Dr. Tillinghast preached in the Universalist church at Athens and Sheshquin yesterday, filling the appointments for Rev. Will Kelley, who is ill.

R. A. Nicol is still confined to his bed. His physician states that he will remain there three weeks longer. This is tough on a hustler like Bob.

Eben Brown and wife, Rufus and Nathan Thornton and about a dozen of their friends took an old fashioned sleighride to Ulster on Saturday evening.

The little Misses Anita and Lucile Stevens went to Stevensville this morning, where they will remain with their grandfather, S. W. Stevens, for a time. Mrs. J. S. Goodwin, who has been visiting in Athens, went with them.

MRS. ELMIRA DECKER

Athens—Mrs. Elmira Decker died at her home 224 Hugh street, Saturday night, aged 67 years. She had been in her usual health until Friday when she suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which she did not rally. She was born in Sussex county, N. J., and after her marriage to Paul Jones they lived at Standing stone until five years ago when they moved to Athens. Her husband and four daughters and two sons survive: Mrs. Geo. Gordon, Standing Stone; Mrs. Ira Vosburg, Herrickville; Mrs. Frank Green, Myersburg, and Mrs. Henry Tuttle, Athens, and Minor and Isaac of Athens. The funeral will be held from the home Tuesday at 2 p. m., Rev. Allen officiating. In terment at Tioga Point cemetery, in charge of Roger and Miller.

WILL DEDICATE BURIAL PLOT

Athens—Perkins post received one new member at their meeting Saturday afternoon. They decided to dedicate their burial plot at Tioga Point cemetery on May 30. Rev. Dr. Simpson will deliver the address.

Diseases of Doctors.

In 1905 "heart disease" was the most frequent cause of death among physicians, with 203 cases, out of a total of 2,045 in the United States and Canada. Cerebral hemorrhage 163, and pneumonia 141 cases follow in frequency. Accidents numbered 72, as compared to 95 in the previous year. Suicides were 46, instead of 36, in 1904.

Growth of Rangoon.

The recent visit of the prince of Wales to Burma has attracted notice to the wonderfully rapid growth in size and prosperity of Rangoon during the last 20 years. Then it had a population of only 20,000, whereas today it has nearly a quarter of a million, and a trade inferior only to that of Calcutta and Bombay.

How to Treat Viciousness.

The thing to do with those scientific investigators who are half killing dogs and then turning them out in the streets to die of exhaustion, says the Indianapolis News, is to interest them in that branch of geology which has to do with the reduction of large rocks to small fragments by means of a heavy hammer.

Died Abroad.

Two Japanese prisoners of war who, owing to illness, could not return to their homes, have died in Germany, and their bodies are to be cremated and the ashes sent to their relatives.

A MAMMOTH SNOWSLIDE.

Camp Bird Mine Buildings Destroyed Near Query, Colo.
OURAY, Colo., March 19.—A mammoth snowslide in the Mount Sneffels region, six miles south of Ouray, wrecked the Camp Bird mine mill, tramhouse, boarding house and reading room. William Cressy was killed, and it is feared that other lives were lost. A number of men were seriously injured. The property loss is $400,000. The Camp Bird bunkhouse, containing 200 men, narrowly escaped destruction. The residence of General Manager Cox also barely escaped destruction. The slide had largely spent its force before reaching the assay shops and general offices of the Camp Bird mine. This avalanche moves annually, but it was larger this year than usual. Telephone communication with Mount Sneffels is interrupted, and the news of the disaster was brought by County Commissioner Smith. A rescue party started out at once, but it will take them several hours to reach Mount Sneffels, as the roads and trails are blocked with snow. A telephone message from Silverton said that scores of miners were killed by the destruction of the Camp Bird boarding house, but this report is discredited. Camp Bird mine was sold by Thomas E. Walsh several years ago to an English company.

ANARCHIST LEADER DEAD

Johann Most Dead at Cincinnati of Erysipelas.
CINCINNATI, March 19.—Johann Most, the anarchist leader, is dead here after an illness of some weeks of facial erysipelas. During the past few days the condition of the sick man had been so serious that his friends had practically given up hope. Most, who was attacked at the home of his old time associate, the venerable Adolph Kraus, had suffered excruciating agony. His physician, Dr. Melius, who worked over him unceasingly till the end, refused to admit he was doomed till every measure of relief had been tried. When the patient failed to respond to antitoxin injections he sank rapidly. For three days he had been wholly blind, but on Friday night unexpectedly revived and regained his sight in part. This encouraged the doctor to renewed efforts. In spite of his illness the anarchist speaker had continued until a week ago to fill his engagements in different cities and had given little heed to his condition. When he came here at that time, however, the disease advanced so rapidly that he was compelled to cancel all his dates. He was at the home of Mr. Kraus throughout.

