An order has been issued to equip 50 engines on the Wyoming division of the Lehigh Valley with two air pumps instead of one. This is being done so as to always have one pump in reserve in case the other refuses to work. When this provision is complied with it is said that the Wyoming will have the best equipped engines on the entire system.

ELY CONFESSES TO STATION ROBBERY

Broke Down Yesterday When Confronted By Indisputable Evidence of the Crime

When confronted in the Tompkins county jail yesterday morning by Mrs. Fred Tucker, who lives about nine miles from Ithaca on the Mecklenburg road, and who stated positively that he was the man who ate breakfast at her home on Monday morning between eight and nine o'clock, Clarence Ely, one of the men under arrest charged with stealing $1,195 from the Lehigh Valley station at Ithaca, broke down and confessed. He then agreed to accompany the officers and detectives to Watkins and show them where he had concealed the money.

Several other women who lived near the home of Mrs. Tucker identified Ely as the man who passed along the road on Monday morning. Soon after being identified by Mrs. Tucker he lost the air of self-assurance and confidence that he has assumed since his arrest.

Bryant, the operator who was on duty at the time the theft occurred, was released on $2,000 bail yesterday. It is not believed now that he was implicated in the robbery. It is expected that the officers of the company will recover all but $100 of the stolen money.

The quick work of the officers Ithaca and the company detectives is to be commended. They had their man under arrest within a few hours after the discovery of the robbery.

HEADON COLLISION OF FREIGHT TRAINS

Several Cars Were Derailed but Fortunately No One Was Injured

A headon collision on the Lehigh Valley railroad on Thursday evening between two freight trains, resulted in the destruction of several freight cars, but fortunately no lives were lost. The freight which leaves Elmira at 7 o'clock had reached VanEtten and was switching cars on the siding when the freight which passes through Ithaca from Cortland crashed into it. Several cars on both trains were derailed and the engineer and firemen on both locomotives were badly shaken up.

The Magazine Section of the New York Sunday World is alone equal to one of the ten-cent popular magazines. It is printed in color and, with the funny section added, consists of 16 large pages of text and illustration. Many thousand dollars are spent each month in the preparation of its contents. The best authors and artists write and draw for it.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Mial Lilley will receive the unqualified support of the corrupt Republican machine. Under the cover of President Roosevelt's request to vote for Republican congressmen the machine will insist that Lilley is logically entitled to Republican votes. The voter, however, will not be deceived. The voter knows that if his ballot is cast for Lilley it is simply a ballot for the perpetuity of a racially political organization which has made the state of Pennsylvania an object of contempt.

The Record believes that the interests of the people of this county will be best subserved by electing George W. Kipp to congress. Mr. Kipp is a thorough business man, a man of undoubted integrity, and can be implicitly relied upon to keep his pledges he makes in his letter of acceptance.

The Record urges its readers to carefully peruse the letter of George W. Kipp, accepting the nomination for congress in this district. It is a document which has the true ring, and which has already created consternation in the camp of Boss Lilley.

The struggle for reform in this state cannot be aided by voting for men of the Lilley stamp. He has been identified with the corrupt political machine too long to be of any use to the people.

WILL CONSULT FORTUNE TELLER

Hopes to Recover Stolen Money Through the Assistance of a Sorceress

This morning Joe Benint, accompanied by several Hungarians, left on Lehigh train No 8 for the city of Wilkes-Barre. Benint is the man who had a trunk stolen from his home about three weeks ago. The trunk contained about $675 in money, besides a quantity of women's and children's clothing. The next day after the robbery Chief of Police Walsh found the trunk on the banks of the Susquehanna river, near the new bridge. It had been broken open, the clothing was scattered on the ground, but no trace of the missing money was found.

Since the robbery Benint has made all kinds of efforts, with the assistance of the police, to get trace of the thieves, but without satisfactory results. Recently, however, Benint resolved to try another method, and this morning he went to Wilkes-Barre to consult a fortune teller of that city. The sorceress is said to have been highly successful in handing out information of this character and when Joe left the station this morning he was confident that after he has consulted the fortune teller it will only be a matter of a few days when he will recover his money. Of course it will be an easy matter for the fortune teller to give accurate information as to the location of the money. In fact the information that Joe will receive from her will be as useful to him as farrow cow.

