Married in Handcuffs. The unusual spectacle of a bridegroom appearing at the altar handcuffed has been seen, according to a contemporary at Monthey, an Italian village. The bridegroom, an Italian, was undergoing a long sentence for burglary, and recently prevailed upon the governor of the prison, to whom he stated he had committed the crime for the sake of his father, to allow him to marry. Two gendarmes in uniform acted as witnesses, and guardians at the same time. At the church door the young bride and bridegroom parted with heavy hearts.

The details show that it was a sensational affair. The American robbers are at large, but the Rurals, most of them trained against the Apaches years ago, are trailing them. The Mexican government has offered $500 reward for their apprehension, either in Mexico or the United States. The attack took place west of Pajarito pass, three hours ride from Santo Tomas station, on the Chihuahua & Pacific railroad, below a camp which the robbers had established on the mountain above with the object of watching the movements of the bullion train from and to the mine. The bullion train entered the trap as calculated and when Smith, riding at the head of the column, came abreast of the last barricade, a man with face masked suddenly showed himself behind the fall, and crying, "Now, you're my man!" fired at him from a distance of about eight feet. The ball struck a cartridge in Smith's belt and after passing through his belt and clothing, cut a deep gash across the abdomen. Although his horse reared and bolted and he was almost doubled by the shot, Smith managed to draw his revolver and fire at the robber. Meanwhile, the other bandits had opened fire on the escort, two of whom were killed and one shot through the bladder, while the last three fled for safety.

Wheeler in Blue. When the late Gen. Wheeler was visiting in Montgomery, an old Confederate cavalryman, who fought under him in the civil war, met him. He looked Gen. Wheeler over for a few moments, feasting his eyes on the general's new uniform. At last, scratching his head, he said slowly: "Gen. Wheeler, what in h--l do you think Jubal Early will say when he sees you walking into heaven in a blue uniform?"

ARITHMETIC RACES.

In the recent great athletic meeting at Canton arithmetic races were a feature. Pupils from the schools carried slates and pencils, and in the course of the race they encountered a black-board containing a sum to be solved. The boys were lined up as they reached the goal, and those whose calculations were wrong were then eliminated. The first three left in the line were counted winners.

WILL HELPS SAILORS.

A will of the late Lord Iverolyde, chairman of the Cunard company, dated March 20, 1901, and believed to be his last, left all his property to the widow. But a later will, dated November 9, 1902, has been found in a handbag in his London office by which $1,500,000 is left to seamen's charities in Glasgow, Liverpool, Manchester, Belfast, New York and Boston.

LONDON CONVEYANCES.

"Buses and cars cease running in London at 12:30 a. m. and one of the reasons why the labor men in the house of commons want earlier sittings is that they have no autos or broughams and cannot afford cabs, so would have to walk home in all weathers if the house sat late.

NOT LIKE FATHER.

While the kaiser cultivates a mustache with the well-known upward twist, his son, the crown prince, clips his straight across, toothbrush fashion. He seems to be developing an individuality of his own in other respects as well and bids fair to become the antithesis of his father.

BIRDS IN CHURCH.

Birds nest freely in the rafters of the ancient parish church at Ivychurch, Kent. During the services the birds sit to and fro from pew to pew and are often fed by breadcrumbs brought in the pockets of the worshippers.

MIXED VOWELS.

What the Oxford orator wished to say was this: "The liberals have come in on a sowing tide." Unfortunately, however, he mixed his vowels and told his hearers that "the liberals have come in on a sying toad."

ASSESSORS CORRECT FALSE IMPRESSION. Waverly-The assessors state that the article which appeared in two of the local papers last week to the effect that the assessors have largely raised the valuation on small houses and lots, and that the raise in many cases was from $200 to $500, is not in accord with the facts. They say that although the valuation of Waverly shows a large increase, the business places and fine residence properties have contributed the gain. And that they wish to correct any false impression arising from the statements which were evidently given out for the purpose of reflecting discredit on them.
