OUR COAST DEFENSE

President Sends Special Message to Congress.

CITES JAPAN AS EXAMPLE FOR US

That Well Fortified Ports Enabled Togo to Move His Fleet With Perfect Freedom Is Worthy of Our Serious Thought.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—President Roosevelt has sent a special message to the senate and house of representatives on coast defense, in which he says:

"Our coast defenses as they existed in 1890 were not surpassed in efficiency by those of any country, but within a few years the introduction of rifled cannon and armor in the navies of the world, against which the smoothbore guns were practically useless, rendered them obsolete. For many years no attempt was made to remedy the deficiencies of these seacoast fortifications. There was no establishment in the country equipped for the manufacture of high power rifled guns. There was no definite adopted policy of coast defense, and congress was reluctant to undertake a work the cost of which could not be stated even approximately and the details of which had not advanced so far as could be ascertained beyond the experimental stages."

"The act of March 3, 1898, was the first decisive step taken to secure suitable and adequate ordnance for military purposes. Under the provisions of this act a joint board of officers of the army and navy was appointed for the purpose of examining and reporting to congress which of the navy yards or arsenals owned by the government has the best location and is best adapted for the establishment of a government foundry or what other method if any should be adopted for the manufacture of heavy ordnance adapted to modern warfare for the use of the army and navy of the United States."

"This board, known as the 'gun foundry board,' made its report in 1894 and directed public attention not only to the defenseless condition of our coasts, but to the importance and necessity of formulating a comprehensive scheme for the protection of our harbors and coast cities."

"Since then the defense board from time to time has made necessary recommendations for the defense of all our seaboard, such as at the eastern entrance to Long Island sound, Port Royal, Tampa, Puget sound, on the west coast, and Chesapeake bay."

"The following ports also have been recommended for defense: The Kennebec river, Portland, Portsmouth, Boston, New Bedford, Narragansett bay, eastern and southern entrances to New York, Delaware river, Baltimore, Hampton Roads, Potomac river, Cape Fear river, Charleston, Savannah, Key West, Pensacola, Mobile bay, Mississippi river, Galveston, San Diego, Columbia river, lake ports and Kilauea island."

"In the insular possessions the great naval bases at Guantanamo, San Juan and Pearl harbor, the coaling stations at Guam and San Juan require protection, and in addition defenses are recommended for Manila bay and Honolulu, because of the strategic positions of these locations."

"Defenses are recommended for the entrances to the Panama canal with such fortifications as are necessary."

"The necessity for a complete and adequate system of coast defense is greater today than twenty years ago, for the increased wealth of the country offers more tempting inducements to attack, and a hostile fleet can reach our coast in a much shorter period of time. The fact that we now have a large navy does not in any wise diminish the importance of coast defenses. On the contrary, that fact emphasizes their value and necessity for their construction."

"It was due to the security defended condition of the Japanese ports that the Japanese fleet was free to seek out and watch its proper objective—the Russian fleet—without fear of interruption or recall to guard its home ports against raids by the Vladivostok squadron."

"This, one of the most valuable lessons of the late war in the east, is worthy of serious consideration by our country, with its extensive coast line, its many important harbors and its many wealthy manufacturing coast cities."

DOCTOR VERSUS PRAYER

Female Followers of Dowle Forced to Have Medical Attendance.

CHICAGO, March 6.—The city health department is justified in forcibly interfering in cases of extreme sickness where the services of a physician are refused by relatives of the invalid, according to an opinion rendered by Corporation Counsel Lewis.

Since the advent of John Alexander Dowle in Chicago many cases of this nature have been brought to the notice of the city authorities, but no definite action has ever been taken until the present time, when prayer instead of medicine or surgery was used in the treatment of Mrs. Ella Turner, a believer in Dowle's teachings.

The woman had been suffering for over twenty-four hours, and her life was in imminent peril, as her condition called for an immediate operation. Instead of calling a physician the woman's husband and relatives appealed to Overseer Volva of Zion City, who sent one of his disciples to pray for the patient.

The woman's cries of pain attracted a neighbor, who reported the case to the police. The police at once advised the health department. Health Commissioner Charles J. Whalen secured from Corporation Counsel Lewis an opinion that the health department was justified in interfering in such an extreme case and sent a physician to attend the woman, and her suffering was stopped.

DREYFUS CASE AGAIN UP.

Major Cuiquet Denounces French Government's Delay.

PARIS, March 6.—Major Cuiquet has written an open letter denouncing the delay in the Dreyfus case before the court of cassation and intimating that the delay is due to official manipulation of the secret papers in the case.

