APPEALS TO "REDS"

"Stop Political Assassination," Says Stakovich in Douma.

HOUSE PASSES ADDRESS TO EMPEROR

All Night Session Ends With Sensational Motion to Prevent Further Bloodshed—Bureaucracy Scheme to Dissolve Parliament.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—Public opinion is greatly aroused as to the emperor and the government will meet the defiant attitude of the lower house of parliament. Many Constitutional Democrats are not yet convinced that the government will seek a compromise.

The lower house of the national parliament this morning finished consideration of the address in reply to the speech from the throne, which was adopted paragraph by paragraph.

The debate ended sensationally with a discussion of a motion by M. Stakovich to insert in the address an appeal to the country to stop political assassinations. M. Rodicheff and others opposed the motion, which was rejected.

Two interpellations addressed to the minister of the interior and signed by the requisite thirty deputies came up in the Douma for discussion. The first charges participation by the police in the work of inciting one portion of the population against the other, and the second states that inflammatory proclamations have been printed in the printing office of the ministry of the interior.

Sitting until long after 2 o'clock this morning, the lower house of the national parliament set its seal upon its first great work, the adoption of the address in reply to Emperor Nicholas's speech from the throne at the Winter palace, and setting forth the aims and aspirations of Russia's millions.

The lower house's demand for amnesty, the keystone and most pressing point in its address, was altered at the last moment by the commission itself, which in response to criticisms of indefiniteness in the expression "full political amnesty" substituted "amnesty for all crimes committed from religious or political motives as well as agrarian offenses." The commission also accepted a new clause to meet the wishes of the discontented in the army and navy, asking the emperor to revise the conditions of service on the basis of right and justice.

They see indications that the bureaucracy is preparing for a desperate fight. The Reds, their organs still consider it possible that an attempt may be made to disperse parliament and also print a rumor that Count Witte is trying to bring about a coup d'etat, which would result in his being appointed a dictator, backed by the council of the empire.

The Novoe Vremya thinks the Constitutional Democrats are going mad and are playing into the hands of the Social Democrats, adding:

"The Constitutional Democrats are digging their own grave in paving the way to a dictatorship of the proletariat."

As a matter of fact, the Constitutional Democrats are unable any longer to hold the extreme radicals, who are breaking away and forming about the Social Democratic workmen group, establishing a distinct party of the Extreme Left, which wants not parliamentary reform, but a revolution.

Some of the Polish delegates are stirring with this group on the basis of complete autonomy for Poland. The situation in both parliament and the government is growing more complicated and chaotic, and great anxiety prevails as to what the immediate future may bring forth.

The scheme most favored by the bureaucracy is to allow parliament to formulate its demands and ventilate its grievances for two months and then dissolve it.

The girl was terribly treated in prison by Abramoff and another Cossack officer. For eleven hours they subjected her to torment, kicking her back and forth across the cell, tearing her hair and burning her flesh with cigarettes.

As the result of the publication of a letter which Mile Spiridonova smuggled out of her prison, Abramoff was tried by court martial at Moscow on the charge of ill treating the girl, but was acquitted.

On his return to Borlasogileak, where he was stationed, Abramoff was shot three times with revolvers in the center of the town April 10 and died the following day. His assassins escaped.

Many persons of prominence, including the Italian ambassador at Washington, have been working to save Mrs. Valentina.

HIS RECORD LOOKED UP.

Waterloo Pastor, Accused of Arson, Said to Be an Ex-Congressman. WATERLOO, N. Y., May 18.—In furtherance of his inquiry into the unusual case of Rev. Charles Stuart Bain, who is in the county jail on a charge of having set fire to the First Baptist church of Waterloo and who claims that at times he is under an influence against which he has no power of resistance, District Attorney Bodine was advised by the warden of the Illinois state prison at Joliet that one Charles S. Bain, alias C. W. Wilson, became a prisoner in that institution on Oct. 20, 1890, on a commitment from Kane county charging embezzlement.

