ITALIANS DRIVEN OUT OF ATHENS

Infuriated Mob Made a Clean Job of it in That Place Last Night

Athens—Last night was an exciting one for the people of Athens. Hundreds of men came from Sayre and Waverly and the inhabitants of Athens joined them down by the city hall and it soon became apparent that something was going to be done. Chief Mulligan swore in about a dozen special police and was on the alert for any unlawful proceedings. The crowd first went down Chestnut street to the Elsbree house where some of the Italians had been quartered. Mr. Elsbree appealed to the chief to protect his property and Mulligan made a speech declaring that they would arrest any man found violating the law and that private property must be protected. The leaders of the gang procured lights and went through the house but found no occupants. Then the crowd went over to North street but found no Italians there. After that they went to the railroad house across the Lehigh tracks and there found five Dagoes. They routed them out and handled some of them roughly, and they were glad to get away, promising to leave town and never come back. One young fellow was found near the furniture works. He broke and ran down across the vacant lot followed closely by those who had discovered him. He was badly frightened and could scarcely run. He ran directly into the mob, and one shot was fired. The crowd handled him rather roughly, and he was knocked down several times. A gang of several hundred surrounded him and took him up as far as the Mile Hill where a committee took him in charge, placed him on the car and took him to Waverly. Then they went to Satterlee street but found no one there after which they went to Sayre. It is evident that the men would have made a raid on the lockup for the Sciarone brothers who had had their hearing in the afternoon, and were held to court to answer for the murder, but the officers had anticipated the movement and sent them to Towanda by wagons in charge of Constable McGovern and G. P. Snell. This morning there are practically no Dagoes in town. Two of them came to the bridge works intending to go to work but they were driven away by the workmen and told never to come back. Some of them returned to their Chestnut street home in the night and got their clothes and later left town. Whether true or not it is generally believed that the men under arrest are guilty of the dastardly deed and threats have been made that revenge will be swift and sure if the law fails to punish them.

J. A. Meade and wife of Pittsburgh, who were guests of F. S. Meade, went to Burlington today.

Mrs. Howard Betchel of Philadelphia, who has been the guest of Mrs. Edith White, went to Monroeton today.

Miss Flora Atherson of Chambersburg, Pa., one of the new teachers in the high school, arrived in Athens today.

ACCUSED ITALIANS HELD TO COURT

Suspected Murderers of C. E. Messenger Splitted to Towanda to Get Them Out of Way of Mob's Vengeance

Athens—City hall was crowded full of excited people at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to witness the preliminary trial of Joseph and Dominic Sciarone charged with murdering C. E. Messenger. The hearing was before Justice H. F. Johnson, District Attorney C. E. Mills appearing for the commonwealth, and Hon. L. T. Hoyt for the defense. Night Watchman N. J. Knatesboro was the first witness called, and swore to the fact of his having been with Messenger at the timekeeper's office at 12 o'clock and his going to his supper and finding him dead when he made his rounds at 1 o'clock; also of his summoning George Peck, Chief Mulligan and others. The evidence is substantially as published by The Record on the morning following the murder.

Dr. C. L. Stevens was then called and gave a minute account of how he found the body and his examination of the wounds. The wound from the front he described as being a jagged wound at the entrance as if the hilt of the instrument had torn the skin, being an aperture 2 1/2 inches long and six inches deep, penetrating the heart. The stab in his left side was outside the ribs and had entered from the back, coming out in front about four inches from where it went in, and the back wound showed that the hilt of the knife had entered and tore it. The other wounds were insignificant, and were six in all, or seven counting the one in his left side as two. He gave as his opinion that death would be caused from the wound in his heart in two minutes and from his arm in ten minutes.

David Moore was next called; said he had been acquainted with Messenger three years, and had visited him while on duty at the bridge works nights, and that he had seen Dominic Sciarone several times come to the shops while Messenger was on duty; that there was bad blood between them, and he had heard Sciarone make the threat "I'll fix him."

Mrs. Nellie Bailey, a neighbor, residing next to the Messenger home, on Satterlee street, was next called. She gave evidence in regard to a suit case that had been stolen from the Messenger home and that they had quarreled, and she also heard Sciarone make threats that he would "do up" Messenger.

Ray Messenger, the 12 years old son of the murdered man, had heard Sciarone threaten to "fix his father."

Celia Messenger, the 16 years old daughter, said she had heard her father and Sciarone quarrel, and her father had put him out of the house; she had heard no threats and Sciarone had never called to see her; she had done two washings for Dominic and he paid her some money for it; she had not resided in Athens for the last three months.

Will Winters and Clarence Catlin were at the back window of the lockup after the persons had been arrested and one man asked Dominic what he killed Messenger for, he answered "I no kill him, but I see man do it."

This concluded the hearing, and Justice Johnson rendered his verdict, holding Dominic and Joseph Sciarone to court without bail to answer to the charge of murder, and they were taken to Towanda by wagon last night, arriving there at 9:30.

The Merrill family reunion yesterday was largely attend and proved a very enjoyable occasion. Besides the bountiful dinner, which was followed by recitations and singing, addresses were given by Rev. J. D. Bloodgood and H. F. Johnson, Esq.

Permanent Dentistry

A quarter of a century ago we placed some gold fillings in the teeth of a well known gentleman at present a resident of Sayre. These fillings today are just as bright, firm and useful as the day they were made. We will tell you the name of the party, if you wish to see him yourself.

There are variations in dental workmanship, just as there are differences in the various brands of flour. If you desire the highest degree of proficiency—the skill and knowledge that will make YOUR fillings serviceable twenty-five years from today—come in or phone for an appointment. On the other hand, if you take pleasure in having your teeth filled over and over again every year or two, you should go elsewhere—we do not do that kind of work.
