FINE DOG IS STUNG TO DEATH BY ANGRY BEES

Caught Fast in Trap Near Log Used as Hive Animal Could Not Escape.

Carver, Ont.—Patrick Rooney, who has a farm six miles northeast of here, lost a valuable collie dog recently in a most unusual manner. The animal was a female and was such a great pet of the farmer that he buried her in a basket such as would be used for a child.

Rooney is a hunter and trapper as well as a farmer, and on his expeditions Sally, the collie, was his constant companion. The dog had been taught to retrieve his game, run foxes and make herself generally useful. She knew where all the traps were set as well as did Rooney, and on more than one cold morning last winter she made the trapper's rounds for him, barking excitedly at the door when she found game, and taking her master to the trap containing it.

At night Sally had the range of the farm, and so when about two o'clock one morning Rooney heard her barking, he concluded that she had discovered a skunk and was keeping it away from the hen house. He therefore turned over to sleep. But the barking kept up and after a time Rooney became thoroughly awake and realized that his pet was in trouble.

Getting into his trousers and grabbing his rifle he hastened across the meadow to the edge of the woods whence the sounds came and blundered upon the dog, caught by the foot in a forgotten mink trap, set months before. As he bent over to release the spring Rooney heard an angry buzzing in the air and felt as though he had been pricked by a thousand needles.

He instantly realized that he was beset by a swarm of bees and that they were stinging the dog to death. He worked desperately and released Sally and then, taking her in his arms, fled to the shelter of his house, followed clear to the door by the bees. Sally seemed to rally for a time, but at daylight she died and Rooney was heartbroken. He later found that the bees had lived in a log to which he had fastened the chain of the trap. When Sally pulled on the chain she brought them out.

"SUITING THE HARD TO SUIT MEN"

The harder a man is to please with Clothes, the harder he is to fit, the more fastidious he is as regards style and detail in general, the more anxious we are to have him come here for his Fall and Winter suit. We want the hard to suit man to come with all his Notions and Ideas.

We believe we have an agreeable surprise in store for him. The price range on our suits runs something like this: $8, $10, $12, $15, $18, $20 to $22. You'll note that these prices are about half what the custom tailor ask you, and he could not give you a better suit if he tried, and tried, and tried.