The prisoner, who was No. 5162, was paroled on April 19, 1898, and was given his final discharge on May 23, 1899. Mr. Bodine states that a photograph of Rev. Mr. Bain, which was sent to Joliet, has been returned with the statement of the warden to the effect that it is undoubtedly a picture of the former Illinois prisoner.

The district attorney also states that he had received a letter saying Mr. Bain was tried at Converse, Ind., in 1883 by an ecclesiastical court on a charge of lying and conduct unbecoming a minister and that he was dismissed from the Presbyterian ministry as a result of the trial.

Mr. Bodine has received many letters in connection with the case, some from former neighbors of Mr. Bain, who testify to the fact that at times the man undoubtedly was under some strange spell and that while under the influence he acted out of all accord with his general mode of life.

Bought His Sample Pincushion. BOSTON, May 18.—In the Borges fraud trial here Cass L. Leavitt of Roxbury, who was employed by the Ubero company in the Boston office, testified that he went to a fruit store one day and, on Borges' instruction, bought two of the largest pincushions and slipped them to persons who had been and who later became investors. From the literature sent with the fruit the receivers were to understand that they had grown on the Ubero land, and in a letter sent over Borges' signature to one of them it was asserted that the apple was not "selected, but it is just as it comes from the field."

Despondent Woman Drank Carbolic. CINCINNATI, O., May 18.—Mrs. Anna Sheehy drank carbolic acid because she thought her father and mother were dead before help could be secured. The woman was despondent because of the death. She had made a previous effort to commit suicide, but her husband restrained her, being badly burned in doing so. However, she escaped from him, fastened herself in her room and drank the poison before he could break down the door.

Y. W. C. A. World's Conference. PHOENIX, May 18.—At the world's conference of the Young Women's Christian association Mrs. Messer read the report for the United States, showing that there are in that country 658 city and college branches with an aggregate membership of over 100,000. American women, the report stated, also are participating largely in the development of the movement in China and India.

Suicide Used Dynamite. NYACK, N. Y., May 18.—Peter Pierson, fifty-three years old, a resident of Rockland Lake, ignited a fuse attached to a stick of dynamite, held it close to his chest and his body was blown to pieces. Small bits of the body were gathered by the coroner, who will hold an inquest. Pierson is said to have a wealthy brother in Buffalo.

Headache Tablets Killed Her. LINCOLN, Neb., May 18.—Mrs. A. F. Pearson of Ash Grove, Kan., died in a Missouri Pacific train just before it reached here. The coroner after an examination said he believed death had been caused by an overdose of headache tablets which contained a mild form of poison.

BAILEY HOT AGAIN

Congress Hears Strong Language From Texas Senator.

WANTS GOSPEL OF "SQUARE DEAL"

Put on Record Letter From Chandler Regarding Long Continued Controversy Between Certain Senators and the President.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—In another statement in the senate to a question of privilege Senator Bailey of Texas denounced in strong terms charges of double dealing against him that he plurally attributed to the president. "I'll brand across his forehead the word 'liar,' so that in after years all men may know him and all honest men may shun him," were Bailey's closing words in declaring that no man could charge him with double dealing and escape his denunciation.

The Texas senator, aroused to white heat over the aspersions against him printed in New York and Chicago papers, which he holds the president inspired, said that he knew what were the fortunes of war, and he cheerfully accepted them, and if it be civilized warfare he had no complaint.

"In this century of civilization and progress," he added, "when the gospel of the 'square deal' is on the lips of men, our political adversaries ought at least to fight with the common fairness of the prize fighter. They ought not to strike below the belt."

The senator had arisen to reply further to assertions made in the newspapers he had attacked, which alleged that ex-Senator Chandler had sent a memorandum to the president through Loeb saying Bailey was suspected of working to further the railroad cause.

He asked to have put in the Record a letter he had addressed to Chandler asking for any letter he (Chandler) might have written on which such charges could be based. After his letter to Chandler was read Chandler's reply was also presented for reading, with this memorandum from ex-Senator Chandler to Loeb dated April 11:

"The game of the railroad senators is to support Bailey's amendment and induce him to agree to the broad right of review. What that is to be is not certain, but the principal object is to beat him," meaning the president. Mr. Tillman, however, considers himself as acting with the president to pass the review clause with the minimum amount of court power, and will not enter into any such game."

