatically that a failure of the Algeiras conference would not lead to war with France.

The conference on Moroccan reforms, says an Algeiras dispatch, has been freed of the minor questions before it and finds itself fast approaching the graver issue which heretofore caused the serious strain in the relations between France and Germany. This issue hinges on who shall control the police of Morocco, as it appears to be recognized that whoever controls this semimilitary organization will control Morocco itself.

The delegates to the conference have shown increasing anxiety at the approach of this issue, knowing the intense feeling it has aroused between France and Germany, and accordingly the representatives of the disinterested powers are redoubting their efforts to secure an accord before the question reaches the open conference and thereby avert an open controversy and a possible deadlock. Various compromise plans are being discussed.

Little Hope For Dr. Fowler. ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The condition of Dr. George H. Fowler, the well known Brooklyn surgeon, was reported at the Albany hospital late last night as very grave. It was said that he probably could not survive. Dr. Fowler came to Albany to attend a meeting of the state board of medical examiners, of which he is a member, and also the centennial of the State Medical society. He was attacked by appendicitis and was operated upon Monday and again Thursday. Dr. Fowler is a brevet brigadier general.

High Honors Paid Virginia Soldier. NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 5.—Colonel Alex M. Higgins of the Seventy-first Virginia regiment, was buried here with unusual honors. Governor Swann, Mayor Riddick and the city council, Colonel Higgins' late command and detachments from the Seventieth and Seventy-second regiments and regular army officers were in the cortege. The casket of the Richmond Howitzers used at the funerals of Jefferson Davis, General Fitz-Hugh Lee and former Governor O'Ferrall bore the remains.

Fire Disaster at Rennes, France. RENNES, France, Feb. 5.—All the buildings of the Home For the Aged in the Faubourg de Paris, kept by the Little Sisters of the Poor, were destroyed by fire. Nine bodies have been found in the ruins. Three women died from fright. Chaplain Stenou while attempting to save the inmates of the home fell and was seriously injured.

Church Saved from Sands. The ancient church of St. Piran (Cornwall), which was recently discovered in the sands at Perran, is about to be restored. The church stands near an ancient town of Cornwall, long since lost in the sands, and is considered to be by far the oldest in the country.

Farkey to Execute Alleged American. CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 5.—The court of cassation has confirmed the sentence of death imposed on Ghbrisk Vartanian, who claims American citizenship. Vartanian was condemned to death by the criminal court at Stamboul in September last for the murder of Apik Undjian, a prominent Armenian.

Ordered Germany to Wage Tariff War. BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The Vossische Zeitung says that a strong majority in the bundsrath, the German federal council, wants Germany to wage a tariff war with the United States.

AN EGYPTIAN QUICK SHAVE.

"Give me a quick shave," said a man who had wandered into a strange-looking barber shop in lower Washington.

"Yes, sir," replied the Egyptian barber, who was stout and swarthy. He began to unbutton the customer's coat and waistcoat.

"Hold on! I asked for a shave," exclaimed the customer.

"I shave you, sir," said the barber, and calmly proceeded to hang up the wearing apparel.

Then he removed collar and tie, unbuttoned the customer's shirt and tucked it down.

"What are you going to do?" demanded the customer, now a little frightened. "Is this the way to give a quick shave?"

"I make you feel plenty of good," said the barber reassuringly.

Then he began to strop a razor like a jackknife with a large inlaid ebony handle containing a fan and a stiletto.

"He's going to cut my throat," thought the customer. "I'd better keep quiet and perhaps I can escape. This is a quick shave with a vengeance. I'll lose my trade, anyway."

It was no alleviation that the barber was not loquacious. He went about his work seriously and methodically.

He poured some drops of an aromatic tincture into a basin and carefully washed the patient's chest. The next thing was to investigate certain moles and in one or two cases to pull out hairs with a pair of tweezers and apply a dab of ointment.

Then taking a gilt shaving cup inscribed with shorthand symbols of Arabic he lathered the chest, shoulders and lower back of the neck of the customer and proceeded to shave with the jackknife, which was fairly sharp.

"By the way, is this an operation for appendicitis?" asked the customer with mild sarcasm. "Perhaps you think I'm an actor going to wear a low necked toga in the forum scene."

"I shave good Egyptian style," replied the other serenely, and fetching a silver basin with a semi-circular opening to fit the neck he placed it under the patient's chin and hooked up a chain around his back.

The effect in the mirror was of a device to feed infants. Its object, however, seemed to be to catch the superabundant thin lather that flowed in streams from the upper lid and down the sides of the face.

"Go ahead," spluttered the hapless customer, noticing a clock in the mirror. "You've only been at this quick shave for 35 minutes. Do you generally make appointments by letter?"

The face was shaved twice in the space of 15 minutes, and the man in the chair had hopes of escaping. He reckoned without knowledge, for the infant's basin continued to be yoked up and the artist opened a box of surgical tools.

One of these, a mirror and probe combined, searched the secret places of the ear and cleaned it out. Another instrument shaved the inside of the ear, which was then scented and anointed. The same tool did a delicate job on the eyebrows, removing two hairs in the center.

"A dental surgeon, too," murmured the almost resigned patient, as the barber pried his mouth open, scraped the back of his teeth with a small steel hoe and inserting a roll of slippery elm bark used it as a toothbrush.

The rights of privacy seemed much exceeded when the patient's tongue was seized by silver nippers and scraped by another instrument.

"I fix your finger nail in your foot," asked the artist at this juncture.

"No, no; you've done enough to me," exclaimed the customer. "Let the rest of my body alone. I suppose if I'd asked for a hair cut, instead of a quick shave, you would have amputated my leg and trepanned my skull."

"Egyptian barber; do everything," was the calm reply. "I graduate school in Cairo."

The concluding operations were an orange flower scented face wash, anointings of various sorts, combing of the eyebrows, a dry shampoo of the hair, with perfuming, anointing and combing, and a squirt of some fragrant liquid into mouth and nostrils. All this brought the total time for a quick shave up to one hour and eight minutes.

"What is the damage?" said the customer as he was reclothing himself.

He felt himself in fact much freshened and exhilarated after so many and varied attentions.

"Twenty-five cents," replied the swarthy artist, naming a higher price than he charged to compatriots.

"Say that's dirt cheap," exclaimed the American, adding a ten-cent gratuity. But you ought not to advertise it as a quick shave, old man."

"The quick Egyptian shave," said the barber.—Washington Post.

Adventures of Girl Tramp.

Crescent Point, Ill.—Nellie Wilson, aged 15, who has been missing from her home near here since August 10, has been found and was returned to her sorrowing parents. She told a sensational story of her adventures for the past three months, declaring that she went to Chicago, walking all the way. From there she went to Joliet, where she fell in with some youthful tramps and, donning male attire and cutting her hair, she traveled as a boy. She was arrested near Pekin, Ill., and, being released, went to St. Louis and from there to Joplin, Mo., where she went to work as a boy in the zinc fields. There she finally was recognized by Henry Bouman, of this place, who immediately notified her parents and later accompanied her here.
