DISASTER AT NAPLES

Monte Oliveto Market Collapsed; Hundreds In Ruins.

leal of Many Other Villages-Curse Rests Upon the City, Say

NAPLES, April 11 .- A frightful disaster occurred in the center of this city, following the eruption of Mount Vesu-

Two hundred and fifty persons, it estimated, were buried in the ruins of the market Monte Oliveto, when the roof collapsed under the weight of cinders from the volcano.

Sixty bedies have been recovered. Over 100 wounded have been taken to

The disaster at the market place was appalling. The courtyard covers 600 quare feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with ouyers and their children, the accident happening at the hour of the day when trade is most brisk. Rival displays of flowers, fruits and vegetables contended for buyers, while marketwomen screamed their wares and joked with their customers. Little children played about the stands, adding gayety to the scene, the like of which is not to be witnessed outside of Naples.

Suddenly, with scarcely a tremor of warning, there was a terrifying crash, and the brilliant sight disappeared in a cloud of dust, while shrieks of agony

The people outside seemed demented. They surrounded the market, in many cases tearing their hair, oursing and screaming, "Oh, my husband is there!" or "Bring out my child!" and endeavoring, with their own hands, to move heavy beams, from beneath which the groans of the injured were issuing. The cries for help were so heartrending that even rescuers were heard to seb aloud as they worked, with feverish eagerness, to save life or extract the odles of the dead from the ruins.

Such was the anxiety of the people to take part in the work of rescue that it required determined efforts on the part of the large force of police and carbineers present to keep the most desperate from moving beams too precipitately and thereby causing further deaths or injuries.

Some of the people about the market were heard to exclaim that a curse rested upon the people of Naples for repudiating their saints on Monday. when Mount Vesuvius was in its most violent mood. The identification of the odies of a number of those killed by the collapse of the market reef was found to be impossible, some being reduced to pulp, while others were hor-D. CLAREY COAL CO. which are better undescribed. Among the dead were many children who had ribly mutilated, giving rise to scenes been sent by their parents to do the morning's marketing, and the grief of the parents when the bodies of their HARD AND SOFT WOOD children were found was beartrend-

The work of searching the ruins con doctors, firemen, municipal guards, police and arsenal employees taking part in it under the direction of the Duke of Aosta, prefect of Naples.

Owing to the volcanic activity of Mount Vesuvius the fate of the villages and towns grouped around the volcano seems hopeless. Instead of decreasing the fall of sand and ashes emitted from the crater has increased. Even with the sun shining high in the beavens the light is a dim yellow, in the midst of which the few people who remained in the stricken towns, their clothing, hair and beards covered with ashes, move about in the awful stillness of desolation like gray ghosts.

The case of Torre del Greco is typical. For thirty hours the place has been practically deserted, but amid the ruins and semidarkness, illuminated from time to time by vivid flashes of lightning, a few of the inhabitants go about hungry and with throats parched with smoke and dust, seemingly unable to tear themselves away from the ruins of what so recently were their homes. Communication by rail or tramway with Torre del Greco and Torre, del Annunziata is impossible owing to the cinder, sand and ash de posits. The number of dead taken from the church at San Gluseppe which collapsed while a congregation of about 200 persons were attending mass is wenty-six. There were seventy-nine severely injured.

The stream of lava which started anew in the direction of Torre del Annunziata has reached the cemetery of that town and turned in the direction of Pompeil.

A violent storm of sulphurous rain has descended on San Giuseppe, Vesuviana and Saviano. The volcano is resuming activity.

Elijah III. at the Eleventh Hour Re-CHICAGO, April 11.-John Alexander Dowie arrived in Chicago on a Wabash train from St. Louis. A temporary halt in a long journey from Mexico to Zion City will be made in Chicago. Dowle will not go to Zion until he is armed with the legal documents which, he believes, will once more put him in power in Zion City. When the train rolled into the station here an immense throng was there to catch a glimpse of the "first apostle." He was given a spectacular welcome Cries ranging from the Zionites' "God be with thee" to the irreverent "Good boy, Dowie," were showered on the old man in bewildering confusion. As be walked through the crowd he was for a time in danger of bodily hurt, so great was the crush. The police seemed powerless to hold back the spectators. When he had traveled about balf across the depot platform a man way ing a legal paper sprang at him. Zion guards, who crowded about closely, reached for the instrument, but before they could lay hands upon him police officers picked up the man bodily and threw him over a nearby railing. Dowle did not seem disturbed by this unusual incident, but smiled and said: guess it was another one of those emissaries of the devil which they have been sending to me lately, but they'll never get me. That's the way they all go-over the fence." Dowie entered his carriage and, with a number of his followers, drove to the Auditorium Annex, where apartments had been secured.

