A CONTINUED SUCCESS

Long continued success is not vouched to be dependent on popular favor unless undoubted merit lies behind all one's efforts. This is proven by the ephemeral character of the success attained by stage favorites. The public is a fickle mistress and will no longer stand for mediocrity or monotony and it is only the unquestioned genius that will retain public favor for any length of time. The success of Kirk Brown for a number of years past is the strongest proof of his genius as a star. With each season he has advanced the high class tenor of his plays and backs them up with an excellent supporting company and carries a sixty foot carload of beautiful stage settings. With Mr. Brown's stage experience "his public favor" gets little chance to wane, as each season he brings forth some plays that revive interest in his various engagements. An example of this will be found in Mr. Brown's selection of plays for this season. They include "The Christian," "Othello," "The Eternal City," "David Garrick," Sarah Bernhardt's version of "Camille," "A Gentleman of France," and Joseph Arthur's greatest success, "The Cherry Pickers." Mr. Brown will open a seven days' engagement at the Loomis this evening with "The Christian." Matinees will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

OFF FOR MILWAUKEE

M. J. Farrell left this afternoon for Milwaukee where he will attend the annual convocation of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which will be held August 13 to 18 inclusive. Mr. Farrell is the junior past president of the Sayre aerie, and represents this aerie as delegate. He has been honored by being named one of the executive committee, a courtesy that evidently came through Jesse Hedrick, worthy state president of the order in Pennsylvania, and an honor that Sayre aerie will appreciate. J. E. Graham, well known to many Sayre people, will represent the Towanda aerie. Each of the above named delegates will make his headquarters in Milwaukee at the Hotel Pfister.

"FAUST" AT OAK GROVE

The Bennett-Moulton Co. at the park last night gave the patrons the finest production the park has ever seen. How the play was so well done on such a small stage is past understanding. Every effect was there, the costuming was beautiful and the parts capably handled. Mr. Tidmarsh as Mephisto was very good and Miss Parks was an ideal Marguerite and played with perfect understanding. Mr. Bates as Valentine, and Mr. Linton as Faust, both did good work. Tonight the bill will be repeated and the seating capacity of the park should be tested to its utmost.

NEW STORY BY E. F. BENSON

The famous author of "Dodo," which a few years ago set the reading world agog, has written a new novel especially for The Sunday World, which begins Sept. 2. It is entitled "The House of Defense." This story will be printed in illustrated sections and completed in four issues of The Sunday World. It has never before appeared in print. This is another of The Sunday World's Great New Fiction series.

FIRST R. R. DEPOT AT SAYRE STILL EXISTS

It is Now a Part of the Old Parish Building Which Will Soon Be Made Into a Cab Shop

The work of moving the old parish building is going on rapidly. The covering over the wooden up-rights on which the building stands has been torn off and shows the sills, which are in a good state of preservation.

When the building is turned into a cab shop a part of it will have been used for three purposes. When Dr. Coleman, now bishop of Maryland, came to Sayre about 30 years ago, the building was very small. The Lehigh was then preparing to build a new station, and the old station, part of which was used as a restaurant, was moved to the place where the parish building now stands, and after cutting the church building in two parts it was placed in between them and all three spliced together, making one building. The part that was used as the first Lehigh station and the parts that were first used as the church can be plainly distinguished since the bottom part was torn off.

ARRESTED AT TOWANDA

Chief Walsh received a postal from G. C. Hollon of Towanda this morning stating that he had H. N. Baker in jail under a sentence of 30 days and costs. Baker is the man who stole a dog from Loyd's dog farm some time ago. He ordered the dog and when a boy delivered it he took the dog outside and ran away with it without the formality of handing over the cash.

YOUNG WOMAN DARES DEATH

Last season Barnum & Bailey's circus electrified blaze show goes at the annual opening in Madison Square garden by presenting for the first time in America, the French sensation known as "T auto bolide," or the "flying meteor." In New York the act was renamed "the dip of death," and, judging from the nature of the performance, the title was significantly appropriate. Last season the act was performed by a French woman. This year a plucky young American girl has essayed the feat, and experts say it is performed with even greater skill and daring than her predecessor in automobiling displayed. A review of the "dip of death" says: "This wonderful exploit has been variously described by a hundred writers, but in every instance the description has fallen far short of the thing itself. Indeed it baffles description. To many persons illustrations depicting the act resemble pictures of some impossible performance, so opposed does it look to the practical. But that is owing, as stated, to the scientific build of the apparatus. For, after making a descent down an incline, the automobile takes an upward turn, reversing its position, and thus travels in a reversed position across a wide open space until its four wheels strike the opposite section of the loop, when it rapidly runs its course to the track. In its marvelous aerial flight through the air it describes a parabola covering a space of forty feet. The "dip of death" is not the only "thriller" with the Barnum & Bailey circus. A new act, and a sensational novel one is performed by two bicyclists, who accomplish the seemingly incredible of turning aerial somersaults on their wheels. Many new acrobatic, aerial and equestrian novelties are also promised when the Barnum & Bailey circus exhibits in this city Aug. 24.

ORGAN RECITAL

There will be the following services at the Episcopal church tomorrow. Early mass at 8 a. m. Morning prayer and sermon at 10:30 Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.; evensong at 7:30. The evening service will be musical. There will be an organ prelude from 7:30 to 8 o'clock by Frederick Corby of the Greenwood Baptist church of Brooklyn, N. Y. He will be assisted by Miss Lena Grant. Mr. Corby is an organist of rare ability and it is the good fortune of the people of Sayre that they will have this opportunity of hearing him. A cordial invitation is extended to all.
