BRUNDAGE HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Flames Broke Out at an Early Hour This Morning, and Were Probably of Incendiary Origin

The Brundage house, located on Thomas avenue, was practically ruined by fire which broke out at an early hour this morning in a most mysterious manner, and which is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Shortly after three o'clock this morning, Mrs. Charles Donlin, wife of the proprietor, was awakened by the crying of her infant child. She arose to attend to the wants of the child and while doing so discovered that the building was full of smoke. She aroused her husband and he made an investigation. He soon discovered that the fire originated in a back room on the second floor. The room had been used for storing purposes and when he opened the door a mass of flames and smoke poured through. Mr. Donlin immediately woke up the boarders and an alarm of fire was sent in. The firemen responded promptly, but a water plug at the corner of of Packer avenue and Thomas avenue failing caused considerable delay in getting one of the streams to work. After considerable trouble, however, the firemen succeeded in getting control of the flames, but not until the building had been completely water soaked and damaged to such an extent that the loss is considered total.

John Brundage, the owner of the hotel, who is also a practical carpenter, says that it will be cheaper to rebuild the hostelry than it will to repair it. The building was valued at $8,000 and Mr. Brundage carried $3,000 insurance. Mr. Donlin, the proprietor, estimates his loss at $1,500, partially covered by insurance.

During the progress of the fire sneak thieves plied their trade and succeeded in obtaining a considerable quantity of loot. A bureau drawer in Mr. Donlin's bedroom was ransacked and $65.00 taken; two razors, one belonging to C. H. Baldwin, and the other to George Reynolds, were also secured by the thieves. A gold watch belonging to Charles Harding is missing and it is presumed that other articles will also be numbered among the missing when an inventory is taken.

The fire, as stated above, is presumed to have been of incendiary origin. The room in which it broke out is a considerable distance from the kitchen stove and it could not have caught from that. It is probable that the hotel will be rebuilt.

HENRY E. DIXEY

Henry E. Dixey, America's foremost comedian, dashing, debonaire, and handsome as a boy of twenty-five, for all his skill and fame as an actor, comes to the Loomis opera house next Wednesday evening in "The Man on the Box," a comedy with which he has played over 200 nights in New York to crowded and enthusiastic audiences. This play is a dramatization of Harold McGrath's celebrated novel of that title made by Grace L. Furniss under the careful supervision of Walter N. Lawrence, Mr. Dixey's manager, and never has this splendid actor had a role which gave him a better opportunity for the display of his versatile talents nor had a play more full of wit, humor, heart interest and entrancing absorbing plot.

NEARLY DOUBLE FATALITY

Sitting on the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks, at a point about half way between the Towanda and East Towanda stations, Fred Castlebury and Raymond Wells, two young men who reside in Towanda, had narrow escapes Saturday night from horrible deaths. The young men did not get up when a freight train approached, and as the speed of the train was too great to stop, the men were knocked down the embankment, and only a miracle seems to have prevented a fatality. The men were taken to Dr. T. Ben Johnson, where their painful but not serious injuries were dressed.

JACKSON FOUND IN A LAUNDRY

Young Man Wanted Here Was Apprehended Yesterday Morning

Elmer Jackson, 18 years old, the son of Elmer E. Jackson, 302 Lincoln street, spent yesterday in the borough lockup, charged with breaking into the Star steam laundry, conducted by Charles A. Catlin on lower Desmond street.

Yesterday morning Mr. Catlin, who lives over the laundry, went to the lower floor, where he discovered evidence of the place having been broken into. A skylight in the rear of the building, which opens onto the back porch, was wide open, and a steam pipe underneath the skylight was broken in two. Thoroughly satisfied that some one had entered the building during the night, Mr. Catlin proceeded to investigate. Presently he discovered that the door to a closet under the stairs was fastened apparently from the inside. He succeeded in pushing his way in, however, and once on the inside he was somewhat startled to find a man, clad only in a shirt. The man, or boy, rather, proved to be Elmer Jackson, for whom the police have been searching the past three weeks. He had fastened the door from the inside with a piece of copper wire.

When asked by Mr. Catlin what he was doing in the building Jackson replied that he had been sleeping. He stated that he had first helped himself to eatables in the refrigerator on the back porch, and as he had no place to sleep during the night he concluded to go down through the skylight and sleep in the laundry. Mr. Catlin sent for Chief Walsh and on the latter's arrival he placed Jackson under arrest.

Jackson left Sayre about three weeks ago, taking with him a considerable sum of his father's money which he found in a bureau drawer while the members of the household were eating supper. At the time the police were notified and efforts were made to locate him, but they were unavailing until Saturday, when Chief Walsh was notified that the young man had been seen in Sayre. The chief searched the town but failed to find him until he was notified yesterday morning by Mr. Catlin that he had been apprehended in the laundry.

Immediately after he was arrested the elder Jackson was notified. He went to police headquarters and was at first inclined to enter a charge against his son, but later determined to give him one more chance. As Mr. Catlin also refused to make a complaint young Jackson was released last night. He promised to go home and go to work.

AL ADAMS A SUICIDE

Al Adams, the notorious New York policy king, who a little more than a year ago completed a term in Sing Sing, committed suicide this morning in his hotel near New York. Adams ended his life with a pistol. Adams has appeared despondent for some time. Since his release from prison he had been unable to regain his old time nerve, and it is thought that this prompted him to end his life.
