HER TALE OF WOE TOUCHED HIS HEART

But After Bestowing His Charity He Discerned That He Had Been the Victim of a Flim-Flam Artist

Like all other places Sayre has its citizens who are charitably inclined and are ready and willing to assist those in distress. There is, however, one man in this place at the present time who will in the future be careful how he bestows his charity indiscriminately without first having made an investigation. On Saturday last this man, who holds an official position under the U. S. government, was approached by a woman who told him a tale of woe calculated to make the angels weep in sheer pity. She said that her husband was out of work and that the larder was empty and she and her little one were on the verge of starvation. The kind hearted official plunged his hand into the innermost recesses of his trousers' pockets and drew therefrom two dollars, which he handed to the woman, and at the same time told her that he would secure a situation for her husband. The woman took the money and departed. She stopped at a cake sale on her way home, purchased a quantity of the sweets, and then visited a candy store, where she invested in more sweets. Monday-morning she was notified that her husband could secure work at the Lehigh Valley shops. "She went to the man who had given her aid and told him that her husband had that morning started to walk to Owego, his mother having died at that place, and that he would therefore be unable to go to work. Another tale of an empty larder and the wolf trying to get in the front door followed this statement, and again the hand of the kind hearted philanthropist sought his jeans. Another two dollar "William" was forthcoming and also an order on a well known groceryman for two dollars' worth of groceries. Then the philanthropist got wise. He was informed that he had been contributing toward the support of a man who never worked. He learned that instead of the man going to Owego to bury his dead mother he had been loafing around home eating cake and candy and assisting in disposing of the groceries secured on the order given by the philanthropist. Now this particular philanthropist has had his sentiments concerning charity rudely shattered and he declares that the next party who comes to him for aid will be turned down with a cold, sickening thud that can be heard for miles around.

In the meantime it has developed that the man and woman are both flim-flammers. The man will not work, but his wife works—that is, she works kind hearted people.

EMMA BUNTING

A large advance sale is expected for the return of the Emma Bunting Co. to the Loomis Opera House on Thursday, March 22. On this occasion a matinee and night performance will be given. "The Girl From the West" will be bill for the afternoon and "The Sidewalks of New York" for the evening. Both plays are interesting throughout, and, although of an entirely different nature, a love story runs through each which is most pleasing. A complete line of vaudeville acts will be seen between the acts, all of which are most enjoyable. Advance sale of seats Tuesday.

NOTICE

If the said work is not done in twenty-four hours after this notice, the sidewalks will be cleaned by the street commissioner and the cost charged to the property owner or tenant, as the case may be.

BIG BLIZZARD VISITS THIS SECTION

Country Is in the Grasp of the Worst Storm That Has Occurred in Years

The most severe storm of the season has been raging throughout Pennsylvania for the past twenty-four hours. In this section the storm reached the proportions of a blizzard, but today it has showed signs of abatement, although the weather bureau has predicted snow for the interior today and tomorrow. In several places south of Sayre high winds have piled the snow in drifts, and trolley and railway service has been badly impeded. On the level there is nearly 12 inches of snow. It is the worst March blizzard since 1888, and on account of so much snow having fallen at this late period in the season fears of a big flood are already being entertained by those who live along the banks of the Susquehanna river.

So far the storm has not seriously interfered with traffic on the Lehigh Valley. The passenger trains last night and today have been running a few minutes behind schedule time, but so long as the snow does not drift there will be no difficulty in operating the road.

The local trolley company experienced slight difficulty yesterday but succeeded in keeping the road open and the cars were for the most part run on schedule time.

This forenoon a small army of snow shovelers were out bright and early. At the Lehigh station a half hundred men were employed in clearing away the snow from the yards and in front of the depot.

