GETS SWIFT JUSTICE

Kidnaper Kean Sent Up For Twenty Years.

JUDGE IN DISGUST STOPPED PLEA.

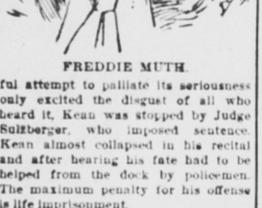

Freddie Muth's Abductor Railed to Penitentiary in Two Hours. Parents and Child Present at Trial.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—In a little more than two hours after he was arraigned in court here John Joseph Kean, the kidnaper of Freddie Muth, was sentenced to twenty years at hard labor in the Eastern penitentiary.

An hour later Kean was placed on trial. At first when the indictment was read to him he said, "Not guilty in some respects." The cry then read the indictment again, and the prisoner pleaded guilty.

Only two witnesses were called—Edgar Clear, a special policeman, and Charles Muth, the kidnaped boy's father. Kean interrupted them and said he wanted to make an explanation.

After a rambling and disconnected account of his crime, in which his pitiful attempt to palliate its seriousness excited the disgust of all who heard it, Kean was stopped by Judge Sulzberger, who imposed sentence. Kean almost collapsed in his recital and after hearing his fate had to be helped from the dock by policemen.

The maximum penalty for his offense is life imprisonment.

It is the opinion of the authorities that Kean was not the only person implicated in the kidnaping. That there is a woman in the case they are practically certain.

The various notes sent to Charles Muth, the father of the boy, are thought to be the work of a female hand.

Freddie Muth, the seven-year-old boy for whom the police of the entire eastern section of the country have been looking since he was abducted a week ago, was taken to the city hall by his parents for Kean's hearing.

Washed and dressed in clean linen, a pretty jacket and knickerbockers, he presented a very different appearance from that of the forlorn and bedraggled child who was rescued by the police. The parents' faces beamed with happiness, but showed traces of their days and nights of suspense.

"Last night was the first that we have slept since he was taken from us," said Mrs. Muth. "Oh, the agony of it all I shall never, never forget. I thought many times we would never see him again."

In his quick trip from liberty to the solitude of Cherry Hill, the institution which Dickens made famous in his "American Notes" by consigning its system of solitary confinement, no friendly hand or voice was raised in the prisoner's behalf. If he behaves himself his sentence under the law will be reduced to twelve years and three months. The court had the power to give him a life sentence.

FACTORY REEKING WITH FILTH.

Newark Health Inspectors Hold Up a Vile Establishment.

NEWARK, N. J., June 20.—City health inspectors confiscated the contents of Harry Rosenthal's bologna sausage establishment, a small room in a Jones street leather factory. They claim to have found the utensils, machinery and the room in general reeking with filth and vermin.

Four baskets of meat said to have the appearance of scraps picked up from the floors of butcher shops, dirt and sawdust being present in abundance, were seized by the inspectors, together with other scraps of meat which were said to be decaying in the sausage making machines. Preservative solutions and coloring matter also were taken by the authorities.

Rosenthal, when questioned by the inspectors, declared that for five months he had worked under an arrangement with a number of butchers who furnished the materials to be ground into sausages. He said he received $4 for every 100 pounds turned out. The butchers sold the product, he said, for 12 cents a pound.

Fremont, and Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican president, to Theodore Roosevelt, our present leader, the world's first citizen who, through his rugged honesty, his persistent determination, his unflinching courage and his demand for a square deal for every person and every interest, has gained not only the respect and love of his fellow countrymen, but the esteem and admiration of all mankind."

TRY TREPPOFF AGAIN

Woman Nihilist Attempts to Kill Czar's Police Chief.

GAINED AN ENEMY AS PRINCESS.

Only One of Many Failures to Assassinate the Commandant of Russian Czar's Personal Guard.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 20.—The most daring and sensational attempt ever made upon the life of General Treppoff, commandant of the palace, is attributed to a woman nihilist who gained admission to the palace by a subterfuge and tried to shoot him. The woman is beautiful and accomplished. She was chosen by a circle of revolutionists to be the instrument to remove General Treppoff from the path that leads to the czar. General Treppoff, as commandant of the palace, is entrusted with the task of guarding the emperor and is in full command of the palace police and secret service forces.

Numerous attempts have been made upon his life because the revolutionists who would put the emperor out of the way realize that to General Treppoff's vigilance and ingenuity may be attributed the failure of all their plans to take the life of the czar. Bombs have been thrown at him, he has been shot at, poison has been sent to him, infernal machines have been placed in his way, but thus far he has seemed to bear a charmed life.

The female nihilist who took the task of killing him posed as the Princess Mariashkin. By means of forged letters and documents she sought to arrange an interview with the czar. In order to carry on her negotiations it was necessary that she should see General Treppoff.

She waited for him in his office, surrounded by clerks and guards. As General Treppoff entered the woman arose, drew a revolver and aimed it at him.

In her haste she betrayed her object to a guard who was standing close by her side. This man sprang at her and forced the hand holding the revolver into the air. In another moment she was disarmed.

Had she been less precipitate her attempt might have been successful. General Treppoff, believing that he was about to meet the Princess Mariashkin, was without suspicion and would have approached her unsuspectingly.

The woman was hurried to prison, and an attempt was made to keep the matter quiet.

MEAT BILL PASSES

Congress Adopts Much Disputed Measure.

CHANGES MEET PRESIDENT'S VIEWS

Chairman Wadsworth in Explaining Alterations Made in Amended Act Said They Were Mostly in Vegetable.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The house adopted without division the compromise meat inspection amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill.

The agricultural appropriation bill was then sent to conference, and the speaker named Messrs. Wadsworth (N. Y.), Scott (Kan.) and Lamb (Va.) as conferees.

When the house met Mr. Wadsworth reported the bill with the amendment and later moved to suspend the rules and discharge the committee of the whole from consideration of the Beverage amendment to confer in the house committee's amendment and ask for a conference with the senate.

Mr. Williams (Miss.), the minority leader, sought to have the time of debate extended to forty minutes for each side instead of twenty under the rule. Mr. Wadsworth said he regretted that he could not comply with the request, and the reading of the meat inspection amendment was begun, nearly every member present following the reading of the bill with a copy in hand.

Mr. Wadsworth in explaining the changes made in the substitute for the original meat inspection amendment, said that the changes were mostly in verbiage and then took them up serially. He called particular attention to the elimination of the court review clause and the date of inspection on canned meat labels. The measure is now believed to be satisfactory to the president.
