NINETEEN DEAD: HUNDREDS INJURED

Whole City in Panic Rushed to the Streets - Building After Building Came Down-Business Places Completely Hulned.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 26.-Simulaneously with San Francisco at 5:12 on Wednesday morning the city of San half of the bomes in the residence section were so damaged or destroyed that repairing will be beyond question. The property loss is more than men with rifles simply sho $8,000,000, but the horror of it all is and then lighted their fires. that nineteen persons were killed and more than 200 injured. Five thousand persons were rendered homeless and destitute, and many rich and prosperous mercantile firms were reduced without warning or premonition.

Suddenly there was a rearing in the air that came from nowhere in particular and seemed to fill all space. A second afterward came a rocking of the earth that sent buildings swaying and crashing to the ground as if they were children's houses of sand, and an instant later this was followed by a struction begun by the first shock.

People rudely hurled from their beds ran into the streets in their night clothes. Men, women and children huddled on the streets in a rain of brick and stone. Building after building came crashing to the ground under the successive tremors of the earth until three-fourths of the business blocks tu the heart of the city were down or so badly wrenched that they have since had to be torn down. Fire added its borror to the calamity and swept the Martin, Liberty, Black and Guppy buildings, four of the finest ousiness offices in San Jose.

Sheridan of New York Beats Greeks at Own Game.

DANIELS LEADS WORLD'S SWIMMERS

Feature Was Discus Throwing, In Which Irish - American Athlete Downed Olympic Champion by Ten Feet.

ATHENS, April 26.-American athletes have made good here. Martin Sheridan of the Irish Athletic club, New York, threw the discus farther than any man ever threw it before, and C. M. Daniels, New York Athletic club, won the final heat in the 100 meter swimming race with ease.

Sheridan's win in the discus event was sensational in the extreme. It is a particularly Grecian branch of athletic sport, and the Greek champion at it, Georgantas, was a formidable opponent. He was the man Sheridau feared. Sheridan heaved the missile 134 feet 9 luches, beating his own record of 127 feet 7 inches, while the best Georgantas could do was 124 feet. Japiners, a Finlander, was third.

This being the first big day of the games, the Studium was crowded. It s said that 100,000 people swarmed over the seats. The sight of these walls of humanity, stretching away to the limit of the eyesight, was enough to aspire any athlete to superhuman effort. The weather was perfect, and the flashing of the sunlight on the ornate uniforms of the omnipresent Grecian soldiers made splashes of color everywhere.

The royal family of Greece arrived early, and it seemed that about everybody else in Greece happened along at about the same time. It was agreed that the flag of the nation winning each event should be waved to inform the multitude of the outcome. Chief interest was centered in the discus throwing, which was held in the athletic field near the Temple of Olym ons. There wasn't a Greek in all that vast crowd not satisfied that Georgan tas would be victor. But the Grecian champion had a mighty respect for the brawny Sheridan, who beat him in practice, and was not so confident as his adherents. Sheridan's winning throw was mag-