At the botel Dowle made the follow ng statement

The fight that I will make to regain my prestige in Zion will be a legal one. I do not think it wise for me at this time to proceed at once to Zion, as I fear my enemies have set a trap and would do bodily injury to me. I will not state now just what these legal steps will be because I am not certain of them myself.

Dowle has retained the law firm of Eddy, Haley & Wetten to assist him in his legal fight.

Attorney Wetten said after a long talk with him that Dowle would probably not visit Zion City before Friday.

It was through the efforts of Cox and not through his own efforts that Longworth went to congress. Now Cox and his followers have suffered defeat, largely through the efforts of the president and Secretary Taft. It is expected here that for this reason the Cox following will be decidedly lukewarm toward the Longworth candidacy. On the other hand, Secretary Taft's influence will probably be put forth for Longworth, and this may save him.

Maxim Gorky at New York In Peasant's Garb.

of All Men In One Comrade Family of Free Workers-Socialism, the Heligion of Freedom.

NEW YORK, April 11 .- Alexel Maxmovitch Pieshkoff, emancipator, patriot and man of letters, whose fame as novelist under the pseudonym of far corners of the earth, arrived last aight on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse; a picturesque figure, dressed in the garb of the peasants of the Steppes.

The great Russian revolutionist and social pathologist was accompanied by his wife, a very beautiful woman with a mass of light brown hair and large, ustrous eyes, who served as her bus band's interpreter and spoke in soft Parisian French the barsh guttural Russian words uftered by him

Gorky, though coming to America ! sick man, in no way resembles the nervous, anaemic, hunted, sentimental adividual which his photographs picure. The apostle of Russian liberty is tall, square shouldered, deep chested nan whom it is very hard to believe a onsumptive.

The face, though not in the least clasntense, strong, manly man. The forehead is broad, furrowed deeply when Steeplechase and Hunt association, was dark hair pushed back. Two fearless the best running of the race ever witbeavy bushy eyebrows.

You feel at once that this is a self whom character is even more remarkable than intellect.

The great apologist of the humble. the little people of Russia, the Cossacks of the Volga valley, was hanging over the rail of the big liner as the revenue cutter drew up alongside, and his eyes at once picked out little Nico lai, his adopted son, who has been in New York studying English for a year from among the crowd of newspaper men and Russian revolutionist leaders

There was a wild waving of hands and as Nicolai reached the deck of the vessel two strong arms closed about him, and for a few minutes there were nothing but tears and kisses and strange words in Russian. About the first question asked of the his motive in coming to America "First of all," said the great uncurbed individualist, "my health is poor and I shall have to prop it up before I step into the arena again The spirit is unconquered, but the body is not what it was. You see. I date for mayor. He is said by Ohio have gone through many hardships,

I shall preach Socialism - the religion of liberty. equality and fraternity-and those l cannot reach with my voice I shall endeavor to reach through my writings. "I do not know how long or how short my stay in this country will be." said Gorky, "but of this I am surethat while here I will try to do some thing for my fatherland.

"I do not believe in the doums not in the present method of bolding elections. The elections have no connection whatever with the liberation of the people. The Social Democrats are not taking part in the elections as a party. though a great many have been elected individually.

"That the douma will bring Russia quiet and prosperity I do not believe. The actual condition of the revolution in Russia is this: In more than twentytwo provinces the people are starving to death, using all the money they have and receive to buy arms with."

Asked whether he thought that the revolution could succeed without arms. Gorky's answer was 'a broad smile You can know from historical precedents that it is impossible." he said. Tonight a dinner will be given here in honor, of Gorky. Besides his Russian friends many Americans are expected to attend, and one of the principal guests will be Mark Twain. Before he returns to Russia it is expected that he will travel all over the United States. Chinese Bandits on Rampage.

PEKING, April 11.-Disturbances in the southern part of Honan province and in western Shangtung, caused by the Big Kuife society, a relic of Boxer ism, are reported. They are nominally caused by hostility to the new educational scheme and the Catholics, but they take the form of the pillage of towns by bandits. In Honan the latter are said to number 12,000 and carry banners inscribed with the words. "Down With the Manchu Dynasty!"
