Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Saw Grand Contest For Third Annual Vandorbilt Cup Race at Nassau County Circuit on Long Island. NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Belching blue sames from its exhaust pipes like some emon menster of the lower world, the 110 horsepower Darracq racer, guided by the master hand of Wagner of the French team, thundered across the finish line at Westbury, N. Y., the winner of the third annual Vanderbilt cup race over the tertuous Nassau county cir-

After the closest and most thrilling contest ever recorded in the annals of automobile road racing in this country or perhaps in any other Wagner snatched the paim of victory from Lancia of the Italian team, who piloted a 120 horsepower Fiat, by the small margin of 3 minutes 18 2-5 seconds. Lancia in turn was only 16 seconds ahead of Duray of the French team, who drove a 120 hersepower Lerraine-Dietrich car. Fourth to finish was Clement of the French team, who piloted a 100 horsepower Bayard-Clement, while fifth came Jenatzy of the German team in a 120 horsepower Mercedes. So close was the finish between these five cars that at the beginning of the last lap any one of them had a good chance to

This time is just a trifle slower than that made by Hemery last year, when he wen the race in an eighty horsepower Darracq and averaged 61.51 miles an hour.

It was the general opinion, despite the strong leaning of the crowd to-

Wagner will be remembered as the team mate of Homery in the last Vanderbilt cop race, which was won by the latter with a Darracq car.

Wagner won the French Chateau-Thiery and Gaillon races, which were run up a steady incline, with many rocks and sharp turns that taxed the nerves and skill of the drivers to the During the greater part of the year

1904 Wagner spent his time in the French army. Among the five to finish there was

net one American car. Le Blen, driv-ing a Thomas, made the best showing. He was No. 8 at the conclusion of the ninth lap and was still running when the race was called of. Lawwell was dropped from the score board after the fourth round. The race was not without its fatalities, as Shepard, who piloted the 180 horsepower Hotchkiss car, the highest powered racer in the contest, ran down and killed a venturesome spectator named Kurt Gruner of Passalc, N. J., who wandered out on the course near Krug's corner, while Wellischott, in one of the big Fiats, ran wild on the steep Manhasset hill and, ditching and wrecking his machine, fatally injured a boy. Weillschett and his mechanic, though badly bruised and atunned, escaped as if by a miracle.

After the race William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the donor of the trophy, said: "I am convinced that it is not advisable to held a race of such importance as that just completed near a large city unless military protection is furished to keep the crowds back."

Jefferson De Mont Thompson, the hairman of the racing board, said: "Mr. Vanderbilt and myself were both surprised that there was not recorded a larger number of fatalities because of the manner in which the crowds behaved. It was almost miracnlous that hundreds were not killed. We are deeply shocked and grieved over the loss of one life.

"The cup will go to France, that ountry having won it three times. This race will be, I presume, the last race of like importance contested

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 8.-As a result of ill feeling following the recent sheeting of Robert Colum, a negro, who conducted an undertaking establishment in Argenta, a city across the Arkansas river from Little Rock. John Lindsey, a white man, father of the man who was suspected by the negroes of having been implicated in the killing of Colum, was shot and killed there, and his son, Milton Lindsey, was

The shooting, Milton Lindsey alleges, was done by Garret and Charley Coum, brothers of Robert Colum. The fight took place in an undertaking establishment conducted by the Colum brothers. Following the shooting officers went to the scene, but were fired upon by the negroes, who had barricaded the doors. They then turned out the lights and made their escape through the rear. A crowd of several bundred armed men gathered and the place was dynamited. Then the posse entered the building. One of the negroes escaped, but the other was lynched.

Senside Resort Visited by Fire Which Caused $30,000 Loss. CAPE MAY POINT, N. J., Oct. 8 .-Fire which originated last night in the Packham cottage destroyed $50,000 worth of property before it was placed under control with the aid of the Cape

May fire department.