To this was added direction to Loeb to hand this to the president privately. With the exception of Mr. Bailey's digression the entire day was devoted to a review by the senate of the amendments made in committee of the whole and covered somewhat more than half of the measure.

Senator Dooliver moved to add traveling secretaries of Y. M. C. A.'s to the free pass list, and the amendment was accepted. Senator Hale then moved to include "baseball and football players" and Senator McLaurin "widows and orphans." Both were voted down amid laughter.

TRIBUNE HITS AT BAILEY.

Says That Senator's Actions Laid Him Open to Suspicion.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Raymond Patterson, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, in a four column double headed article, makes reply to Senator Bailey of Texas, who on the floor of the senate characterized the correspondent as being "an unqualified, deliberate and malicious liar."

The accusation of the senator came because of a previous story the correspondent had sent his paper to the effect that Senator Bailey had been in conference with Senator Aldrich for the purpose of defeating the rate bill and that former Senator Chandler had stated that Senator Tillman was suspicious of Senator Bailey. The correspondent says:

"When Joseph W. Bailey, senator from Texas, struck at the president of the United States over my humble shoulders, for that is all he did on the floor of the senate, he was apparently unaware that he was furnishing documentary evidence in existence, both in the official Congressional Record and in the form of a written memorandum by the former Senator William E. Chandler, absolutely proving that he was an object of suspicion to the real friends of the president's railroad policy."

"This is not to say that Mr. Bailey deserved the suspicion, but that his motives and his acts in the Democratic conference in the senate caucus, on the floor of the senate and in the conference between Senator Tillman and Attorney General Moody, and through ex-Senator Chandler with the president, gave rise to the suspicion that he was not true to the principle of railroad rate regulation is clear from the record itself and cannot be successfully denied."

THE WHITE PLAGUE

National Conference For Prevention of Tuberculosis.

DOCTORS SCORE NOSTRUM FRAUDS

Mixtures Poison Unfortunate Instead of Curing Them—None Are Harmless, as They Contain Cocaine, Opium and Cheap Whisky.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Denunciation of so-called tuberculosis nostrums in the shape of patent and proprietary medicines was the feature of the discussion at the meeting in this city of the National Association For Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The attacks were led by Dr. Samuel Hopkins Adams of New York, Frank Billings of Chicago and J. Willoughby Irwin of Philadelphia. Dr. Adams said that some of the alleged consumption cures were comparatively harmless, being mostly a mixture of inert drugs that had no effect one way or the other, while others were made up of cocaine, opium, hashish and cheap whisky.

This latter class of remedy he declared to be an active poison in any case, but especially so in the case of a consumptive patient. He, however, expressed the belief that the consumption cure business was on the wane. He urged a campaign of education as the only means of fighting the nostrum evil.

Dr. Billings declared that none of the nostrum compounds was harmless. Some of the proprietary medicines, he said, which are sold to the medical profession as specific compounds were almost as bad as the straight patent medicines themselves.

He had seen preparations sold over the counter which a few years ago were only dispensed by the physicians. The manufacturers got the doctors to act unconsciously as their advertising and distributing agents and then put the drug out on the popular market. The education of the public with regard to tuberculosis, he added, was very slow.

Twenty-five years ago the medical profession honestly believed there was a specific for consumption; but, he said, now that the doctor has learned better the general public was where the medical profession was then.

Papers were read by Francis E. Leupp, commissioner of Indian affairs, and by Dr. Thomas J. Jones of Hampton, Va., on "Tuberculosis Among the Negroes."

Dr. Lawrence E. Flick of Philadelphia, vice president, delivered his annual address. He outlined the fearful ravages of tuberculosis in this country and pleaded for the adoption of all possible measures to check it. The financial loss to the public, he said, by the disease is not less than $50,000,000 annually.

The double cross was adopted as the emblem to be worn by those engaged in the crusade against tuberculosis.
