ATHLETIC TEACHER WHIPS BOYS AND THEIR FATHER.

Girl Uses Only Flats on Younger One, But Beats Parent with a Poker.

Lisbon, O.—When it comes to downright proficiency in the manly art of boxing, Miss Elvira Heston can give pointers to all the big, overgrown boys in the nearby country school, over which she presides, and she has also proved her ability to hold her own against their fathers.

One Friday recently Miss Heston trounced a whole family, each member of which was large and husky enough to be used as a breakfast food advertisement, and she made so little of it that the bout would never have become public if it had not been brought to her attention that the injured father intended to have her arrested.

Upon hearing this the schoolteacher went to the office of a justice of the peace and had the father put under bail to keep the peace.

Two sons of Boston Swaney, an influential farmer, were among her pupils.

When she ordered the younger Swaney to change his seat the elder Swaney said: "Aw, donchudawit!" thereby inciting the younger boy to open mutiny, there was nothing for it but a trial of strength.

One spring brought the teacher to the desk of the younger Swaney. She fastened her right hand on the back of his coat collar, and although he held to the sides of the seat with all his might, she pulled him out into the aisle and trounced him soundly. Then she thrashed the big brother.

The Swaneys went home at noon and returning later in the afternoon said triumphantly:

"Pa said you were to give us our books, and he'll see about this later."

Miss Heston refused to give up the books. After she had dismissed school for the day and was banking the fire for the night, Farmer Swaney appeared and demanded his sons' books, which she again refused to surrender.

The teacher says that Swaney slapped her face. At all events, she made a right swing for the farmer's face, which hurt her hand. Then she picked up the poker and broke Swaney's nose. He bolted for the door and the teacher followed, overtaking him in the road, where she knocked him down with the poker, fracturing his jaw and beating him until he begged for mercy.

It has been the aim of the manager of Under Southern Skies, and the insistent demand of Lottie Blair, author of the play, to secure young and beautiful women who typify the famed beauty of the south. Much care has been taken in this matter and a lovely bevy of femininity would be harder to find than that which will grace our local stage when the famous success Under Southern Skies is presented in our city.

HAVE RENTED STORE ROOM

Waverly—Knapp & Sons have rented the store adjoining their present place of business on the rear, and will fit it up as a ready-to-wear department. Doors will be cut through so as to connect it with the old store, and a new plate glass front will be placed in the addition. The object of this latest acquisition is to place as much of the firm's business on the ground floor as possible.

Initiated Twenty One Candidates Last Night and Wound Up With a Celebration

Waverly—The Waverly Aerie of Eagles had a celebration last night that kept up until the wee sma' hours. The occasion was the initiation of 21 candidates.

A street parade was the first feature of the evening. The entire order, headed by the boys' band paraded the street, taking the 21 candidates with them, all properly roped. After returning to the hall the process of initiating was commenced, and today many of the candidates feel that something has happened to them.

President Welton of the Elmira Aerie officiated at the initiation. After the several candidates had demonstrated their qualifications for membership a smoker was held and a goodly supply of eatables and drinkables were disposed of. Several speeches were made, while songs and dances helped enliven the evening.

Many Eagles from Sayre and other nearby towns were present.

SEVERE EXPLOSION OCCURS IN STORE

Waverly—An explosion occurred yesterday in the rear of one of the Waverly furniture stores that was the cause of considerable fright to one person, and the source of amusement to several others.

One of the clerks in the store purchased a fire cracker about six inches long and succeeded in attaching it to the coat tail of the victim of the joke who spends considerable time in the store after which he lighted the fuse and awaited developments.

The object of the joke was engaged in earnest conversation and had no warning that he was in close proximity to a mine.

When the eruption occurred he started on an aerial ascension that carried him nearly to the ceiling, and let out a whoop that would make an Apache turn from a deep copper to a bright green. He then settled down in silence and humiliation while the gleeful shouts of the spectators reverberated through the building.

THE POSTOFFICE SITUATION

The announcement yesterday that George D. Bonfoey had been recommended by Congressman Mial E. Lilley as postmaster of Sayre, has caused no end of discussion and today it has been the chief topic of conversation among those who have followed the various checker board moves which have been made since that evening in May last when Boss Lilley came to Sayre, paid a visit to the Weaver residence, and while there informed that gentlemen's family that the time had come when there must be a change in postmasters.

Mr. Lilley's visit to the Weaver residence precipitated one of the bitterest struggles for the office of postmaster that this borough has ever witnessed. E. J. Connelly, the acknowledged leader of the Republican party in this borough, and the scarred hero of many an important political battle, was announced as Mr. Lilley's choice for the place. The announcement was followed by a protest and the protestants named J. Henry Price, the present deputy postmaster. Then the fight waged fast and furious. Petitions were circulated, public meetings were held, committees visited the seat of government at Washington, and for three weeks there was something doing every minute. Then the situation took a turn. The Price people had succeeded in blocking the appointment of Connelly and thus the matter rested until the announcement of yesterday conveying the intelligence that Mr. Bonfoey had been named for the coveted plum.

So far as Mr. Bonfoey is concerned there is no complaint and it is conceded that the office has fallen to a worthy citizen, but the attitude on the part of the people toward Boss Lilley is of an entirely different nature. Men who have heretofore felt inclined to overlook his monumental blunders in connection with the case, are today heaping upon his head unstinted condemnation. They say that he has simply again demonstrated himself a political trickster, and that he has not only gagged the citizens of Sayre but that he has wantonly thrown down the man whom he had promised to stand by and make postmaster of Sayre even at the expense of his seat in the halls of congress.

They say that all along Mr. Lilley has professed to be Connelly's friend, and to desert him at the eleventh hour, without even so much as giving him notice of his intentions, is an outrage which will not be tolerated. From the talk which has been heard today it is evident that the friends of both Mr. Price and Mr. Connelly have been treated unfairly, and without consideration.

It is claimed that Lilley should have given the friends of the two applicants notice that he intended to appoint another man, and this would at least have afforded an opportunity to protest. Lilley, however, did not do even this, but with his usual disrespect of the peoples' wishes, announces that he has made a recommendation.

As heretofore stated there is no feeling against Mr. Bonfoey but so far as Mr. Lilley is concerned that gentleman has forfeited the friendship of the small following that he had in Sayre.