Major Cuiquet is the officer who discovered the Henry forgery while he was examining the Dreyfus documents at the time M. Cavaignac was minister of war and who had a dispute with the late war minister General Andre about some of the papers. The major is now in command of a battalion of an infantry regiment stationed at Bergerac, who in his testimony positively denied that Small was kept without food or sleep for seventy hours in order to compel him to confess or that he was promised that $500 would be expended for his defense at the trial. Lore further testified that Small's wife was the principal factor in securing his admission to the trial.

Small admitted that he had hit the woman on the head with a club, but that Johnson had first assaulted her and afterward choked her to death by tying a strap around her throat. Small said he was angry with Johnson for having killed the woman, as he thought there was no necessity for it and furthermore because Johnson refused to divide with him the proceeds of the robbery of the house.

It is expected the case will be concluded tomorrow, as Small will take the stand and swear the confession was extorted from him by torture.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 6.—President Schurman of Cornell has declared that unless he has assurance from the sophomore class that hostilities which involve destruction of property, danger to life and loss of university work are precluded he will not permit the freshmen to hold their banquet this year.

Addressing a student mass meeting President Schurman said that the faculty was not opposed to the human tendency to making a newcomer feel like a newcomer, which is even practiced in the New York Stock Exchange and in the United States senate.

Hale, was caught in a southwest gale just inside the Cape Fear bar and was driven ashore on Middle shoal, about the same location where the schooner General Adelbert Ames foundered about three weeks ago. ALLINSON MURDER.

Negro Who Confessed on Trial at Mount Holly.

ANOTHER UNDER DEATH SENTENCE

Prosecution Trying to Substantiate Accused's Recent Acknowledgment of the Killing of Moore-town Young Woman.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., March 6.—George Small, colored, was placed on trial charged with complicity in the murder of Miss Florence Allinson, also colored, in a row under sentence of death. Miss Allinson, who lived near Moorestown, N. J., was murdered in a barn on Jan. 18. Rufus Johnson was later arrested in Baltimore and confessed to the murder. He was tried and convicted and was to have been hanged on Feb. 23.

After his conviction he made a statement implicating Small, who was arrested. The latter also made a confession, in which he said he was the actual murderer. Later he repudiated this confession. Johnson was reprieved for thirty days in order that he might be used as a witness in the trial of Small.

All the efforts of the prosecution in the trial of Small were in the direction of substantiating Small's recent confession and paving the way for its admission as evidence. There were five witnesses present when Small made his confession, and all of them testified that no inducement was held out to him by the prosecutor and that he was specifically warned that whatever statement he made would be used against him at the trial.

The confession was first made to Detective Frank J. Lore of Bridgeton, who in his testimony positively denied that Small was kept without food or sleep for seventy hours in order to compel him to confess or that he was promised that $500 would be expended for his defense at the trial. Lore further testified that Small's wife was the principal factor in securing his admission to the trial.

Counsel for the defense objected to the admission of the confession for the reason that improper influence had been used to secure it, but the court decided it was admissible, and it was thereupon read to the jury. It was substantially the same as that made by Rufus Johnson.

Small admitted that he had hit the woman on the head with a club, but that Johnson had first assaulted her and afterward choked her to death by tying a strap around her throat. Small said he was angry with Johnson for having killed the woman, as he thought there was no necessity for it and furthermore because Johnson refused to divide with him the proceeds of the robbery of the house.

It is expected the case will be concluded tomorrow, as Small will take the stand and swear the confession was extorted from him by torture.

POLICING MOROCCO.

Russians Make an Important Move at Algeciras.

FRANCE AND SPAIN TO CONTROL MOORS

Proposal From Chap's Delegates Taken Conference by Surprise—Britain, Spain and Portugal Support the Arrangement.

ALGECIRAS, Spain, March 6.—The session of the conference on Moroccan reform was marked by an unexpected and important move on the part of the Russian delegates, who laid before the conference a long documentary exposition of the police question.

The statement, which minutely goes over the existing situation in Morocco and analyzes the position of the various powers, concludes with an argument for the proposition that France and Spain are the most fit to be entrusted with the task of controlling the police force which is about to be created.

The British, Spanish and Portuguese delegates expressed their concurrence with the Russian views. Italy, however, though inclined to favor the scheme, reserved final approval. Count von Tattenbach, the junior German delegate; Henry White, the chief of the American delegation, and the delegates of the several neutral powers did not express their views.

Discussion of definite police proposals was postponed until Thursday, while the bank project will be argued tomorrow.

The French and British delegates to the conference regard the expressions from the Mediterranean powers as likely to exert great influence on the final vote of the neutrals relative to the policing of Morocco.

Baron Bacheracht, the second Russian delegate, argued that inefficiency of collective action by the powers in Morocco had been proved by the unsuccessful operations of the international sanitary committee at Tangier. He pointed out that French officers' experience with Mussulmans and Spanish officers' experience with Rifians had placed them in the best position to control the Moorish elements, which eventually must form the main body of the police by which the security of foreigners is to be assured and commerce facilitated.
