Latest to arrive to attend the hearing on the Armstrong bilis was the delegation from the Life Underwriters' association, 1,500 strong with William C. Johnson, chairman of its legislative committee, at the head. Every hotel is taxed to its capacity, and even cots command a premium. Here is a list of the prominent men who are on the firing line Presidents Morton, Peabody, Orr, Woodroff and Ide; Actuaries Van Cise, Weeks, McClintock, Welch, Gore, Sartell and Wynn; Experts Kingsley, Tatlock, Huntington, Holmes, Dunham, Lunger and Lamb.

Fortifying these men are the followng lawyers:

William B. Hornblower, J. H. McInosh, Samuel Untermyer, Frederic L. Allen and Richard V. Lindabury, the latter here as the personal representaplay. tive of United States Senator John F. Dryden of New Jersey, president of the Prudential.

An interesting feature of the bearing was the presence of the three new presidents of the "big three" life companies of New York city-Paul Morton ex-secretary of the navy, who succeeded James W. Alexander at the head of the Equitable; Alexander E. Orr, successor to the late John A. Mc Call as president of the New York Life, and Charles J. Peabody, successor to Richard A. McCurdy as president of the Mutual Life. All three spoke briefly, President Morton filing a written communication, one of the principal subjects of which was the proposed restrictions upon the investments of life insurance companies.
