VANCISE-BUNNELL

Waverly—At the home of the bride in Waverly last evening occurred the marriage of Miss Dora VanCise and Lewis Bunnell. Rev. Godshall performed the ceremony in the presence of about 30 invited guests. The ring service was used, little Miss Maud Munn carrying the ring. Refreshments were served and the newly married couple were presented many useful and handsome presents. Both are well known and popular here and have the good wishes of a large circle of friends. Tomorrow evening Miss Lillian Barnum, cousin of the bride, will give a reception in honor of the newly married couple at her home on Bradford street.

EMMA BUNTING TONIGHT

The Emma Bunting company will be seen in a return engagement at the Loomis Opera House on March 22, when a matinee and night performance will be given. In the afternoon the offering will be the great society drama "The Girl from the West." This play has received many complimentary press notices all along the line this season, Miss Bunting being especially clever in her respective role. The story is laid in the goldfields of California and a very pretty romance is unfolded. At night "The Sidewalks of New York" will be presented. In this play Miss Bunting will be seen in a character entirely different from any in which she has ever been seen here. Thrilling scenes and climaxes are to be seen throughout and an enjoyable evening is assured. A complete change of acts by the vaudeville contingent carried by this company will also be seen.

SANG FOR NORDICA

Athens—Miss May Belle Louise Powers, niece of Mrs. Maurice Mitchell, had the honor of singing for Mme. Nordica February 3 last. Nordica gave Miss Powers a fine testimonial. Last Friday Miss Powers received a telegram from an opera manager in New York, offering her a salary of $80 a week and expenses, the contract being for a three months' tour abroad. Miss Powers went to New York Sunday night. She has not yet decided what she will do.

The British in Egypt.

Lord Cromer gave a forecast of the British programme in Egypt the other day, when he opened the Nile-Red sea railroad, connecting the junction of the Nile and the Atbara with Port Sudan. He said that nothing was more certain than that the future of Egypt was bound up intimately with that of the Sudan. The great works to be undertaken in the future were in the upper regions of the Nile valley.

Cautious Scribe.

An Oklahoma editor values his bones more than the truth. Here is his unblushing news article: "We understand that a well-known Chickasaw sportsman was bagged by a game officer west of town yesterday, but, as he has threatened to pulverize the editor if his name is mentioned, the public will have to look to some other source for its information."

Steady Your Mind.

The mind of most of us wank's steadying many times a day. It is like a compass on a rickety table. The least stir makes the needle swing round and point wrongly. But give it a moment to settle—then it points true. There is almost divine virtue in silence. Drop the thing that worries you, the annoyance which inflames your temper.

He Was Busy.

Benevolent Gentleman—My little boy, have you no better way to spend this beautiful afternoon than by standing in front of the gate idling away your time?

Gen. Lee's Sword.

The sword of Gen. Robert E. Lee has been recovered from the ruins of Laburnum, the home of Joseph Bryan, of Richmond, Va., which was recently burned. The sword was the one used by Lee when a captain of the United States engineers in the war with Mexico.

CITIZENS' COLUMN.

Editor Valley Record:

Dear Sir: We wish to call your attention to the borough ordinance requiring sidewalks to be kept free from snow.

For instance, Mr. A, B and C each individually own lots adjoining, Mr. A is compelled to shovel snow in front of his lot because he has a sidewalk, as has also Mr. C.

Mr. A, in going to C's, has to cross B's lot or in front if he goes to the business part of town. But B does not have to shovel snow from in front of his lot because he has no sidewalk. And I understand from official sources that you cannot compel parties not having walks to shovel snow.

In theory this may look like a good ordinance, but in practice most any one can think it over.

Yours truly,
Citizen.

ERIN'S POPULATION LESS.

Total Number of Inhabitants at the Middle of Last Year Was Put at Only 4,403,192

Consul Gunnalus, of Cork, writes that some valuable and interesting figures are given in the annual report of the registrar general of Ireland, just issued, covering the fiscal year 1904. According to this report the estimated population of Ireland has fallen, in the middle of the year 1905, to 4,403,192.

It appears that during 1904 the marriages registered in Ireland numbered 23,961, the births 103,811 and the deaths 79,513. The marriage rate, which is 5.22 in 1,000 of the estimated population, shows an increase of 0.01, as compared with that for the year 1903, and is 21 per cent above the average rate for the ten years from 1894 to 1903, and the highest rate for any of these years. As to the birth rate (23.5 in 1,000) it shows an increase of 0.5 as compared with that for the preceding year, and is also 0.5 above the average rate for the ten years—1894-1903. The death rate (18.1 in 1,000) is 0.6 above the rate for the preceding year and 0.1 above the average rate for the ten years from 1894 to 1903.

The natural increase of population recorded, or excess of births over deaths, was 24,258, the loss by emigration amounted to 33,902; a decrease of 12,604 in the population would thus appear to have taken place during the year; but against this decrease there is a setoff in immigration of which no official record has been obtained.

WASTE AFFORDS FORTUNES

Filtration Plants Produce Material of Great Value in Industries.

"Waste not, want not," tells only half the story in the twentieth century, which finds fortunes in waste products. Sulphate of iron is a water purifying agent, with an admixture of a small percentage of copper sulphate, is of comparatively recent use in mechanical filtration, and its merit as a coagulant, together with its low cost has led to its employment as a substitute for aluminium sulphate. A new outlet, therefore, has been provided for a waste product the uses of which hitherto have been much circumscribed, and the disposition of which at all large finishing mills has been a problem. The possibilities of the trade are suggested by the requirements of one of the largest filtration plants, where 3,500 tons are used annually. More attention also is being paid to the use of the blast furnace fine dust, despite the many unsuccessful attempts at briquetting. Recent developments indicate that the latter has been given up as impracticable, and attention is being turned toward the agglomeration of the dust into rotary kilns. Some of the largest producers of steel have already made plants for the rotary kiln type.

ROAST RICH RELATIVES.

Are Received with Open Arms by the Impenious, But When They Leave.

The rich relatives come to visit. We received them with open arms. We sent to the store for some boiled ham and pickles and we made hot biscuits. We spared no expense to make their visit agreeable. It must have cost us nearly 75 cents for the supper alone. When they rose to go they permitted us to kiss them farewell, which we did, says an exchange.

"We are so sorry you are going. Do come again soon," we said. And we smiled and bowed, and I gave him a cigar with a band around it and my wife loaned her her best veil.

As soon as the door closed behind them we said:

"What bores!"

"They have money, but they're terribly shy on brains."

"Did you notice him eating with his knife? If his mouth hadn't been so large, he'd surely have cut himself."

"They're rich, but they didn't buy us anything."

"Well, I hope they don't come again in a long while."

"Her dress was a fright."

"Did you notice his vest? Looked as though he had spilled the soup down it."

Which leads to the statement that the rich relative always gets a square meal, but never a square deal.