AMMUNITION SUPPLY IS EXHAUSTED

This morning Coleman Hassler, the well known councilman from the second ward, and John Gumbert left on Lehigh train No 8 for Wyalusing. Previous to starting, Councilman Hassler visited the various business places where ammunition is sold and depleted the stock, so that it is said that there is not an ounce of shot or powder in the town at the present writing. When Hassler and Gumbert reach Wyalusing they will at once take to the tall timber in that region of Bradford county known as Lime Hill 2. It is expected that when they return this evening they will be laden with gray squirrels in great numbers, provided they can escape the diligence of the game wardens.

"STAND BY PARTY" IS LILLEY'S WALL

Bradford Republicans Ignored Crack of Machine Whip Last Election--And They Are of the Same Opinion Still

Notwithstanding the boasts of Lilley's supporters that their master can whip the people of Sayre and Athens back into line whenever he gets at it, it is very evident that the great boss himself and his small staff of friends are greatly worried at the situation in this part of Bradford county. Mial has been spending the major portion of his time in this vicinity during the last week or so in the endeavor to re-establish his old-time strength. But the effort has proved as futile as the desire was vain. It is true that he has won over a few wavering spirits and added to his force an individual or two whom his opponents are secretly rejoiced to see on the other side—for then they know just where to place them. But at the same time a quiet defection from the ranks of the men who have hitherto rolled up the old time party vote has been going on. The people of the City of the Plains have at last found Mial out, and they are determined that they will no longer be used as tools of the big boss. They are tired of palling chestnuts out of the fire for him, and declare that hereafter they will take no orders from anyone, but will vote as they see fit. The people of Sayre, Athens and South Waverly form one of the most progressive, intelligent and self-respecting communities in the state, and it is unworthy of their high standing to do the bidding of Boss Lilley, or any other boss.

As a matter of fact, the people of the whole county—yes, the whole district and the whole state—are throwing off the yoke of bossism. The movement is one that every citizen should support heartily without reference to any previous condition of party servitude into which he may have been drawn. The man in this county who boasts that he always votes the straight Republican ticket is becoming a decided curiosity. Just for example, how can the Republicans of Athens township consistently advance any such claim when, at the last election, the Democratic candidate for sheriff received a unanimous vote in that district? Look at the magnificent vote this same candidate received in Sayre and Athens! The Republican candidate for the shrievalty possessed every attribute that makes a man a good citizen, yet he was overwhelmingly defeated. Consider the result of the Republican primaries that preceded the last election. Hon. L. T. Hoyt, one of the members of the Legislature who, in accordance with the unwritten law of Bradford county Republicanism should have been re-nominated for the second term,—a young man of great ability, considerable attainments and wide acquaintance, defeated by a veritable avalanche of ballots! The machine adherents professed to ask the reason for Mr. Hoyt's defeat, but deep down in their hearts they knew before the thought found audible expression. Mr. Hoyt failed of re-nomination because he was backed by the boss, and the same reason accounted for Mr. Coddling's defeat. Resentment against the state machine took the form of a majority in this county for Berry, Democratic candidate for state treasurer. With this independence in voting before one, how can it be argued that the end of Lilleyism and machine rule is not in sight? And what folly for the boss to have exclaimed to a newspaper man at Sayre a few days ago, "Tell your people that I'll skin 'em to the queen's taste!"

The blind worship of party name is largely responsible for the reign of bossism throughout the whole country. And yet the boss is without party principle. His only motive is self-interest, pure and simple, and he merely uses the party name as an auxiliary toward accomplishing his own selfish purposes. The party flag is waved to inflame the prejudice of the voter and render him oblivious to the promptings of sober second thought. But no matter how vigorously the banner may be flaunted in the face of the party man, no matter how imperiously the dictator may command him to bow down to the party idol, the time will come when this party man will rend the banner and destroy not only the idol but the one who has ruled him. It is this spirit that has reduced the one-time Republican majority of Bradford county from 5,000 to the point where it is often a very doubtful quantity, and occasionally a minus quantity.

The Record believes that there are just as many Republicans in Bradford county today as there were twenty years ago, but their feelings have been so outraged by bossism, as exemplified in Lilleyism, that they do not blindly follow the party flag as they once did. It is evident that the people are waking up to this fact, and it is no wonder that the boss is worried, for his sole hope of success lies in the old, old appeal to party prejudice. We say all honor to the people of this county for their revolt against demagogism, and all honor to the voter everywhere who has the courage to select his own candidates without dictation from any boss!
