SNAKE CHARMER BITTEN BY A BOA

New Hand at the Business Is Not Tolerated by One of the Huge Snakes

The big blonde "beauty" who came here with the carnival company as a charmer of boa, constrictors, diamond-rattlers, copperheads, and overgrown milk snakes, jumped the job on Monday and departed for New "Yawk," where she will look for an engagement for the winter season.

The departure of the blonde-haired female was exceedingly regretted by her many admirers among the male persuasion in Sayre, but the snakes seemingly took her absence to heart, for when another woman went into the den last night to work the stunt one of the hideous reptiles, a huge boa, got up on his car and showed fight. The slimy monster coiled itself and showed its teeth. Then before the woman could prevent it sank its fangs into her hand. The woman's husband is the "barker" for the snake show and he came to the rescue. He placed his lips about the wound and drew the blood from it until it was snow white. The wound was cauterized and bandaged, the charmer emptied a pint or so of liquid refreshments into her system, and the show went on as usual.

SEEKING FOR MAUDE HAYNE'S MURDERER

Authorities Hope to Find Parties Who Were Responsible for Her Death

The famous case of Maude Haynes, the Susquehanna girl, who disappeared from her home early last winter, and whose body was recently found floating in the Susquehanna river at Binghamton, is still being worked upon by the authorities. It is believed that the girl was the victim of foul play, and the police have great hopes of bringing the guilty parties to justice. District Attorney Denny of Montrose, spent several days in Susquehanna last week gathering evidence, and gained some facts which are of great importance, but which he refuses to make public. He has not gained enough evidence, however, to warrant making an arrest. While investigating he failed to see one person whom it is claimed can give some interesting as well as valuable information.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. A. J. Bird of Overton, Mrs. George C. Frisbee of Orwell and E. B. Finney of Newark Valley were admitted today.

Mrs. Wm. A. Herrington of Laquin, Mrs. Marie Cramer of Montroseton, Edmund Gangley of Athens, Silas Cleveland of Covington and Willie Thurston of Athens underwent operations this morning.

Mrs. Charles Dimmock of Owego was discharged today.

Douglass Vanderpool, a West Sayre lad, played "wild west" yesterday. He had a blank cartridge and a revolver. The weapon exploded and a piece of the cartridge entered the middle finger of the right hand, inflicting a painful wound. He went to the hospital for treatment.

UNKNOWN MAN BURIED

The remains of the unknown man who was killed in the Sayre yards on Friday evening last, were buried in Potter's field at the Tioga Point cemetery this morning. Every effort was made by the authorities to locate friends or relatives of the dead man but without avail. There was absolutely no clue as to his identity. It is believed that the man had made tramping a business for years, as he carried a razor, strop, brush, etc., which is usually in the possession of knights of the road.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE CAR WHEELS

Harry Farrell Was Horribly Mutilated Near Ludlowville Saturday Night

Harry Farrell of Ithaca, who is said to have been intoxicated, met a frightful death on the Lehigh tracks near Ludlowville Saturday night. Farrell's remains were found distributed along the tracks for a distance of 20 rods. The fatality was not discovered until Sunday morning when the employees of the salt plant were enroute to their work. One of the men was in advance of the others saw lying in front of him a human heart. A short distance beyond was a kidney and then short distances apart were found pieces of the human body. The head was unrecognizable, and if it had not been for a handkerchief worn about the neck and a peculiar shaped straw hat no one would have been able to identify the remains.

Farrell had started to walk from Portland to Ithaca while drunk and was struck by a train shortly after midnight. His body was carried a distance of 20 rods and was ground to pieces.

A woman was found in Ithaca who said that she was Farrell's wife, but she refused to receive the remains. They were buried at Ludlowville yesterday.

HEVERLY-FULLER

John H. Heverly and Mrs. Eula Fuller wedded this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Murray Hall, 103 W. Pine street by Rev. M. B. Wood. After a wedding breakfast the happy couple took No. 4 for a two weeks wedding trip to West Virginia, talking in Philadelphia, Pa., Cumberland, Md., Putmansville, W. Va., and different points of interest.

"PUMPKIN" DANCE

Those having invitations to the dance to be given by the "Pumpkin society" are reminded that the event occurs in West Sayre Pharmacy hall tonight. Those who do not have clean shirts may be able to borrow of a friend, provided they have good credit.

LOCAL NEWS

Tom Murray, who hails from Carbondale, was discovered sleeping peacefully under a tree this afternoon, and as he did not awaken when approached by Chief Walsh that officer took him to the borough lockup to get sober. He will be given a hearing later.

There was a fair-sized crowd at the street fair last night, and the various shows were liberally patronized. The show will be given again tonight and tomorrow night, and if you are desirous of patronizing the home fire department, be sure and attend.

"Billy" Wild, supported by an excellent company of players presented "A Runaway Tramp" under canvas last night at the corner of Desmond and Chemung streets. The tent which has a thousand seating capacity was nearly filled, and the audience was well pleased with the performance. The specialties are alone worth the price of admission and from the hit made by the company last night the engagement of the company promises to be a successful one. "Broken Hearts" is the attraction this evening.

MUST WRITE NAMES 15,250 TIMES

President of the Council Lacey and Borough Clerk Mercereau Have a Big Job on Their Hands

President George Lacey of the Borough Council and Borough Clerk Harper H. Mercereau will realize that there is something more to holding public office than the mere empty honor when they come to append their signatures to the bonds which are to be issued to pay for the trunk line sewer to be installed this fall in this place. The bonds will be issued to cover a period of thirty years, and in order to make them valid each coupon must bear the signatures of both the president of the council and the borough clerk. The names of these officials must be written by them. Fac-simile signatures made with a stamp won't do. The law will not permit it, and therefore Messrs. Lacey and Mercereau have a job on their hands which will not excite any envy on the part of any one, when it is taken into consideration that Mr. Lacey serves as a councilman without pay, while the salary of the clerk will never make him a Rothschild or a Rockefeller.

Mr. Lacey and Mr. Mercereau will be compelled to write their names exactly 15,250 times each. At first glance this does not appear to be a very large undertaking, but when you get out your lead pencil and apply a few of the fundamental rules of mathematics it will be discovered that the job is not a small one.

Suppose that each are capable of writing their names at the rate of four per minute. At this rate they would consume 3,812 1/2 minutes of time each, or each would consume 63 hours and 32 1/2 minutes. Working at the rate of eight hours per day the work would require seven days, seven hours and 32 1/2 minutes. The probabilities are, however, that neither Mr. Lacey nor Mr. Mercereau will be able to work to exceed six hours per day on the job, in which event the work will consume over ten days of time, at the end of which both may be expected to be suffering from writers' cramp.

HARVEY GRAY'S DANCE

Harvey Gray will give a shirt waist dance in Eighmey's hall on Saturday evening. The Loomis opera house orchestra will furnish the music and a big "crowd" is anticipated. Beginning during the middle of September Mr. Gray resumes giving Saturday night dances, and it is expected that they will be as popular as those conducted by him last winter.

PICNIC POSTPONED

Owing to the inclement weather the Baptist picnic has been postponed until tomorrow. Wagons will leave the church at 9, 10 and 12 o'clock. The picnic will be held at Wildwood.