CHARLES JOHNSON MURDER CASE

Witnesses Examined Yesterday on Motion for a Change of Venue

The matter of the change of venue in the case of Charles Johnson who is to be tried a second time for the murder of Mrs. Maggie Johnson and Annie, Benjamin, was taken up before Judge Fanning yesterday. Johnson alleges that he is unable to get a fair trial in this county and the court has granted a rule on the commonwealth to show cause why the case should not be taken to another county. A number of witnesses were examined as to the prejudice that is alleged to exist against the defendant and as to their opinion whether or not the accused could get a fair trial in this county. Scarcely half a dozen persons were in court to hear the matter. Johnson was brought from his cell to the court room and was a quiet, though apparently uninterested spectator of the entire proceedings. He is much thinner and paler than when placed on trial a year ago.

It is the opinion of those who heard the evidence presented yesterday that the change of venue will not be granted unless the defendant presents something unlooked for.

The case is proceeding at Towanda today.

"UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES"

Lottie Blair Parker has already made a reputation with her "Way Down East," but she added to it appreciably when she wrote "Under Southern Skies." Her plays are all of the clear, variety, with action galore. In addition she works in a prettiness of detail that a man might strive for all time to bring about, but which a woman can do innately. "Under Southern Skies" tells of life in lower Louisiana in the period around 1875 and necessarily brings in the quaint costumes of that day. The scenery used in "Under Southern Skies" is suggestive of the South in every one of its details showing some of the courtesies of the old regime and other interesting phases of southern life.

MRS. J. HARRIGAN DIED LAST NIGHT

She Was Ill Three Weeks and Her Death Removes a Highly Respected Woman

Mrs. Jeremiah Harrigan, aged 27 years, died at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. B. M. Harrigan, No. 128 North Elmer avenue, last night at 10 o'clock, after an illness of three weeks. Death was due to exhaustion.

Mrs. Harrigan's maiden name was Maggie Scanlon, and she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Scanlon of Dushore, at which place she was born. About five years ago she came to Sayre, and two years ago New Year's eve she was married to Jeremiah Harrigan, one of Sayre's best known young men. Three weeks ago a child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harrigan, and since then the condition of Mrs. Harrigan has been critical. Yesterday it was thought that she was on the road to recovery, but last night the heart failed to perform its functions and her death ensued.

The deceased was most highly respected by a score of friends. She was possessed of a most lovable disposition which endeared her to everyone who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Jane Scanlon of Dushore, four sisters, Mrs. Jane Waples of Lopez, Mrs. Thomas Cullen and Miss Sarah Scanlon, both of Dushore, and Mother Thomas, superior at St. Joseph's home of Troy, N. Y. Five brothers also survive: Thomas of Sayre, and Daniel, William, Matthew and Joseph of Dushore.

The funeral will be held from the church of the Epiphany on Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

LEHIGH OFFICIALS DO NOT FEAR STRIKE

Orders Have Been Issued Engine Crews to Take Coal from Storage Supply

According to an order issued by the officials of the Lehigh Valley company which went into effect yesterday it is believed they have but little fear of a coal strike. Ever since the trouble between the miners and the operators began brewing several months ago the Lehigh has been storing bituminous coal at various points along its line. This was done for the purpose of having a supply on hand in the event of the miners going out. Yesterday, however, engine crews were instructed to begin drawing on this supply, which would indicate that the officials of the company have no longer any fears of a strike; or at any rate they are of the opinion that the difficulty is nearer settlement than it has been at any time during the past month.

"THE VILLAGE FOOL"

People go to the theatre to be amused and a play that does both for its patrons is deserving of the highest praise, and such a play is promised in the rural comedy drama, "The Village Fool," that will be seen at the Loomis Opera House on Tuesday night, March 20. The scenes of the play are laid in Illinois, and the characters portrayed are everyday people met in every day life. While comedy predominates the action of the play is strong and stirring, and a pure clean, delightful story of heart interest is interwoven that is peculiarly attractive and interesting. If one half of the good things be true that has been said of "The Village," our amusement goers certainly have a most enjoyable evening's entertainment in store for them.
