SIZE OF BONDS TO BE CHANGED

General Opinion of Council That a $1,000 Bond Will Sell More Easily Than $100 Bond—Method of Payment Will Also Probably Be Changed

A meeting of the borough council was called for last evening but failed to materialize for lack of sufficient members to make a quorum. One matter to come before the body was a proposed change in the amount of each bond to be issued by the borough. At the last meeting an issue of $25,000 in bonds of $100 each was provided for. On more mature consideration it is the opinion of many of the members that the bonds could be sold more readily if each was made for $1,000. It was at first thought that many local parties would like one or two of the bonds, and in that event the smaller bond would be within the reach of such persons, but no one has asked for any of the bonds on that basis, nor have the members heard of anyone who desired to purchase them.

The banks and those accustomed to the handling of bonds had all expressed the opinion that the larger, $1,000 bond, could be more easily sold and that they would bring a better price than the smaller, $100 bond, owing to the extra trouble involved in handling the latter. The difference in the cost of printing would also amount to something as the would need to be only one tenth as many of the larger bonds.

The proposed ordinance also provided for 5-30 bonds, which would be payable at the option of the borough at anytime after the expiration of five years. It is thought by the majority of the councilmen that the bonds would bring a better price if the first bond was made payable at the end of five years, and one payable each year thereafter until they were all paid. They could be taken care of easily in that way, and if the majority of the bonds had a long time to run they could be more easily sold, as people with money to invest prefer to place it where they will not be bothered by being forced to find a safe place for re-investment every few years.

AT OAK GROVE PARK

One of the largest crowds that has gathered at Oak Grove park this summer was present last evening to witness the excellent production entitled "The Jealous Wife." The play was good from start to finish. The plot is sufficiently involved to make it interesting, and there is sufficient humor to keep the crowd in a happy state of mind. The performance will be repeated this evening, and deserves a liberal patronage. The specialties are all good and serve to make the time pass pleasantly between the acts. The moving pictures are of especial interest.

FIRE OUT SIGNAL

It seems that some method or signal should be blown in case of a fire to indicate when it is out or when the alarm was a false one. At the present time when an alarm is sent in the firemen are sometimes obliged to make a long run to the fire. The fire may be out shortly after the firemen leave the hose house, but they probably do not find it out until they have reached the vicinity of the fire only to find that they made the long run uselessly.

WILL SINK TEST WELLS

The contract has been let by the borough to a local party, to put down a number of test wells along the line of the proposed trunk sewer line. These wells will be put down to the depth at which the sewer will be laid, so as to give an idea of the kind of material that the sewer will be built through.

WILL ESTABLISH CARRIAGE SHOP

Planned to Move the Old Parish Building to Back End of Borough Lot and to Start Wagon Factory There

If present plans mature Sayre will have another industry in the near future. James Dyer of Athens who has run a cab shop in that village for some time past, has sold out his business in that place, and will come to Sayre and run it on a large scale.

The old Parish building stands on the borough lot, and is the property of the Episcopal church. The building is old, and of no especial use to the church, and the officials of the church are willing to sell it. Secretary Fred J. Taylor, of the Business Association, has succeeded in getting enough money subscribed by the business men of the town to purchase the building, and if the consent of the borough council can be obtained it will be moved to the back part of the borough lot by Mr. Dyer and used by him as a carriage shop. Mr. Dyer stated last night that he wanted to bring his business to Sayre, and intended to run it on a large scale, but had no place to move into at the present time. He wanted to use this building for a short time only until he could get a larger building.

He intended to ask the permission of the council at a meeting last night, but as there were not enough members present to constitute a quorum he could not get the consent of that body. The members speaking individually, however, favored the plan. It did not involve any expenditure on the part of the borough, and would give employment to a number of men.

HE TRADED HORSES

A business man in Sayre has a horse of the mustang breed that kicked the man who was taking care of him, smashing a pail at the same time; crowded him in the stable, bit him on the chin, kicked a hole in the side of the barn, raised a rumpus in a blacksmith shop, and required the combined effort of 100 men to shoe him. He traded the animal off today and it is stated that he got the worst of the bargain. How can it be possible?

FIREMEN MEET SUNDAY

A meeting of the fire board was held last evening. No business of any importance was transacted, but it was decided to call a meeting of all the firemen for next Sunday afternoon. The meeting will be held at the R. H. Sayre hose house No. 3, on the East side. All members of the fire department are urged to be present as business of importance will come before the meeting.

The case of Hart against the Loyalsock Silk Mill Co. of Dushore, has been settled. This case arose out of a claim of I. S. Hart for work and labor in building certain tables for the company. The plaintiff had attached a quantity of silk belonging to the company and which was in the hands of an agent here in Sayre. Another claim for rent was also settled.

HOME INVESTMENT THE SAFER PLAN

Beware of Fake Gold Mines
Way Out in the Wild and Woolly West—Spend Your Money Where You Can See What You Buy

And still the get-rich-quick gold mine circulars come in. The Record is in receipt of a large bunch of literature from one of its friends in Athens this morning, on the very heels of the article published in its issue of Saturday. This last installment reminds one of the bills used in a fly-by-night clothing sale. Printed in several colors of ink and in large type, the gaudy blanket sheet which is the mainstay of the collection starts right in to paralyze the reader with a bewildering flow of rainbow-hued rot. After you have read the first page you are about a thousand dollars winner if you only invest a ten spot. The other pages contain a lot of glittering generalities about the enormous profits that have been made by purchasers of mining stock, until the reader is led to believe that an investment in this particular case would net him $600,000 on an original expenditure of $625. This company is accommodating, too, for if you cannot pay cash you can buy stock on the installment plan, a penny a share a month.

The pipe-dream artist who writes this literature is a good one. Here is some of his talk: "Remember! If you act promptly you can get this stock at eight cents a share, par value one dollar, full paid and non-assessable. Remember! Development is being rushed at the mine on a vein a full mile and a half long, which, like a gold en finger, irresistibly points to the wealth below. Opened out as it is being opened, stock at anything like this present price is forever a thing of the past. Joy for those who embraced the opportunity offered, regret for those who did not purchase. Act now! Tomorrow may be too late. Send in your subscription for Frozen Dog at once and start on a money making road."

Another entrancing piece of literature in this package is a sample page or so from a newspaper said to be published on the ground, but this reprint was printed in New York. It is noteworthy that the newspaper does not contain a single word about the Frozen Dog mine.

Then there is a pink circular containing on one side a "report" from the mining engineer in charge of the Frozen Dog bonanza, and on the other side what purports to be a photographic reproduction of the great Frozen Dog mine itself. Four men standing on a pile of dirt at the side of a hand windlass, with a mountain of solid gold at the background, and a wheelbarrow at the side to lend an additional air of business to the scene!

The whole thing looks like a fake on the very face of it. In the first place, if there is really riches in a mine you can rest assured that the owners intend to work it and keep the profits themselves. Mine owners are not usually philanthropists and are not in business for the purpose of enriching the public. If they need money and really have "the goods" in their mine they need go no further than the nearest banking house to get all the funds that will be required. If you have a little money to invest and don't know where to place it, consult any banker in this valley and he will advise you where you can safely invest it at a reasonable profit right at home and where you can keep your eye on it. The writer knows a man who once bought some lots in Missouri wonderfully cheap. Finally the gentleman went out to look at his purchase and found that the property was located in the middle of the Mississippi river! The trouble with this man was that he was not from Missouri. Don't you be like him.
