FRANK MILLER

Athens—Frank Miller died at the home of his sister, Mrs. O. O. Claffin, 218 Chestnut street, Athens, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, aged 50 years. He was born in Athens and has always resided here. All day Monday he worked in the bridge works and when he went home that evening it was thought that he slipped and injured himself, he having been a sufferer from hernia. He suffered intensely the efforts of his friends to relieve him were fruitless. His father, Jas. Miller of Athens, and three sisters survive: Mrs. E. A. Depew of Litchfield, Mrs. A. L. Merrill of Elmira and Mrs. O. O. Claffin. He never married. His funeral will take place from 218 Chestnut street, Friday at 2 p. m., Rev. Allen officiating. Interment at Tioga Point cemetery.

SWIMS 30 MILES TO ESCAPE DEATH

REMARKABLE FEAT OF A HAWAIIAN FISHERMAN.

IN WATER NEARLY 17 HOURS

Boat Capsizes in Squall and His Three Companions Perish—Is Nearly Driven Mad by Crabs During Awful Experience.

Honolulu, H. I.—Edward Duvauchelle, of Molokai, is the hero of a most remarkable story of human courage and endurance and of a marvelous escape from death. The fact that he was one of the team that represented the national guard of Hawaii at the rifle shooting at Sea Girt, N. J., last fall will perhaps add some interest to the tale of his thrilling experience.

Monday night, May 28, Duvauchelle, who is a fisherman, living at Puukoo on the southern coast of Molokai, with three native Hawaiians as companions, left home in a whaleboat with a load of fish for Lahaina, Maui, about 12 miles away. They arrived there safely, sold their fish, and about eight o'clock started in a dead calm to row back. A light breeze sprang up and they hoisted sail, making the sheet fast. A sudden squall capsized them before they could ease off the sheet. The boat became waterlogged and began drifting out to sea. They were at the time a mile or two from Kaunapali landing, Maui. They made a float with four oars and the mast and with this to help them, two of the natives, at their own request, started to swim ashore to get help.

After waiting their return for three hours in vain Duvauchelle and his remaining companion, Dan Pawa, came to the conclusion that the two men had failed to reach shore, and the whaleboat was drifting still farther out to sea they decided that they would themselves attempt to reach the shore by swimming. They made a float of the boom and gaff and all that was left of the boat's gear and started. The current carried them in the direction of Napili and they were able to gradually make their way toward the shore. When within half a mile of it they discovered, to their consternation, that the current was setting against them and that in spite of all their efforts they were drifting farther away—this time in the direction of Molokai, which seemed to them to be about ten miles distant. They therefore made up their minds to swim toward the shore of that island. They seemed to be making considerable headway and by sunset were as near as they could judge by the line of breakers on the reef, four or five miles from the shore.

They had moonlight until nearly midnight when the moon set. By this time Dan Pawa was becoming exhausted and could barely keep himself afloat. Thereupon Duvauchelle gave up the float to him entirely, placing him on the middle of it and he himself swam without the assisting buoyancy of the float. When about 500 yards from the shore of a little rocky islet, Pawa was overcome with exhaustion, and bidding Duvauchelle good-bye dropped from the float, sunk and never rose. Duvauchelle succeeded about an hour later in reaching the rock and dragging himself, wounded and bleeding, beyond reach of the waves, where he fell asleep from exhaustion, not awakening until past noon the next day. Then he swam to the Molokai shore a mile away and made his way home.

When he started on his swim he had taken off his shirt, as it was a hindrance in swimming, but had kept his trousers on, so that the white skin of his legs would not attract the sharks which infest these waters. He was terribly tormented while in the water by small crabs which fastened themselves to the skin of his chest and clawed and bit him almost to madness. He was in the water nearly 17 hours and swam a distance of between 25 and 30 miles. Duvauchelle is of French and Hawaiian parentage, 38 years old, tall and powerfully built. In many respects Duvauchelle's experience is without a parallel, although there have been several somewhat similar occurrences in these waters, the comparatively narrow channels between the islands of Molokai, Lanai and Maui tempting many to cross in whaleboats and other small craft.

Pictures of Pelee. Prof. Angelo Hellprin, author of "Tower of Pelee," "Mont Pelee" and "L'Appinot's New Gazetteer," is just completing a series of paintings in oil to illustrate the features and phenomena of the eruption of Mont Pelee, which are to be exhibited publicly.

SMALL BOY STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR

Jumped off Wagon Directly in Front of Car—Injuries May Be Fatal

Waverly—Toini Ambrosino, a little Italian boy about seven years of age, was struck by trolley car 15, Randolph, conductor, and Finch, motorman, at 11:30 o'clock this morning and terribly and perhaps fatally injured.

The accident happened at Broad street at the foot of Hickey street. It is said that he jumped off the back of ice wagon directly in the path of the car. The car was stopped quickly and the little fellow was taken to Dr Gamble's office where Drs. Gamble and Tucker did all that they could to relieve his suffering. The accident caused intense excitement on the car and the screams of the women could be heard for some distance. The boy's mother, who lives near where the accident happened, was an eye witness, and the screams of the poor woman were pitiful.

The ambulance from the Packer hospital was sent for and arrived at just twelve o'clock. The mother carried the little fellow down from Dr. Gamble's office in her arms, and there were tears in the eyes of more than one of the bystanders as they witnessed the accident.

At the hospital it was found his skull was fractured, the right clavicle was broken in two places, the first and second ribs were fractured, there was a compound fracture of the left shoulder, the left leg was lacerated, one side of the scalp was nearly torn off, and there were several contusions on various parts of the body. He is not expected to live.

Beautiful Lake Keuka

Keuka is justly entitled to the reputation it bears, that of being the most beautiful lake in New York state. Its shores are lined with countless cozy cottages. Those who are unable to secure cottages, find excellent accommodations at the several large hotels at Grove Springs, Keuka and Gibsons. If you enjoy fishing, no other place offers greater attraction, the lake having been annually stocked for several years with various species of trout, black bass, pike and pickerel from the State Fish Hatchery, located but five miles from Hammondsport at the head of the lake. The season is now open and excellent catches are daily reported. Keuka Lake is reached by Erie Railroad, whose agents will gladly furnish information regarding trains, rates, etc. A beautiful illustrated booklet will be mailed on application to J. H. Webster, Div. Pass. Agt., Elmira, N. Y. 58-dly-4-1

Week-End Outings

On Saturday and Sunday from June 30th to September 30th, the Lehigh Valley Railroad will sell excursion tickets locally in New York state at low fares, which will provide over Sunday outings at a minimum cost for railroad fares. This arrangement applies generally to points in New York state east of Geneva. Ask Lehigh ticket agents for full particulars. 40-17
