He Laughed.

"What is the matter, darling?" asked the anxious mother, when her small son came to her in tears. "Well, you see, mamma, papa was hanging a picture, and he dropped it and it fell on his toe." "But that is nothing to cry about," cried the mother, cheerily; "you should have laughed at that, sonny." "I did, mamma," responded her small son, regretfully.

Overworked Smokestacks.

Smokestacks are often much overworked in manufacturing plants. The number of fuses turned into them is made so great, as the establishment grows, that deficient draught often interferes seriously with the usefulness of boilers. Sometimes nine do no more work than seven, of like size and structure would, if the chimneys were adequate.

Tamed the Fish.

After spending a great part of five months standing up to his neck in the waters of the Lake of Luzern, Dr. Fatsenrach, a Zurich professor, has succeeded in taming about 300 fish so that they sat out of his hand and let him lift them out of the water. He has also taken some remarkable photographs of his fishy friends.

Fall Not in Nobleness.

Although my feet may never walk your ways,
No other eyes will follow you so far,
No voice rise readier to ring your praise,
Till the sweet coming of these future days
When the world knows you for the man
You are.

You must go on and I must stay behind;
We may not fare together, you and I,
But though the path to Fame be steep and blind,
Walk strong and steadfastly before mankind,
Because my heart must follow till you die,
Steadfastly and strongly, scoring men
Success.

Least to others—to yourself severe,
If you must fall, fall not in nobleness,
God knows all other failure I could bless
That sent you back to find your welcome here.
—Berliner's Magazine.

Thistledown.

Along the way it tumbles here and there
Heading for nowhere in particular.
First it goes twisting round the mossy
bar
And then a-down the dusty thoroughfare,
Its silver whisks sleek and debonair.
One moment monkey with the daisy star
Then like the steam drift from a sawyer
It swirls about and doesn't seem to care
A continental where it goes so long
As it's a little happy on its way.
'Tis like a woman who Joy's warts-great
lops
When idly floating on the wings of song
She pauses everywhere among the gay
Objects for which she fondly lives and shops
—Puck.

Thanksgiving.

Let us be thankful for the loyal hand
That love held out in welcome to our own,
When love and only love could understand
The need of touches we had never known.

Let us be thankful for the longing eyes
That gave the secret to us as they wept,
Yet in return found, with a sweet surprise,
Love's kiss upon their lips, and smiling
sleep.

And let us, too, be thankful that the tears
Of sorrow have not all been drained away,
That through them still, for all the coming years
—We may look on the dead face of Te-Lay,
—James Whitcomb Riley, in The Reader.

COLEMAN HASSLER,

EIGHTY CENT GAS.

Albany Assembly Passes the Arnew House Gas Cheap Light.
ALBANY, N. Y., March 1.—Without a dissenting vote the assembly passed the Arnew eighty cent gas bill. This bill reduces the price of gas in New York and the greater part of Brooklyn to 80 cents a thousand, but leaves the price in the outlying districts of the city at $1.25 a thousand, as it is now, with a reduction of 5 cents a year to a dollar a thousand.
The state gas commission has already reduced the price in New York to 80 cents after May 1.
The bill will now go to the senate. It provides for eighty cent gas in the borough of Manhattan, all the borough of Brooklyn excepting two wards, the First ward of the borough of Queens and all of the borough of the Bronx excepting that contained in the former town of Westchester, outside the villages of Wakefield and Williamsbridge. In the old town of Westchester, in the borough of Bronx, outside the villages of Wakefield and Williamsbridge, a sliding price is fixed at $1.15 and dropping to a dollar in 1911.
After a long debate the Republicans, aided by the municipal ownership members of the assembly, put through the Lauterbach-Gruber damage claim grab bill by a vote of 86 to 266.
This bill has been characterized by representatives as "the most dangerous bill that has been before the legislature for twenty-five years."

MATTERS BEFORE CONGRESS.
Former Speaker in Senate on Railway Bill—Army Measure in House.
WASHINGTON, March 1.—Mr. Foraker held the attention of the senate while he read a carefully prepared speech on the railroad rate question. It was a protest against any general legislation on the theory that the existing Elkins law could be so extended as to make it answer all the requirements. He did not fail, however, to point out what he considered the defects of the Hepburn-Doolittle bill, and he made the declaration more than once that it would fail to remedy the evils complained of.
The details of the provisions of the army appropriation bill occupied the house.
Throughout members of the appropriations committee, headed by Chairman Tammey, were in controversy with Chairman Hull and the members of the military committee. Each contest was an effort either in the direction of reducing or restricting the amounts carried in the bill.
Incidents included an unsuccessful effort to recognize the heroism of two of San Francisco's firemen who lost their lives in the recent fire on the transport Mendocino. Mr. Kahn (Cal.) presented an amendment to pay their widows $3,000 each, and many members approved, but a point of order was fatal to the attempt.

Weather Probabilities.
Increasing cloudiness and warmer southerly winds.
