THE ENGINE TOOK A WILD PLUNGE

Ran Down the Weatherly Hill and Landed in the Bed of a Creek

A most singular accident, and one without parallel in the annals of railroading, occurred to a Lehigh Valley engine on the Weatherly hill on Friday evening. The engine ran away and leaped into the creek at Black Creek Junction, and the fact that no one was injured and that the engine did not crash into something in its path is little short of a miracle.

The engine was in charge of Michael McConnell of Hazleton, and as it rounded the curve above Weatherly it jumped the track. The engineer and the fireman left the engine to retract it, and while they were determining upon the best method for performing this feat the engine started, despite the fact that the engineer had applied the airbrakes before leaving it.

The trackless engine bounded over the ties at a lively rate, down the steep grade, with Engineer McConnell and the fireman in hot pursuit. Although the men ran fast they were unable to overtake the runaway engine, which increased its speed with each stroke of the piston. It continued this reckless speed until the first crossing at Weatherly, a half mile from where it started was reached, and here the guard rails and planks retracted it. Once on the rails it rapidly acquired a fearful momentum and when it reached Weatherly it fairly flew. Hundreds of people were attracted by the roar of the engine as it tore through the town of Weatherly on its mad flight. Showers of red hot sparks flew from the wheels as a result of the steam brakes being applied, but despite this fact the brakes failed to be effective.

The iron monster dashed on until Black Creek Junction was reached, and at this point it struck a curve, and jumping from the rails plunged into the creek which paralleled the tracks. The engine landed in the creek at the exact place where Engineer Swank's engine stopped with such fatal results a year ago.

The engine lay on its side in the creek badly damaged. The tracks were also considerably torn up at the point where it plunged into the creek.

TOLD TO MOVE ON

A woman named Compton, with a decided unsavory reputation, has been ordered out of Draper street by Chief of Police Walsh. At one time the woman resided in West Sayre and the officers got after her and drove her out of that locality. She went to Milltown and was also driven out of that neighborhood. She went to Draper street and has been complained of so frequently that the chief has again told her to move on under the penalty of arrest. She has promised to shake the dust of Sayre and the state of Pennsylvania from her feet and go into New York state.

SCARLET FEVER CASES

A slight improvement is shown today among the various scarlet fever patients. The children of E. B. Henry are reported quite a little better and George Ruchs' two little boys are slightly improved. Mrs. Grumme and her daughter Sybil are on the road to recovery.

JOHNSON WANTS CHANGE IN VENUE

Says That He Cannot Secure a Fair Trial in Bradford County

Charles Johnson alleges that he cannot get a fair trial in Bradford county. Charles was convicted of murder in the first degree for the part he played in the killing of Maggie Johnson and Annie Benjamin. His attorneys secured a new trial on the grounds that certain improper evidence was admitted. Now the attorneys, Messrs. Lilley & Wilson of Towanda, want a change of venue. They say that partial and ex parte descriptions of the murder have been repeatedly published and circulated about Bradford county, and that because their client is also a member of the "Pool" tribe it is impossible for him to get a fair and impartial trial in this county.

Judge Fanning has granted a rule on the commonwealth to show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and the same is returnable on March 19. If the petition is granted Johnson's case will be taken to another county for trial and the expenses thereof will be charged to the county of Bradford.

BOAT STOLEN

During the past winter R. N. Sterling, who conducts a restaurant on Desmond street, and H. F. Bliss have been busily engaged in building a boat. The craft was of the most improved pattern, and as it was nearly finished Messrs. Sterling and Bliss expected to launch it in a few days in the murky waters of the Susquehanna. The launching event will probably be postponed, however, until they again get possession of the boat, as it is missing from its accustomed place in the rear of the restaurant and its owners are unable to locate it. A letter which was recently received by Mr. Bliss may be of some assistance in getting on track of the boat. The writer of the letter signs himself "Hobo" and says that he has the boat but needs the oars to the same and politely requests Messrs. Sterling and Bliss to leave the oars in the rear of the restaurant, and says that he will confiscate them, too.

MEETING ADJOURNED

The musicians of Sayre, Athens and Waverly held another meeting at Stone's hall, Waverly, yesterday afternoon to take further steps looking to the organization of a musicians' union. After an informal talk among a coterie of the members it was decided to adjourn until Sunday next at 4 o'clock. The charter will then be closed and the names sent in. The union will probably start off with a membership of fifty.

DON'T LIKE THE PIECE WORK SYSTEM

Wilkes-Barre Mechanics Threw Down Their Tools and Quit Work This Morning

A number of men employed in what has been the Wilkes-Barre side of the new shops threw down their tools this morning and quit work. This morning was the time set for an order to go into effect which would put the men on the piece work system, and the Wilkes-Barre contingent didn't take kindly to the system and they quit. It is said that several other men will also refuse to work on the piece plan and will return home.

FRIGHTFULLY INJURED

Adolpheus Sayles, 33 years of age and a resident of Elmira, met a frightful accident in that city yesterday afternoon. He had been to Corning and returned to Elmira on an Erie freight train. When the train reached the Erie station it was running about twenty miles an hour and Sayles jumped off. He alighted on his feet but the momentum he had received from the train was too great and he stumbled, falling beneath the wheels. When the train had passed an officer at the station saw Sayles lying alongside the tracks. The officer summoned the hospital ambulance and Sayles was taken to that institution. Both legs, which were almost completely severed, were amputated above the knee, and the left hand was so badly crushed that it was necessary to entirely remove it at the wrist. Sayles stood the shock of the accident and the operation following it remarkably well, and the physicians say that unless complications develop his chances for recovery are apparently good.

COUNTY TAX RATE

The county tax rate has been placed at ten mills, divided as follows: Court house, 2 mills; poor tax, 2 mills; county, 6 mills. This is two mills higher than the rate was last year.

Valuable Instrument.

A man went with his wife to visit her physician, says the Ashland (Kan.) Clipper. The doctor placed a thermometer in the woman's mouth. After two or three minutes, just as the physician was about to remove the instrument, the man, who was not used to such a prolonged spell of brilliant silence on the part of his life partner, said: "Doctor, what will you take for that thing?"

Dodging a Bet.

One of the most ingenious methods known of keeping the letter of a bet and breaking its spirit was that of a New Yorker, who wagered that he would not speak to a human being for a month. He won his wager, but before many days passed his loneliness began to pall. At last he hit upon the device of expressing his sentiments by addressing his remarks to his dog.

Flooding Along.

It is a great deal easier to be up to the occasion in some shining moment of a man's life, when he knows that a supreme hour has come, than it is to keep that high tone when flooding over the dreary plateau of uneventful monotonous travel and dull duties. It is easier to run fast for a minute than to grind along the dusty road for a day.—Detroit Free Press.

Privileged Prisoner.

The first inmate of the new jail at Grant Pass, Cal., a public improvement of which the Grant's Passers are proud, is a pretty 19-year-old girl, who is accused of murdering her father. She is not confined to her cell, is provided with every comfort, including the latest magazines, and is allowed to go out shopping when she so desires.

Something of a Yarn.

Here is a fish story told by a British nobleman: An Irishman had caught a big pike. Noting a lump in its stomach, he cut it open. "As I cut it open there was a mighty rush and a flapping of wings, and away flew a wild duck; and when I looked inside, there was a nest with four eggs, and she had been after sitting on that nest."

Lincoln and Davis.

There was not a year's difference between the ages of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis; and it is an interesting fact that the president of the confederacy also was born in Kentucky, and within a hundred miles of the log cabin that was the birthplace of President Lincoln.—George H. Yewell.
