His Lost Opportunity

"You are Mr. Blankington, are you not? Ah—my name is Switzlum. I have come at the request of Mr. Gasaway to see you about the matter that he spoke of to you several days ago. We are just about to close up the—"

"I don't want it on any terms. I'll have to ask you to excuse me." "If you don't care to pay for more than two or three shares now we can let you come in on that basis, and still have all the benefit that—as I said before, we would not want you to come in unless you did so because you saw that it was going to be to your advantage to do so—and let us say you took ten shares now and paid for—"

"No, you're simply wasting your own time and depriving me—"

"Now here is another point that I desire to have you consider. We will say that you decide to take five shares and—"

"I don't wish to take up any of your time. Mr.—Blankington, but have you considered the fact that Mr. Gasaway and the rest of us, who are back of this enterprise, could not afford to risk our reputations if—"

"Good morning, Mr.—Blankington, I'm very sorry you are unable to take advantage of this fine opportunity. Won't you think it over, and in case you change your mind within the next—"

"Unless I change my mind within the next two seconds I'll kick you down stairs. Shoo!"

"Well, I'm very glad to have met you, anyway. Sorry you couldn't see your way clear to—yes, I'll go—good morning."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MRS. CHARLES C. MILLS

Waverly—Mrs. Charles C. Mills, an old and highly respected resident of Waverly, died last evening shortly after 7 o'clock at her home at 131 Chemung street, aged 64 years. She had been ill for only a week, her death being due to catarrh of the stomach. She was an old resident of Waverly, having come here nearly 55 years ago when the part of the town where she resides was all farming land.

She was born in Orange county. Her maiden name was Julia Ellis, and when a young girl she was adopted into the family of Daniel Blizard with whom she came to this part of the country. She was affiliated with the Methodist church, having been a member for the past 52 years. She is survived by her husband, who has been seriously ill for the past year, and by three children. Two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Green and Miss Harriet Mills resides in Waverly and one son, Daniel B. Mills is principal of the schools of Theresa. The funeral will take place from the house Wednesday at 4 p.m. and the remains will be buried in Forest Home cemetery.

THE I. O. O. F. FAIR

Waverly—The result of the opening night of the Odd Fellows' fair was highly gratifying to those who have the enterprise in charge. The attendance was very good for the first night, over 300 being present. They also proved to be good spenders and about $130 was realized. It will open again this evening and will continue all this week. A good time is assured to all who attend. There will be a band concert this evening, and other amusements will be provided.

BADLY BURNED

Waverly—Helen, the infant daughter of Leo F. Hirsch of 437 Clark street was badly burned this morning about the head and neck by having hot tomatoes spilled on her. At first it was thought the burn would prove fatal, but no serious results are now anticipated.

REGULAR MEETING OF VILLAGE TRUSTEES

W. S. & A. Will Place Fenders on Its Cars—Village Will Oppose the Removal of Tracks on Chemung street. Waverly—The village trustees held a meeting last night, those present being President Lawrence, Trustees Farley, Howard and Brown. A communication was received from the W. S. & A traction company stating that 15 sets of fenders had been ordered from the largest manufacturer of fenders in the United States, and that all the cars would be equipped with them as soon as they arrived.

These fenders are the same kind that are used in most cities of the country. This is a result of the action of the Waverly trustees and the Sayre council requesting the company to place the fenders on its cars. The sum of $236 25 was ordered paid on the bonds of the Cayuta hose house.

The sum of $125 was appropriated for the use of the fire department at the annual inspection. This inspection is required each year by the state law. The amount usually appropriated has been $300, but owing to the Valley convention, $125 will prove adequate this year.

A petition for sidewalks on Liberty street was laid over until next meeting. An exempt certificate was granted to W. E. Robbins of the Hook and Ladder company. The attention of the trustees was called to the fact that the W. S. & A traction company had applied to the state railroad commission for permission to take up its tracks on Chemung street.

A resolution was passed stating that it was the opinion of the board that it would be against the best interests of the village to remove the tracks from that street, and directing the president to take the necessary steps to oppose the request of the company, and prevent the removal of the tracks.

The bid of S. C. Smith for putting down the concrete gutter on Fulton street at 24 cents per foot, was accepted. The only other bid was from the Macatee Concrete Co., of Athens, at 29 cents. A number of sidewalks in different parts of the town were ordered repaired or newly laid.

The members present then went over a large number of proposed new ordinances which will be passed upon at a meeting next Wednesday evening.
