From the Start of This Business

We knew it would be only a matter of time until we would have more and more of the thrifty people with us. We have only engaged in methods that are right, kept our promises, made without hesitation; in fact kept breadth of our dealings fully up to the size of our establishment. Your own good judgment will determine our relative worth as distributors of merchandise, in the modern world of merchandising. It's the store patronized by thrifty people.

MIS-DIRECTED LETTERS

There have been some complaints sent to the postoffice department of persons sending letters to Milltown, West Sayre and East Athens that they have been delayed in reaching their destination. This is wholly the fault of the persons misdirecting such letters. There are no postoffices in the places mentioned above. The letters intended for Milltown and West Sayre should be directed to the Sayre postoffice with the street and number distinctly written in the superscription. Those intended for East Athens should be directed to the number of the R. F. D. route inscribed thereon. The mail messengers on the trains have no Milltown, West Sayre or East Athens on their route list and can not know where to throw off such mail, and the consequence is that it is carried beyond its destination while the location is being studied out. Mail agents and postmasters are not mindreaders and consequently not able to learn the intent of writers who so mystify their meaning.

ROELL-STULEN

Last evening Miss Edith Stulen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Stulen, and Mr. Antoine J. Roell of New York, were married at the home of the bride on South Main street, by Rev. W. E. Daw, rector of Trinity church. There were no formal invitations given but there was a happy company assembled, and as the bride stood under the beautiful arch with the companion of her choice and took the vows that were to unite them for the journey of life, the air was fragrant with the perfume of flowers and laden with the congratulations and good wishes of those who circled around them to show their sincere regard. The rooms were decorated with lilies and smilax, and the bridal arch with the bridal flowers. The bride was dressed in white and wore a veil and carried a beautiful bouquet of red roses, and as she stood under the arch she looked queenly and grand. The ring ceremony was used which gave a most impressive significance to the occasion. After the ceremony a most elegant supper was served, and the good cheer and pleasant features of the conversation and repast will be a happy memory in all of the years to come. The out of town guests were Mrs. Arthur Daternan and Miss Virginia Gulick of Scranton Miss Frances Lyon of Waverly, Mr. J. Frazier Purse of Philadelphia, and Jud Preston of Elmira. There was quite a large company of the bride's close personal friends from town present and they brought with them so many valuable and beautiful presents as to fill the upper room with a brilliant display. As they were bestowed as evidence of sincere regard, their value is the more manifest. The happy couple took the midnight Lackawanna train at Waverly in Bloomfield, N. J., where they have a home fitted up for their reception where they will reside in the future, Mr. Roell still holding his business position in New York. They will be at home, 65 Newark avenue, Bloomfield after June 15th.