German Socialists Celebrate.

BERLIN, March 19.—One hundred and four Socialist meetings which were held yesterday in Berlin and its suburbs for the purpose of commemorating the revolutionary outbreaks of 1848-49 and protesting against the three class suffrage system of Prussia passed off with complete quiet. The police authorities took no special precautions, as the Socialists by their demonstrations of Feb. 21 had proved that it was their disposition to keep order. The meetings were addressed by Herr Bebel, leader of the Socialists in the reichstag; Herr Bernstein and other members of the reichstag and several women Socialists.

Steamer Atlanta Destroyed.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 19.—The steamer Atlanta of the Goodrich line last night burned to the water's edge ten miles north of Port Washington. The Smith brothers, fishermen, of Port Washington went to the rescue with the tug Tanager and rescued the passengers and crew, numbering sixty-five persons, who had taken to lifeboats. All were safely transferred to the steamer Georgia, another of the Goodrich line boats, northbound, with the exception of one man, who was drowned during the transfer.

Twenty-two Dead in Wreck.

PUEBLO, Colo., March 19.—Twenty-two dead and twenty-two injured make up the latest estimate of the wreck of the Denver and Rio Grand passenger train at Adobe, Colo. Only seven of the dead bodies have been positively identified on account of the mutilation of victims by fire. The wreck is now cleared, and trains are running on time. A coroner has opened an investigation.

Hundreds Urged Statehood.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 19.—Hundreds of telegrams have been sent to President Roosevelt, to members of congress and to others in official life in Washington from commercial and other bodies in almost every city and town of importance in Oklahoma and Indian Territory urging them to work for immediate statehood for the two territories.

Geese Brought Acquitted.

LUVERNE, Ala., March 19.—At midnight a verdict of not guilty was returned in the case of Oscar Bishop, accused of the murder of Gordon Heddock. It is alleged that the tragedy was the result of attentions paid Mrs. Bishop by Heddock. The principals in the affair are among the most prominent persons of this section of the state.

Clarence Miller Held For Fraud.

BALLSTON, N. Y., March 19.—Clarence Miller has been arrested here charged with using the United States mails to defraud. He was held for examination by United States Commissioner Davison and was placed in jail.

Weather Probabilities.

Snow; northeast wind.

Ice from Norway.

Norway makes a good thing out of her winter climate. She exports about 700,000 tons of best lake ice yearly to the other European countries. One company alone can send away 1,000 tons a day.

HOW SHE CURED HIM

BY R. NEISH.
"It's a most unsuitable match," said Lady Julia Langton, speaking with more than her usual decision.
"Why?"
Lady Julia shrugged her shoulders. "Oh! I don't know, excepting that these mixed marriages are seldom a success."
"Is what you mixed?" I asked, mildly.
"Isn't she as good as he?"
"She is far better," said Lady Julia, emphatically, "and that is why they won't get on—you see, she is only a little country girl—a mere nonentity—and he—"
"She has a very firm chin," I said, meditatively, "and she has most of the money—at least, so I assume, or she and her brother would not be staying at the Carlton."
"Yes, but you can't manage a man with a mere chin," said Lady Julia, "or even with money; you want manner and knowledge of the world, and all sorts of other things. He is the most selfish young man I have ever come across."
"He has been spoiled."
"Of course, shamefully," she agreed. "But you or I would soon unspoil him. Look at Jim."
"Poor Sir James," I said, with sympathy.
"Not at all," laughed Julia; "he is far happier than before he married me—he dare not be late for dinner now."
"Yes," I said, reminiscently, "I really believe he was worse than Teddy. No, I don't believe anyone could really be worse."
"Well, perhaps not," she admitted; "but what will he become with a little country girl like that, considering he's absolutely insufferable now—she will not dare to call her soul her own."
"Poor Teddy—yet he's charming when he likes—he's only too modern."
"It's a pose of his, this new fad of being late for everything—he came to my dinner last week three-quarters of an hour late, and then said he had fallen asleep while dressing."
"He is giving a party for her tomorrow at the Carlton. By the by, you are coming?"
I nodded. "Yes—I hope he won't be late. I wonder what she will do if he is."
We were all assembled in the hall, and even Lady Julia and I were up to time, while those who were late had all arrived. Teddy, in his little, rather effeminate, notes had mentioned $15 for dinner, and now it was five minutes to nine, and there were no signs of his appearance. His fiancée, Miss Dorothy Lamb, was looking very pretty and extremely anxious.
"I hope Teddy's motor hasn't come to grief," she said to Lady Julia, of whom she is very fond. "Do reassure me; do motors often go wrong?"
Lady Julia shook her head. "Not Teddy's. Those happy-go-lucky young men very seldom come to grief."
