DUTY AS A DROWN

If It Is Not Wom as Buch It he a Chain Which Chafes and The oil well was down 1,005 feet

The Psalmist reached the highest arthly state when he could say: "Oh, Hon. L. T. Hoyt returned from how I love Thy law!" Then is duty, indeed, transformed into a pleasure. in Good Housekeeping a writer tells in rhyme how a soul lost this joy: Perkins post, G. A. R., will meet She wore her duty as a crown,

And in her passing up and down One came who laughed to see her Such triff; with so grand an air. "She took it off. 'One cannot be A laughing-stock for such as he.' Behold, her feet, once swift to go, Move now reluctantly and slow.

She walks a prisoner, looking down Who wears not duly as a crown Must frag it as a choin"