The fiames spread quickly from the Packham cottage to the Cape House and thence to two cottages owned by Mrs. Enoch Supple, the cottages of Mrs. John Kromer, Mrs. John Bain, William Porter, John Springer and Mrs. John Manges. From the latter cottage the fire spread to the public school building, but this structure was but slightly damaged.

The buildings which were complete ly destroyed were the Packham cottage and the Cape House. Assistance which had been asked of Cape May reached here about the time the flames were tearing their way into the cottage district, and by yeoman service the fire fighters from that city saved the other buildings from destruction, although all of them were badly damaged.

Dowell, a prominent local newspaper man, was shot and killed here by John Quirk because of attentions to his stepdaughter, Miss Bessie Squires. The shooting occurred at the Quirk residence just as Dowell and the young woman were entering the house. One bullet was fired which took effect in Dowell's brain. Quirk awaited the arrival of the officers and was taken into custody. Dowell was taken to the city hospital, where he died in a few minutes.

BUFFALO, Oct. S. - William Rapdolph Hearst fluished his present speaking tour in this city with a meeting in the convention hall where teu days ago his name was placed at the head of the Democratic state ticket. The hall was filled practically to its capacity.

William J. Conners, chairman of the Democratic state committee, called the meeting to order, and Charles F. Tabor, former attorney general of the state and formerly law partner of William F. Sheehan, presided. Mr. Hearst said in part:

"The Independence league and the Democratic party are house cleaning. and out of every dark hole and dirty corner come political cockroaches and corporation croton bugs and wary old rats of Wall street that swarm into the Republican establishment next door. We are not sorry to see them They go because they bate the bright light of publicity and the pure air of honesty."

Classifying Alton B. Parker as a "po litical cockroach," Hearst reiterated his former charge that he was a "typical corporation attorney," adding:

"Judge Parker has replied to this statement by the assertion that he did not receive any money from McClellan for representing the election criminals. He calls that a denial. I call it a confession. He received no money from McClellan, but he does receive $50,000 a year as attorney for the Belmont interests, and as attorney for those corporations, therefore, he appeared in de fense of McClellan and the election thleves of New York."

Mr. Hearst slluded to the statement attributed to H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oll company that Mr. Hearst "would not sufficiently well serve the large business interests" and declared that the Standard Oll system had been made the greatest financial power in this country by criminal evasion of the base running and McIntyre's hitting ruption in American public life than all the other evil influences in politics. He added: "I shall be glad to promote the proper

Mr. Hearst then paid his respects to Tammany Democrat and now is blinking beadily back into the Republican rat hole where he belongs." He con-

This year he has scrambled across to the Republican house and there represents Mr. Ryan and stands sponsor for Hughes."

ensation was created in business circles here by the announcement that Mrs. Frank Walker, who lives in a fine house on Squirrel bill, the most fashionable residence district in the city. had entered suit before Aldermen Toole and King against Peter F. Mc-Cool, the millionaire oil man, who is interested heavily in the Pressed Steel Car company, charging him with desertion and nensupport. McCool lives in an equally handsome home in Butler, thirty miles from this city, with his wife and their son, fourteen years old. Mrs. Walker-er Mrs. McCool, as she demands that she be called-says under oath that she was married to McCool on June 19, 1904, in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension in New York and that her attorney, John Marron, has her marriage certificate. McCool married his Butler wife in Philadelphia nineteen years ago. She was Miss Elizabeth Morley, a prominent young woman of that city, and she asserts that she and her husband have been living together constantly since that time, although McCool was compelled to be away from home a great deal on account of his many bustness interests. Mrs. Walker was the widow of Frank Walker, a lake engineer, who was drowned when, she alleges, she married McCool. She says they lived happily together until six months ago, when he deserted her, and has not since contributed to her support. Mrs. Walker asserts that she does not wish to prosecute McCool and for that reason has entered no more serious charge against him. All she wants, she says, to have him back. She admits that she has heard of the Butler wife, but is satisfied to let the matter drop if McCool comes back to her. She says she agreed to resume the name Walker when she heard of the Butler wife in order not to cause her husband any embarrassment.
