Simplified Storekeeping

What simplified spelling does for our language, simplified storekeeping does for merchandizing. The unnecessary, the expense-making features are dropped. In our business simplified storekeeping means, when you simmer it down,

Buying for Cash, Selling for Cash, One Price to All No Special Concessions for Anyone You Pay No Less Nor No More Than Others That All May Share Alike Simply the Shortest Cut from the Producer of Goods to the Consumer

No switches, no expensive credit accounts, no bad debts, no fuss or frills to swell our selling prices. We have one cashier and one manager over The Big Store, which is the equivalent of three to five ordinary separate stores. But how does that save? We know. That's why we are leaders in universally low prices, and make a new chapter in the history of merchandizing in this section of Pennsylvania and New York: It's all done under one roof. Simplified storekeeping must be a popular proposition; at least through it we find our records show a healthy gain in sales. As seasons come and seasons go we are always ready with the right merchandise at the right prices.

NOW IN PROGRESS Nobby Styles at Tag-End-of-the-Season Prices. Extraordinary values in Wash Suits for Boys up to 8, Girls, Misses, and Womens. Rare Bargains on all Small Odd Lots of Merchandise. Special to close on All Classes of Merchandise throughout the store.

You will not know what you are missing if you fail to keep in touch with the Price Regulating Merchandise Center.

Church of Rushes.
The first place of worship in western Australia was unique in two respects—the materials of which it was built and also the several purposes to which it was devoted. This remarkable building was made at Perth by soldiers, shortly after their arrival in 1839, and was composed almost entirely of bulrushes. In addition to its use on Sundays for divine worship, it occasionally served as an amateur theater during the week and during the whole time as a barracks.

Oklahoma Church Habits.
While attending church at the country schoolhouse Saturday night, says the Elk City Record, we noticed a man standing up in the center of the room (just before the services began) "load" his pipe, take a few whiffs and then walk slowly out. Another gentleman carried a pitcher of water to the rostrum, gallantly smoking a cigarette, while a lady was adorned with a "swab" protruding from her mouth during the services.

Ancient Custom.
The drinking of healths in wine or liquor of other kinds originated in Britain at the time of the rule of the Danes, before Alfred the Great finally succeeded in driving them from the land. Owing to the assassination of Englishmen by the Danes, it became a custom to enter into compacts for the mutual preservation of health and security. These compacts were usually pledged in wine, and hence the custom of drinking healths.

A man accompanied by his wife visited a merchant tailor to order a suit of clothes. The couple differed as to the material and the manner of making and the wife lost her temper. "Oh, well," she said, turning away, "please yourself; I suppose you are the one who will wear the clothes." "Well," observed the husband, meekly; "I didn't suppose you'd want to wear the coat and waistcoat."

Found Historic Stone.
A laborer in New Jersey in excavating for a monument in a cemetery dug up a meteor fragment weighing 25 pounds. It seemed to be composed of fused minerals, glass, stone and steel. It also contained a mixture of various colored stones intermingled through the otherwise gray mass.

To Be Exact.
"Of course," said Mrs. Goodart, "when you share a cake with your little brother you always give him the largest half."
"Most assuredly not," replied little Emerson, of Boston, "there being but two halves to a cake there can be no 'largest.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Literary Coincidence.
A curious resemblance has been found in Cardinal Newman's line, "The night is dark, and I am far from home," with a line in a play printed in 1599. This play is "Two Angry Women of Abington," by Henry Fortier and the original line runs, "The late and dark, and I am far from home."

SYLVESTER K. WOLCOTT

Athens—Sylvester Knapp Wolcott, aged 75 years, died at the home of W. W. Wilkinson, Orchard street, at 11 o'clock Saturday, after a long and painful illness from a complication of diseases. Mr. Wolcott was born in Litchfield township Feb. 21, 1831, and lived there until a young man, when he went west and remained for a few years. He returned to Athens 22 years ago, and was engaged in the lumber and grocery business until four years ago, when he moved out to a farm at North Waverly. His health failed and he was obliged to give up that work and a year ago moved to Waverly, where he has lived until a few weeks ago, when he was brought to the home of his brother-in-law, W. W. Wilkinson, Orchard street, where he died. He is survived by his wife and one son, Earl; also one brother, Elsworth Wolcott of Michigan, and a sister who lives at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. Wilkinson, the Rev. W. A. Kelley of the Universalist church, officiating. Interment at Tioga Point cemetery.

UNKNOWN SHOT AT NIGHT WATCHMAN

Another Attempt at Murder at the Athens Bridge Works

Athens—The bridge works was the scene of another deliberate attempt at murder last evening. G. W. Mitchell, who goes by the name of "Mitch" Wooley, by the shop hands, went into the hammer shop a little before 9 o'clock last evening, and after looking at the fires in the furnace at the western end, stepped to the outside door, and leaning his right arm against the door casing, looked out of the backyard. Just then he saw a flash and the report of a revolver, and a bullet came crashing through the doorway between his right side and the door casing. He ran out through the shop and on Main street and raised an alarm, and soon there was several gathered at the shop. On examination it was found that the bullet grazed the door casing and passed into a plank partition about six feet from where he stood. The bullet was cut out and secured and may be the means of identifying the person who fired the shot. About twenty feet from the western doorway there is a plank guard set up that forms a kind of screen with a hole through the centre. It is thought that the person fired this shot from the loop-hole and lay behind this screen to conceal himself. Immediately on firing the shot he ran off through the back way. Chief Mulligan was summoned at once, but could get no trace of the man and no motive appears to give any clue as to the design of the would be assassin.

The bridge works is now getting to be a place of deep and horrible mystery. N. J. Knaresboro is completely unnerved by the tragedy surrounding the killing of Messenger and has resigned his position as night watchman. Last night's shooting happened just as the people were returning from church and produced a scene of consternation and dread among all who passed that way.

MRS. SARAH KINGSBURY

Athens—Sarah Kingsbury, relict of the late Lemuel S. Kingsbury, died at the old homestead in Sheshequin yesterday morning, aged 83 years. Her maiden name was Sarah Osborne and she came to Sheshequin with her father, Wm. Osborne, to reside while quite young. She was married to Lemuel S. Kingsbury, February 28, 1844, and they resided on the old Joseph Kingsbury homestead that had become so celebrated as the place where so many famous personages in early times were hospitably entertained. Her husband died May 9, 1902. One of her daughters became the wife of Hon. O. D. Kinney and another was the Rev. Myra Kingsbury, who became a noted Universalist minister. All are now dead, Mrs. Kingsbury being the last of this illustrious family. The funeral will take place from her late home tomorrow at 10 a. m. burial in Sheshequin cemetery.

Bring Your Job Printing to

A quarter of a century ago we placed some gold fillings in the teeth of a well known gentleman at present a resident of Sayre. These fillings today are just as bright, firm and useful as the day they were made. We will tell you the name of the party, if you wish to see him yourself.

There are variations in dental workmanship, just as there are differences in the various brands of flour. If you desire the highest degree of proficiency—the skill and knowledge that will make YOUR fillings serviceable twenty-five years from today—come in or phone for an appointment. On the other hand, if you take pleasure in having your teeth filled over and over again every year or two, you should go elsewhere—we do not do that kind of work.
